PAROLE PLEA BEARS NAME OF MIKE KINNEY

State Senator Declares He Knows Nothing About
Two Letters Written to Michigan Board.

CONVICT'S SPONSOR SUPPORTS HIS DENIAL

But Employee in E. G. Stubley's
Office Told Reporter Who Made Inquiry to
'See Mike Kinney.'

State Senator Michael Kinney, who is listed in records of the Parole Commission's office at Lansing, Mich., as one of several St. Louisans who wrote letters recommending a parole for Isadore Londe, former Egan gangster, told the Post-Dispatch he knew nothing about the parole and had not assisted in obtaining it.

The recent failure of that concern is being investigated by Michigan and Federal authorities because of testimony by Morris Londe in a bankruptcy hearing Tuesday to the effect that he withdrew $50,000 of the firm's assets and gave it to Londe on the latter's representation that it was to pay for Isadore's parole.

The parole was sponsored by Ernest G. Stubley, head of the Voluntary Association, a welfare organization with offices at 1520 Chestnut street. A reporter was told there was no employee during Stubley's absence last Monday, to "see Mike Kinney. He knows all about it."

"Never heard of it," Kinney said when seen at his office in the Calumet Building that day, Senator Kinney said.

"I never heard of the Londe parole. To the best of my recollection I was never asked to sponsor or recommend it, or have anything to do with it in any way. I am at a loss to know why Stubley's office should have referred you to me."

Inspection today of the Michigan Parole Board file on Isadore Londe disclosed two letters signed with Kinney's name. One, on the stationery of "Michael Kinney, Attorney-at-Law, Calumet Building, St. Louis, Mo.," was dated Nov. 1, 1935, and written with a pen. The text follows:

"J. C. Armstrong, Commissioner, Lansing, Mich. Dear Sir: In reference to Isadore Londe No. 28297, the Parole Board Company, 905 Washington street, St. Louis, Mo., is a reliable and if any consideration give this matter I am sure it will help this young man to regain his right path. Yours M. KINNEY."

The other letter, also written with a pen, is on the Missouri State stationery of Kinney. It is dated Nov. 28, 1937, showing that Kinney was endeavoring to aid Londe as far back as nine years ago. This letter was addressed to the Chairman of Paroles and Pardons at Lansing and requested Londe's transfer from the Marquette prison to the one at Jackson. The text follows:

"The matter of Isadore Londe, now confined at Marquette prison. Would like it possible to have him transferred to Jackson prison. The reason for this request is, the young man has a real aunt residing in Jackson, and the mother is better able to make visits to Jackson than Marquette. If you can consistently make this transfer, the same will be appreciated. Awaiting your reply, I am yours truly, MICHAEL KINNEY, 1111 Calumet Building, St. Louis."

Stubley's Comment.
When finally seen by a reporter, Stubley said he, too, was at a loss to understand why anyone in his office should mention Senator Kinney's name in connection with the Londe parole.

"Senator Kinney had no connection with that parole," said Stubley. "He is a member of our Advisory Board, but I did not discuss Londe with him, nor did he ever make a suggestion to me about Londe."

In response to questions, Stubley said a parole for Londe was first mentioned to him by Louis Londe about a year ago, and it was at the request of Londe that he wrote to and subsequently visited the commissioner's office in Michigan in behalf of Isadore.

On being told at Lansing that a parole would be considered if a number of responsible St. Louisans would recommend it in writing, Stubley said he obtained such letters from a number of prominent St. Louisans, but he had them sent direct to the commissioner. He said he obtained several of the letters himself, while changes King Edward had made in the highland estate, where he roams about unannounced.

NO PROVISIO FOR REGISTERING SICK OR ABSENT IN COUNTY

Those Who Fail to Get Names on Books Lose Votes Through Omission in Law.

Voters in St. Louis County who, because of illness or absence from the county, fail to register at their polling places on Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday of next week will lose their vote in the presidential election Nov. 3, J. C. A. Hiller, Democratic member of the County Election Board, said today.

Due to haste in preparation of the permanent registration law, enacted last year and now in effect in the county, members of the committee working on it neglected to include a provision for special registration of persons unable to get to the polls on the days fixed, Hiller said.

The law will not have to be amended on this point, he added, as in the future voters will be permitted to register at the Election Board offices throughout the year, except for five-week periods just before elections, Hiller said.

He thought it likely not more than 100 persons would be affected by the defect in the law.

26 ARMY AIRPLANES FLY OVER CITY IN FORMATION

Ships Head for Fort Leavenworth After Stopping Overnight at Scott Field.

Twenty-six airplanes, part of the Second Wing of the General Headquarters Air Force, en route to Fort Leavenworth, Kan., for maneuvers, took off from Scott Field at 7:30 o'clock this morning after stopping overnight because of rain and fog.

The ships, from Langley Field, Va., and Selfridge Field, Mich., passed over St. Louis in formation. They carried 74 men and included 12 Martin bombers, 12 Boeing pursuit ships and two Fairchild transports. Gen. Henry C. Pratt was in command.

On their return Saturday or Sunday, the ships will refuel at Scott Field.

U. S. EMBASSY IN MADRID IS CLOSED TO REFUGEES

Those Who Refuse to Leave Spain Are Ordered to Get Out of Building.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—The American Embassy in Madrid was closed Tuesday as a place of refuge for Americans in the Spanish capital, but remained open for business.

Eric C. Wendelin, Charge d'Affaires, notified the State Department of this yesterday. The action was taken in accordance with a warning given Sept. 15 to 35 American citizens who had been sheltered for some time in the Embassy. They were told then that those who persisted in refusing to take advantage of means of escape from Spain would be required to leave the Embassy.

KING STARTLES ABERDEEN WITH UNANNOUNCED VISIT

Edward Arrives Informally to Meet Guests on Way to House Party at Balmoral.

ABERDEEN, Scotland, Sept. 24. King Edward VIII, dressed in gay plaids, came down from the highlands last night to meet his guests—Mrs. Ernest Simpson, who motored to Balmoral, and Mr. and Mrs. Herman L. Rogers of New York. King Edward met his guests informally.

The visitors were escorted into the castle, where they joined other members of the royal house party, including the Dukes and Duchesses of York, Gloucester, Kent and Marlborough. Queen Mary remained in London.

The King's unannounced visit to Aberdeen startled the populace. Old retainers at Balmoral Castle have pressed surprise at the many changes King Edward has made in the highland estate, where he roams about unannounced.

WITNESS ASSERTS BLACK LEGION DEMANDED DEATH

Member Says Those at Secret Society Meeting Howled for Shooting of Charles Poole.

SUPPORTS STORY OF EXECUTIONER

Perjury Charge Filed Against One of Men Who Testified for Defense and Disappeared.

By the Associated Press.
DETROIT, Sept. 24.—Emerson Becker testified today at the trial of 12 men charged with the Black Legion killing of Charles A. Poole, WPA worker, that members of the secret society, meeting a few hours before the shooting, had howled for Poole's death.

Becker's testimony corroborated Dayton Dean's version of even's preceding the crime, and disputed the stories of Harvey Davis and Edwin D. Lee, two of the defendants, that Dean was the sole instigator of the death plot.

Becker said he attended the meeting with Elmer Anderson, who is being sought on a perjury charge, as a result of his testimony for the defense yesterday. Becker testified today for the State.

"Davis was presiding at the meeting," Becker said. "We saw Dean hand a note to Davis, and Davis said, 'Fellows, what do you think of a Catholic so-and-so who beat his wife and got drunk and kicked her so she had to go to a hospital?'"

"Everybody was yelling," Becker said. "There was a lot of yelling. Some of them wanted to beat up this fellow. Some said to kill him. Everybody was yelling and hollering. I thought a fellow like that ought to be killed, but I didn't say anything."

"Davis asked for some volunteers to go out with Dean and Lee to get this fellow, and after a while they brought him in and it was Poole, Davis said. 'Any of you fellows who want to know what happens, just come along and follow us.'"

Becker said he and Anderson followed the automobile caravan, but did not reach the country road where Poole was shot to death by Dean, confessed executioner, nor came along and follow us."

The accusation of wife-beating against Poole has been shown to be false, police guard was assigned to protect Becker later when he expressed fear of attack by Black Legion members.

"I told the truth on the witness stand," Becker said. "I had to violate the legion oath to do it. There were some legion men back there in the courtroom and I know it. My life isn't worth two cents. I was a member, you know. They'll get me."

Anderson had been missing since the grand jury investigation and after testifying yesterday, he again disappeared. Assistant Attorney General Chester P. O'Hara instructed police and sheriff's deputies to arrest him.

Judge Moynihan, calling attorneys into his chambers as a recess, said "I cannot permit testimony of the witness Anderson to remain on the record. He palpably committed perjury either in this court or before the grand jury."

Grand Jury Testimony.

The Judge referred to Anderson's grand jury testimony, read at the trial, in which he supported the State's contention that Poole's killing was plotted at a meeting in Findlater Hall. On the stand yesterday, he testified he attended the meeting, but declared he did not hear anyone suggest that Poole be killed.

Anderson and Becker appeared in the courtroom as the session opened. "The organization found them," said Bernard W. Cruse, defense attorney. "The Black Legion keeps track of all its members." Under questioning of Cruse, Anderson said he had left Detroit to find work in Chicago.

Confronted by O'Hara in cross-examination, Anderson first stated he had given false testimony before the grand jury because he feared police brutality. Called on to decide whether he had testified falsely before the jury or was doing so on the stand, he stated his grand jury testimony against the defendants was true in its principal points.

Courtroom Cleared.

In the first demonstration since the trial began, a group of men stamped and clapped their hands as Lee testified in his own behalf that police beat him to force a confession. Judge Moynihan ordered

CITY REGISTRATION TO END TONIGHT; RECORD INDICATED

309,901 Enrolled in 3 Days Against 282,503 Four Years Ago.

110,233 SIGNED BOOKS YESTERDAY

If Increase Is Continued Today, Total Will Go Over 400,000, Exceeding High Mark of Last June.

Registration of St. Louis voters for the presidential election of Nov. 3 will end at 9 o'clock tonight, when all of the 670 precinct polling places will close after a four-day enrollment period. No one not registering by tonight will be permitted to vote in November, except that persons who have been unable to register because of sickness or absence from the city may be enrolled at the Election Board office up to Oct. 20.

The number enrolled today will determine whether the 1936 registration is to be, as indicated by the figures of the last three days, the largest on record in St. Louis.

The police report of this morning's registration showed, for the first four hours from 8 a. m. to noon, 23,891 enrolled. This is a larger number than shown by the corresponding reports for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday mornings.

Added to the 309,901 enrolled on the first three days, this morning's figure makes a total of 333,792 up to noon today, to which are to be added those registering between noon and 9 o'clock tonight.

The number for the first three days, 309,901, was a large increase over the total for the first three days of the presidential registration of 1932, which was 282,503.

Yesterday, the third day, the number was 110,233, compared with 102,365 on the third day, in 1932. The registration of Monday, according to the corrected figures issued by the Election Board today, was 94,074, as compared with 88,094 on the first day of the 1932 registration, which was 105,594, compared with 91,234 for the second day in 1932.

In 1932, the fourth day was the heaviest of the four, with 104,742 enrolled. The total registration in 1932 was 387,245. The number of registrants is much below that of the last three days, the 1936 figure will go over 400,000, exceeding not only the 1932 registration, but that of last June, for the Aug. 4 primary which was 394,774.

The record here up to this time, the June registration was found to be heavily tainted with frauds, exposed in July by the Post-Dispatch, and in a check-up made by Election Board canvassers, 46,252 "not found" names were reported.

Increases are normally expected in the quadrennial registration for the presidential election, which has in the past been higher than that of intermediate registrations, with the exception of last June. At intermediate registrations, the clerks' canvass, when accurately made, will usually strike off more names than are added by new enrollments. Failure of canvassing clerks to perform their duty properly was a chief factor in last June's fraud.

Increases yesterday over the third day registration of 1932 extended through most of the wards, and the big Twenty-fourth Ward had 16,073, to 8,837 on the third day in 1932. The Third Ward showed a figure slightly below the corresponding day four ago, 2331 to 2375. The Fourth, Jimmy Miller's ward, had 2639, compared with 2350 in 1932. In Senator Mike Kinney's Fifth Ward, the comparison was 1921 to 1835. The Twenty-eighth, West End residence ward, was behind its figure of four years before, 4229 to 4284.

Rights of Those in Institutions. In institutions supported wholly or in large part by relief funds, to vote, has been raised, and is believed to involve 500 or more persons. The Election Board has ruled, as to Ozanam Shelter and other such institutions, that the precinct judges shall permit their residents to register, but that the question whether they shall remain on the lists must be determined by legal authority. The board intended to ask the City Counselor for an opinion, in view of the State law which excludes from voting those persons who are public charges in institutions supported by taxation.

Alderman L. E. Couplin of the Twenty-sixth Ward today sent a telegram to Roy McKittick, Attorney-General of Missouri, asking for an opinion on the voting rights of about 100 women living at St. Louis Woman's Shelter, 903 Aubert avenue.

"The Shelter," Couplin said in his message, "is supported by funds."

A. S. Ailes, Vice-President of Lake Erie Chemical Co. Tells LaFollette Committee About Sales.

ST. LOUIS STRIKES "TOO PEACEFUL"

Agent So Described Them—Plan to Put Gas in Pennsylvania Mines to Curb Bootleg Miners.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—The sale of modern weapons and munitions to be used against strikers was described in profuse and colorful detail before the La Follette Civil Liberties Committee today. That it has become an important business was made plain by the testimony.

Late yesterday the committee heard the veteran strikebreaker, Sam (Chowderhead) Cohen, and others tell how live steam and water charged with electricity were used against strikers. Today's evidence dealt with tear-gas equipment, and disclosed tear-gas salesmen, one of them stationed in St. Louis, expressing their ardent hopes for bigger and more violent strikes.

The testimony revealed that Col. J. J. Johnson, a cavalry reserve officer of the Ohio National Guard, was employed by the Akron (O.) rubber companies to drill guards in the art of private industrial defense. Through all this testimony ran the story of keen competition between the firms engaged in manufacturing and selling munitions.

Covering Up Buyers.

The Lake Erie Chemical Co. of Cleveland, which makes arms and explosives for foreign as well as domestic markets, was described as the strong rival of Federal Laboratories, Inc., of Pittsburgh. The latter is a subsidiary of the Railway Audit & Inspection Co., which supplies labor spies and strikebreakers, as well as arms and munitions.

A highlight in the hearing was the disclosure of a plan to plant gas in hundreds of Pennsylvania coal mines now being worked by "bootleg" miners. The plan was devised by a gas manufacturer and adopted by a group of anthracite coal operators, in the face of a warning that it might result in serious injury or death to the miners.

In many instances, the evidence showed, tear gas and similar supplies ostensibly consigned to police officers or private industrial defense forces, were actually sold to industrial plants. Among those named as purchasing supplies under such blinds were the Anaconda Copper Co. at Butte, Mont., and Chevrolet Motor Co., Flint.

The shipment went to the Manufacturers' Association.

Testimony that his firm had sold almost $500,000 worth of gas and equipment to corporations and individuals between 1932 and 1934 was given by A. S. Ailes, vice-president of the Lake Erie Co.

Dangerous Grenades. Ailes described different types of gas equipment manufactured by his firm, including a "K. O. gas," which causes "violent nausea and severe headaches and a sense of suffocation," lasting sometimes for an entire day.

Explosive grenades, which might cause "severe injury" to any person within 15 feet, were sold with a warning that they should not be thrown into crowds unless "drastic treatment" was desired, Ailes said.

He said that total sales of gas and equipment by his firm between 1932 and 1934 amounted to about $710,000, of which 35 per cent was sold to corporations or individuals.

"Do you have any means of knowing that these munitions will remain in the hands of the people to whom you sell them?" LaFollette asked. "We have not after we deliver it; we don't know where it goes."

Commissions on Tear Gas.

E. E. McGuffin, head of the National Corporation Service, which provides labor espionage and strikebreakers, told how he officiated during a strike at the Columbia Stamping & Smelting Co., Terre Haute, a few years ago.

Asked whether he received any commission on the sale of tear gas to his client, McGuffin was at first unable to remember. Under prompting, however, he recalled that he introduced officers of the Lake Erie Chemical Co. to officers of the Terre Haute firm, and thereafter received a check for $373.60 from the Lake Erie Co.

"Was there a regular arrangement about such commissions?" LaFollette asked. "Oh, something like that," McGuffin replied.

LOYALISTS BREAK DAM, FLOOD TOWN IN EFFORT TO HALT ADVANCE ON MADRID

Witnesses at Labor Inquiry

VILLAGE REPORTED WIPED OUT WEST OF THE CAPITAL

Large Supply of Military Goods Destroyed by Inundation at San Martin de Valdeiglesias, Government Announces.

PLACE INTENDED AS REBEL BASE

Fascist Northern and Southern Armies Have Been Ordered to Meet There for Offensive—Fighting Continues Elsewhere.

(Copyright, 1936, by the Associated Press.)
MADRID, Sept. 24.—The Government announced today that its troops had loosed the water of Alberche Dam over San Martin de Valdeiglesias, scheduled point of convergence for Fascist armies, 40 miles west of the capital.

The Government said it thought the town had been destroyed, and with it considerable amounts of insurgent guns, trucks, horses and mules.

Bridges over the Alberche River, in the path of the flood, were thought to be indispensable to the insurgent advance on Madrid.

The Alberche River skirts San Martin de Valdeiglesias on the north and east, separating it from both the Madrid and Toledo battle sectors. Following a wide arc, it empties into the Tago River just east of Talavera de la Reina, insurgent stronghold.

The official radio station ordered all militiamen in Madrid to report to barracks and their drivers to stand by at garages for orders.

Virtually all able-bodied men between the ages of 18 and 45 were drafted to the defense, meanwhile. Fresh detachments were recruited from among the unemployed and refugees from other war zones. They were put through hasty drills to be rushed to the southwestern front. Truckloads of others filled the highways to the south.

Four Insurgent Columns Advancing Toward Toledo.
MADRID, Sept. 24.—Four insurgent columns, after brief rests, pushed on toward Toledo today. The advance guard surrounded the village of Barco de Tago, 13 miles from their objective.

Reliefs was stated to be the last settlement between the insurgents and Toledo in the direct route from Torrijos.

The march was resumed after a short respite, granted by officers after the capture of Maqueda. Torrijos was made headquarters for this offensive.

Order to Rebel Armies for Uniting West of Madrid.
(Copyright, 1936, by the Associated Press.)
BURGOS, Spain, Sept. 24.—Headquarters of the Fascist rebel provisional government announced today that the Northern and Southern rebel armies had been ordered to unite west of Madrid for the offensive on the capital.

Fascist artillery and infantry, concentrated on the northern mountainous slopes of the Guadarrama, laid siege to fortified positions held by Government militiamen near Somo Sierra, Northern gateway to Madrid.

Other insurgent batteries and troops, farther west in the mountains, attempted to break through to meet a Southern column marching north from Maqueda, highway junction 45 miles southwest of Madrid.

The second Northern group was ordered to meet the Southern column in the vicinity of San Martin de Valdeiglesias, 40 miles west of the capital.

Another Fascist attack was centered on the highway running northeast between Talavera de la Reina, Maqueda and Madrid. The attackers were reported within 20 miles of Navalcarnero, which is only 20 miles from Madrid.

The last official report to Burgos headquarters put the insurgents at a short distance between Maqueda and Maqueda, the Fascists' forces apparently slowed by strong Government defenses near Santa Cruz del Retamar.

ROOSEVELT CONFERS WITH PARTY LEADERS

Garner, Byrnes, Farley, Among 27 at Hyde Park Campaign Meeting.

By the Associated Press.
HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sept. 24.—Twenty-seven men high in Democratic councils came to the summer White House today to discuss with President Roosevelt every angle of his re-election campaign. The conferences began late today.

Vice-President Garner and three Cabinet officers—Secretary of State Hull and Secretary of Commerce and Labor—were among the group summoned here for the late afternoon discussion of presidential speech-making, finances and general party strategy. Others scheduled to participate were Senators Robinson of Arkansas, Byrnes of South Carolina, O'Mahony of Wyoming and Donahue of Ohio; Representatives Boydland of Pennsylvania and Drewry of Virginia; Chairman James A. Farley, W. Forbes Morgan, Frank C. Walker, James W. Gerard and L. W. Robert representing the Democratic National Committee; Senator Guffey, Pennsylvania, chairman of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee; Chairman O'Connor, New York, and Rayburn, Texas, respectively of the House Rules and Interstate Commerce Committees; Edward J. Flynn, Secretary of State for New York and Bronx leader, and Charles Michelson, director of publicity for the National Committee.

Among those arriving by train who were not listed in the original White House announcement were: Senators Wagner of New York, McKellar of Tennessee, Connally of Texas, and Black of Alabama; Keith Morgan, member of the finance committee of the national committee; James J. Hoey, collector of internal revenue for district number 1, and Carl Byoir, publicity adviser.

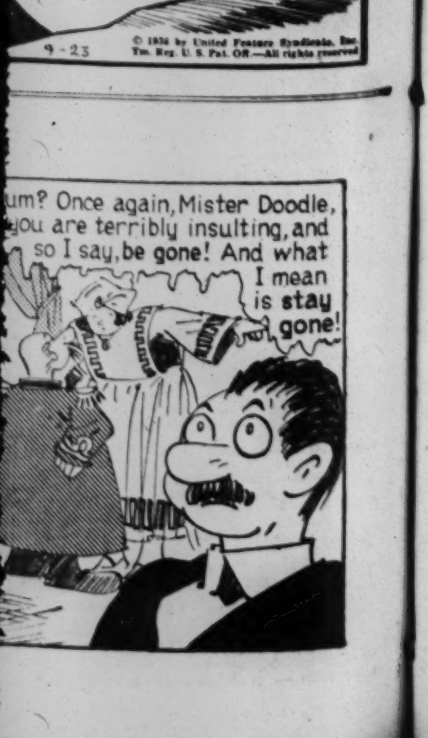

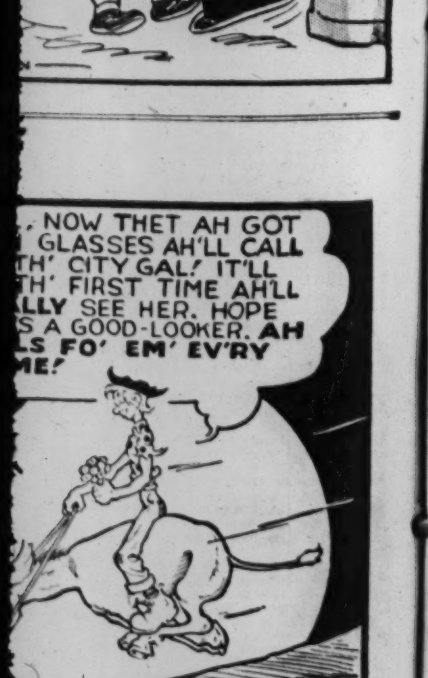

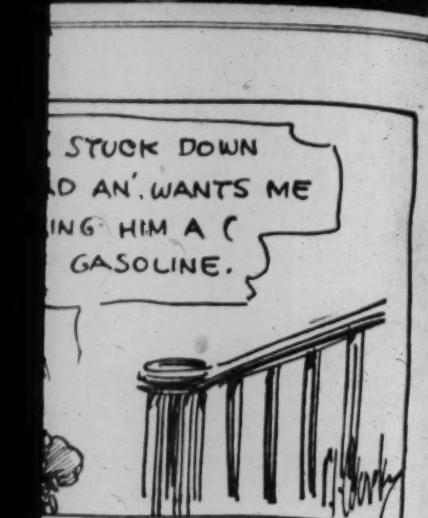

Marvin H. McIntyre, presidential secretary, sat in on the Roosevelt conferences; making 29 in all gathered in the oak-paneled library.

NEW YORK CITY CHARTER PROPOSAL RULED OFF BALLOT

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—A State law under which a new charter for New York City was drawn up was declared unconstitutional yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Charles J. Dodd of Brooklyn, thereby restraining the Board of Elections from placing the proposed charter on the November ballot.

Plans immediately were made by Corporation Counsel Paul Windels in New York State a bill naming Mrs. Wilks sole heir has been filed. It is estimated Col. Green left $80,000,000.

LANDON IN IOWA ASSAILS NEW DEAL 'SCARCITY' POLICY

Tells Corn Growers It Is Robbing Them Not Only of Export Outlet, but Home Market as Well.

TO SPEAK TONIGHT IN MINNEAPOLIS

Republican Nominee to Amplify Criticisms of Administration's Reciprocal Trade Agreements.

By the Associated Press.

ABOARD LANDON SPECIAL. Landon, Sept. 24.—Gov. Alf M. Landon told Iowa corn growers today the New Deal's "program of scarcity" has resulted in "robbing the American farmer not only of his former export markets, but even of his home market."

Traveling northward to Minneapolis, where he planned to amplify his criticisms of the administration's reciprocal trade agreements in an address tonight, Landon told wayside throngs "the real function of the Government is to help the farmer produce and to finance carry-over crops for years of shortage."

Talks at Nevada, Ia. The Republican nominee at Nevada, Ia., said he had been distressed by the sight of "empty cribs and granaries" due "in part" to the drought, and added:

"But another reason for your empty corn cribs—and don't forget this—is the program of scarcity of a year ago. There are always some years of plenty, or of surplus, but we are equally certain to have some years of shortage. Had the farmers of Iowa and every other agricultural state been allowed to produce as long experience dictated, they would have been better prepared to meet the tragedy of this year."

"The effects of this scarcity program go far beyond this year. They are robbing the American farmer not only of his former export markets, but even of his home market. For proof, I turn to the report of the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics, released only last Saturday. It states that 2,750,000 bushels of Argentine corn reached this country last week, and about 2,000,000 bushels more were on the way. That is a sample of the way the present administration has aided our farmers of the best corn producing area on earth."

His Idea of Aiding Farmer. "The real function of the Government is to help the farmer produce and to finance carry-over crops for such situations as this report on the importation of Argentine corn discloses. That is exactly what the Republican party will do. Our party stands for production, not destruction. It is for co-operation with the farmer, not coercion."

"If our democracy is to survive, that is the only way."

Landon, who left Des Moines at 9:30 a. m., planned eight stops, four in Northern Iowa and four in Minnesota, before reaching Minneapolis at 5:15 p. m. He will speak in Minneapolis at 8:30.

Praise for His Farm Speech. Aids said Landon had received a large number of telegrams commending his farm speech, made at Des Moines Tuesday night, Senator Charles L. McNary, ranking Republican member of the Senate Agriculture Committee and co-author of the McNary-Haugen bill, telegraphed: "A splendid and satisfying exposition of the farm problem. Success."

During his two days at Des Moines, Landon conferred with Iowa leaders and George N. Peek, former AAA administrator, and complimented President Roosevelt's Secretary of Agriculture, Henry A. Wallace, for having done "some good things."

Wallace will reply in a radio address tomorrow night to Landon's farm speech.

After his conference with the Republican nominee, Peek told reporters his support would depend on Landon's Minneapolis speech and that he probably would give his views early next week in a radio interview with William Hard, commentator for the Republican National Committee.

Compromise for Wallace. Landon praised Wallace at a luncheon of Iowa editors and farmers, saying, "I think he can be highly complimented for taking advantage of the Iowa Warehouse Act and permitting the farmer to make commodity loans."

Landon added he copied the Iowa act and submitted it to the Kansas Legislature and it was adopted.

LONDE PAROLE PLEA BEARS NAME OF MIKE KINNEY

their friends got others. These activities, he said, covered the period from October, 1935, to early March of this year, after which Londe was given a hearing and paroled March 26.

While Londe was in the Michigan prison the Postoffice Department in St. Louis lodged a "hold order" against him under an indictment for participation with other Egan gangsters in the Staunton (Ill.) mail robbery, for which "Dinty" Colbeck and his gang were sent to prison in 1924. While this was against Londe, he could not have been paroled. About a year ago the defendant was removed by Chief Postoffice Inspector William L. Noah of St. Louis after Stubby had talked to him.

Of 11 letters of recommendation from St. Louis, five writers told a reporter they had recommended the parole. They were: Rabbi Jacob R. Mazure of B'nai Shalom Congregation; Circuit Judge John W. Joynt; Eli Sandperl, manager of Werner & Hilton, Inc.; J. M. Goldberg, vice-president of the National Dress Co.; and A. C. Carlson, president of the Independent Paper Storehouse.

Claiborne in Denial. Congressman James R. Claiborne, whose official Washington stationery was used for one of the letters, said he did not dictate or sign it, although his name was written with ink at the bottom.

"While I have written many letters to aid persons seeking employment, many of which I might not recall, I did not write any letter in behalf of Londe," said Congressman Claiborne.

The letter is dated Jan. 7, 1936. On that date Claiborne said he was in Washington. While the letter bears Claiborne's initials in the lower left-hand corner, indicating that he had dictated it, the stenographer's initials are "P."

"I know I was in Washington on that date," said Claiborne, "and the initial 'P' is that of my stenographer in St. Louis. So someone dictated the letter on my stationery and signed my name."

"I would suggest you see Paul Dillon. Possibly he did it. Dillon sometimes wrote letters of indorsement for me during my absence from St. Louis," Dillon was out of town today.

Text of Letter. The text of the letter purporting to have been written by Congressman Claiborne follows:

"Isadore Londe, who is an inmate of the penitentiary at Jackson, Mich., was a former resident of St. Louis. While he was in St. Louis he had some bad company and as a result is now paying the price thereof. He has been an inmate at Jackson, I am informed, for 12 years and he is now only 32 years of age."

"Londe has some very fine friends here in St. Louis who are anxious to do for him. I feel that if he was given the chance, after having gone through this protracted sentence, he would become a decent citizen. Twelve years in the penitentiary when one has reached only the age of 32 is a mighty long time, and I hope your board can see the wisdom of giving this young man a chance. He certainly was of such immature age that he did not realize what he was doing, and I feel the cause of justice would be advanced by giving him an opportunity to be placed in good hands and looked after, so that he could become a useful citizen."

How Letters Were Obtained. Stubby said he obtained letters from John F. Dougherty, a Justice of the Peace, and Carlson, and that Dougherty referred him to Dillon, who has an office in the suite with Congressman Claiborne. Dillon, he said, procured the Claiborne and Joynt letters for him. The letters of Mazure and Sandperl, he said, were obtained by the Londes, and a man named Joe Moreno, whose address he could not recall, got him a few other letters.

Dougherty could not be reached for a statement, but could "G. Genovese" or "Alfred Buck," whose names were used on letters, be found. The telephone or city directories do not list the latter two names.

An parole officer in St. Louis for the State of Michigan, Stubby said, he sponsored the parole for humanitarian and social reasons. He maintains a parole office for his organization in the Wainwright Building and said he received $100 pay for the work, depending entirely on donations to the organization.

Mrs. Emilie M. Sweeney, president of the American Woman's Council of Justice in St. Louis, also took an interest in Londe's welfare, on behalf of the mother and aunt of Londe, in 1927. She wrote two letters, one to the Parole Commission, and another to the Governor, suggesting a transfer of Londe from the main prison at Marquette to the branch prison at Jackson, where a sister of Londe's mother resides. The transfer was not made until three years later.

A month ago, according to Stubby, Isadore wanted to be discharged from his parole, which would have removed him from supervision of the Michigan Commission. Stubby wrote at letter requesting the Commission to discharge Londe. He followed this up with a visit to Deputy Commissioner Ross Pascoe at Lansing last Sunday. Stubby said this visit was on other business, but that Londe was discussed.

Kinney Aided Roy Tipton. It will be recalled that Senator Kinney was instrumental in obtaining a parole for Leavenworth Penitentiary in 1930 for Roy Tipton, mail robber, five years before his term expired.

Tipton, a Cuckoo gangster, was an associate in crime of Londe. He was serving 15 years for participation in the St. Louis downtown mail robbery of 1928, which was committed by Cuckoo and Egan gangsters.

Tipton had served 10 years of the sentence and there awaited him an additional two-year sentence in the Missouri State Penitentiary. The Missouri sentence caused a detainment at Leavenworth before beginning the two years in the Missouri prison.

Tipton had attended to that. He had the Supreme Court Marshal, Hina C. Schull, remove the detainment so that Tipton could be paroled at once from Leavenworth. This act of the Senator was disclosed by the Post-Dispatch, with the result that Tipton was returned to Leavenworth to complete his two-year sentence after serving the two-year term in Missouri. Moreover, the Supreme Court Marshal resigned under fire.

Morris and Louis Londe Still in Jail, Unable to Make Bonds. Unable to make bonds of $25,000, Morris and Louis Londe, partners in the bankrupt Pearl Garment Co., spent their second day in city jail today, following their arrest Tuesday on a Federal warrant charging concealment of $60,000 in assets from the receiver of their firm, Hans Wulff.

At their arraignment yesterday before United States Commissioner John A. Burke, the brothers pleaded not guilty and their attorney, Morris G. Levinson, protested vainly that their bonds were "terribly high." The Commissioner said the bond had been fixed at the request of the United States Attorney's office and pointed out the amount involved in the warrant.

The men were returned to jail after a preliminary hearing on the charge was set for Oct. 6. A bondsman desiring to sign their bonds would be required to show as security $100,000 in real estate.

It became known yesterday that a tax lien for $1349 was filed against the Londe brothers Aug. 23, three days after an involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed against their firm, which operated at 905 Washington avenue. The lien, filed by Collector of the Revenue Thomas J. Sheehan on instructions from Washington, was in connection with unpaid taxes on furs, assessed for the years 1932-35. The amount due the Government had been in dispute, it was said at the Collector's office.

Telegraph Firm Restores Pay Cut. NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Postal Telegraph & Cable Corporation announced today it would restore to its employees on Oct. 1 the remaining 4 per cent of a 10 per cent wage cut made in June, 1932. The 6 per cent was restored on July 1, 1933. Executives are not included. The corporation is being reorganized, and it was stated the wage restoration was approved by the bondholders' committee, the trustees and the Court.

REBELS IN ALCAZAR AGAIN REPULSE REDS

Insurgent Machine Gunners Regain Position on Upper Walls.

(Copyright, 1936, by the Associated Press.)

TOLEDO, Spain, Sept. 24.—Fascist defenders of the Alcazar fortress, almost exhausted after nine weeks of shot, shell and dynamite, tonight fought desperately to hold out until their advancing comrades could rescue them.

Whether they knew that four columns of their comrades were to night only 13 miles away was not apparent, but they fought on, repulsing attack after attack by the Government militia.

The attackers tossed dynamite grenades today in their efforts to kill the last male defenders of the Alcazar so they might go to the front outside the city to help beat off the Fascist advance.

Bombardment of the crumbling citadel continued unabated, ceasing only to permit infantry attacks. The Fascist machine gunners fired from upper windows of the fortress and broke away after wave of hand grenades.

The correspondent climbed the ruins of the southwest tower and watched the militiamen throw bundles of dynamite sticks at the insurgents. The way had been prepared for the militiamen by a heavy artillery barrage.

For the first time in almost a month the Fascists held a strategic point on the great upper walls, from which they were able to dominate the city gates.

"Little good that will do them," a militiaman said. "Last night we captured a parcel of foodstuffs and brought out hundreds of sacks of wheat and whole cases of canned fish, preserves and spices."

An attempted aerial attack by Fascist planes failed when a squadron of more than 20 Government ships chased the insurgent planes away from the city.

Meanwhile, long lines of heavily-loaded trucks rumbled along the Madrid-Toledo highway, carrying reinforcements to strengthen the Government's defenses against the insurgent army pressing in from the northwest.

THREE ELECTION OFFICIALS TO GO TO TRIAL ON OCT. 28

Men Who Served in Precinct 1, Ward 4, in June Registration, Plead Not Guilty.

Three election officials who served in the First Precinct of the Fourth Ward for the supplementary registration last June pleaded not guilty today to charges in Court of Criminal Correction on misdemeanor charges relating to their conduct in that registration. Their trials were set for Oct. 28 before Judge James W. Griffin.

John Tocco, 1808 A. Cass avenue, and Raymond Shea, the precinct clerk, are charged with willful neglect to canvass the precinct following the registration. Frank Caronico, 1533 Carr street, Democratic judge in the precinct, is charged with neglect to instruct the election clerks to make the canvass.

CARDINAL TALKS TO PRESS CONGRESS IN 7 LANGUAGES

Papal Secretary Pacelli Calls for United Action Against Neo-Pagan Movement.

By the Associated Press. ROME, Sept. 24.—Speaking in seven languages, Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, Papal Secretary of State, tonight called for a world crusade against the neo-pagan movement in Germany. He opened the International Congress of Catholic Journalists.

Cardinal Pacelli spoke in Italian, French, English, Spanish, Portuguese, German and Latin to the delegates of 28 nations, including the United States.

"The new paganism," he said, "is producing the same state of low world morals and dedication to materialism as flourished in the time of pagan Rome. The Catholic press should oppose it, he declared, as the Christian St. Peter opposed the pagan Nero."

The neo-pagan movement in Germany, in particular, has been an object of Catholic concern in recent years.

Northeast Coast Storm Warning. By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—The Weather Bureau today issued a storm warning saying a tropical disturbance was central about 350 miles east-southeast of Atlantic City, N. J., and moving almost directly northward about 20 miles an hour.

$500,000 Worth of Tear Gas for Strikebreakers

probably was said, but I forgot what it was."

The committee then called Ailes. Three kinds of gas grenades. It makes the "green band" grenade, which discharges a colorless gas, thus "making it impossible for the mob to tell where the gas cloud begins;" the "true flight" grenade, with a range of 500 yards, adapted "for use against barricades," and the "jumping candle," a grenade which leaps three times after it is thrown, to make it impossible for a striker to throw it back.

Ailes identified a letter written by himself to a salesman last June, which said:

"I hope the strikes around Akron and Barberton will result in some business. I want to show you some literature regarding the steel industry."

Describing the literature, Ailes said, "some Communists, were putting a steel official on the pan."

In one of his most interesting letters, Ailes outlined his plan to give a demonstration of tear gas equipment for the benefit of large industrial concerns in the Pittsburgh area. Prospective invited guests at this showing of summer models included the Pennsylvania Railroad, Jones & Laughlin Steel Co., Carnegie Steel Corporation, and the Erie Railroad. But the show never came off.

"Hope It's a Bad Strike," Ailes wrote a St. Louisman was Herick Foote, and during 1935 he was working in the industrial area around Bridgeport and New Haven, Conn.

"With a hell of a strike would break loose," he wrote to Ailes. "We would show them."

Foote welcomed the opportunity to demonstrate the "jumping candle." He wrote that "police officials who have seen it think it is the cat's meow."

"Does it make a noise when it explodes?" asked LaFollette. "Yes," "Like a cat?" "No."

Still later Foote wrote: "Strike is developing. Hope it is a bad one. We need the money."

In the St. Louis Area. Fred Ecker, St. Louis agent of the Lake Erie Co., reported to Ailes in May, 1935, that he was on the job, but business was slow.

"We are surrounded by strikes here, but they are all too peaceful to suit me," he wrote. However, he reported a sale of gas grenades to the A. A. Oliver detective agency to be used, "in the gas company strike."

Searle also quoted prices to the Pinkerton Agency, in the Boatmen's Bank Building, on "baby giant gas projectors," pocket grenades and other equipment.

Apparently taking it for granted that two could play the game, the striking teamsters' union at Bridgeport, Conn., asked Lake Erie to quote prices on gas equipment. This impression was promptly corrected.

The Gas Manufacturers replied that they had no responsibility for the use of gas equipment by police or other law enforcement officers.

Under questioning, Ailes admitted this statement was not exactly true.

Moral Responsibility. When Senator Thomas (Dem.), Utah, asked Ailes whether he didn't feel a moral responsibility for distributing explosives and gas in such a wholesale manner, the witness replied: "I'm sorry there are strikes in this country. I'm sorry we have Communists stirring up trouble. If it wasn't for these people I would be in some other business. I don't want anyone to get hurt."

Ailes seemed upset and angry over the laughter which followed. As for the sentiments expressed by Foote and Searle, he said: "I can't be responsible for the wild rambling letters that salesmen write to me."

His company sold $17,000 worth of gas to Pennsylvania anthracite coal operators last year to be planted in holes being worked by "bootleg" miners. The correspondence showed Lake Erie officers warned the operators that some gases used under ground might have serious, if not fatal, results, and that the operators replied the "bootleg" miners would "not be killed if they stayed out of the mines."

"Improving Society." "Do you think you are improving industry by equipping it with gas?" inquired Thomas. "Not only improving industry, but improving society," Ailes replied.

It developed that coal operators might be financially responsible for injuries caused by gas planted by them. Ailes' comment was: "I don't understand it myself. It seems that a burglar can sue you if he breaks his leg falling down your stairs."

Ailes assured the coal operators, however, that the gas treatment recommended for their use—and adopted by them—would not produce serious injuries. The effect on the "bootleggers," said one letter, would be amusing. But not, it appeared, for the "bootleggers."

Defends Use of Gas in Mines. George Gordon Merritt, attorney for the Pennsylvania Anthracite Institute, told the committee that "the government in Pennsylvania has broken down" and that the coal operators resorted to tear gas against the "bootleggers" only when it was clear that law enforcement officers would not act to protect the property. He admitted that public sentiment was against the operators.

He said Gov. Earle, a Democrat, had refused to call State police to act against the miners, although the Attorney-General, a Republican, had asked him to do so.

"We haven't decided whether to use the bombs," he said. "Before we bought them, we insisted on assurance that the bombs would not inflict permanent injuries. We have only planned to place them in the holes at night when the holes were unoccupied, and to post signs above the holes warning that there is gas in the holes. We have thought that bombs would be more merciful than bullets."

"I hope you will think this thing through before you go further, because this is a new kind of industrial warfare," said Thomas. "I don't call it industrial warfare—I call it robbery," Merritt replied.

"Do you contend that all the people in the communities are robbers?" "No, but I say these 20,000 miners are robbers. I don't say the Governor is a robber."

"Well, I'm glad you don't," Senator Thomas said.

Detective on the Side. It developed that L. H. McCarty, California sales distributor for the Lake Erie Co., also runs a detective agency and sells photographs on the side. His partner in the detective agency is A. J. Rich, a Navy intelligence lieutenant in the Reserve Corps.

"He has contact with corporations which I have been unable to reach," he wrote. "Yours truly will deliver the gas and between us it looks like a nice arrangement," he reported.

McCarty testified that when he sought to sell tear gas equipment to the Los Angeles Police Department he was necessary to pay the captain a 25 per cent commission. The Captain said the Federal Laboratories, Inc., was paying the 25 per cent, McCarty testified. He reported to Lake Erie: "Federal has so greased things there that unless I do likewise, I see no chance for business. To make matters worse, the Reds didn't kick up any trouble."

Writing from San Francisco during the 1934 water-front strike, McCarty said: "Have kept the political wires hot to eliminate Federal's (Federal Laboratories) man."

Police are not sold on our gas clubs, and think Federal clubs are superior to ours as clubs, but admit they are not so hot as gas weapons.

"These cops here, when they hit a man over the head, are not satisfied unless he goes down, and a good split occurs. Our clubs are too light for this purpose."

Again McCarty wrote to Ailes: "Federal, with the aid of the two Boy Scouts in the chief's office, put a bunch of 'training' courses for 60 flat feet. I personally think the Boy Scout cops are getting a cut, but I can't prove it. Later on, I want to get to Washington to find out from the Department of Justice why Federal are able to get away with what they do."

Kuhl declared one of his jobs was with a group of 100 "finks," the strike-breakers, hired by the John Brown Co. of Newcastle, Pa. This job was a failure, he said, because all of the "finks" were driven out of town after tear gas had been used during riots.

During a street railway strike in New Orleans, he testified, 1000 strike-breakers were shipped into the city from Chicago, New York and Philadelphia. Fares collected on the cars by the strike-breakers, he said, were split three ways, the torman, conductor and gang boss sharing alike, and the railway company getting nothing.

Milwaukee Power Official Denies Use of Live Steam on Pickets. MILWAUKEE, Sept. 24.—The testimony of E. J. McDade, before a Senate committee in Washington yesterday was termed "absurd and ridiculous" today by G. W. Van Derzee, vice-president and general manager of the Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light Co.

McDade testified that during strikebreaking activities at a Milwaukee power plant in 1934 the company "furnished 700 men with pickax handles, and used hoses connected with boilers to turn live steam on pickets."

"The company at no time employed any strikebreakers," Van Derzee in a statement, "though it was forced to employ from the agency referred to a limited number of guards which were used solely to shield the company's workers on trucks and cars from bodily harm at the hands of the mob and to provide continuance of service."

"No injury resulted to anyone as a result of employment of these necessary bodyguards. The company did not turn any live steam on to anyone."

BOARD INSTRUCTS ELECTION CLERKS FOR VOTE CANVASS

Chairman Charles P. Williams Cautions Registration Checkers Their Work Will Be Checked.

ANSWERS QUERIES AS TO PROCEDURE

Directs Officials to Ask Householder to Name Voters in Home, Not to Read Him a List.

Election clerks who will canvass the city registration tomorrow and Saturday were given final instructions for the canvass by Charles P. Williams, chairman of the new Election Board, at a meeting last night at the opera house of the Municipal Auditorium.

Most of the 1340 clerks, two for each of the city's 670 precincts, were given final instructions for the canvass by Charles P. Williams, chairman of the new Election Board, at a meeting last night at the opera house of the Municipal Auditorium.

Williams stressed one new rule of procedure adopted by the new board for the canvass, that clerks in checking on the registration, should discard the old method of asking householders to verify a list of registrants, and instead, ask the householder to name the registrants at his house. The old method readily lent itself to padding of the registration lists.

"It might happen, and I have heard that it has happened," said Williams, "that when you display your list without first questioning the householder, he will vouch for every name on the list. I have also heard that some of the people on previous lists have never been heard of at the addresses from which they were registered. We don't want that to happen again."

To Report Doubtful Cases.

Chairman Williams also suggested that in cases where a reasonable doubt existed that the person registered from a certain address actually lived there, the clerks should question the registration and the Board would make further investigation. In cases where persons were not at home, he suggested that canvassers inquire of the neighbors, or, if doubtful about the registration, make two or three trips to the house in question to satisfy themselves that the person was properly registered.

"We intend to make our own check of your work in selected spots," said Chairman Williams, "not because we fear that we'll find anything wrong, but because of the tremendous responsibility we feel in this matter."

One of the clerks inquired about the procedure to be followed in the case of persons registered from apartment houses, and whether it would be sufficient to check on the list of apartment-holders kept by the manager instead of personally checking on each occupant.

Williams hesitated in answering and turned to the other members of the Board seated behind him on the stage. Some of the other clerks "booed" the questioner.

"I think," said Williams finally, "that the jeers subsided, that it would be perfectly proper in cases where a reasonable doubt existed, kept to accept them as an accurate guide to the persons living at a hotel or apartment house. To be absolutely sure, however, it would be well to check on each occupant."

Another clerk asked how he knew everyone in the neighborhood he would canvass and that it would be rather useless to inquire who lived at various places, as he already knew.

"That may be all right," said Williams, "but the clerk of the other party who will make the canvass with you may not know everyone in your neighborhood, so it would be well to ask just the same."

Williams also cautioned the clerks to leave notices at the homes of everyone whose registration they questioned, so that the person might appear at the office of the Election Board, and, if properly registered, satisfy the board to that effect.

The canvass must be completed by Saturday night, so that the board may strike off the names "not found" next week and complete the revision of the registration.

The canvass tomorrow and Saturday will be of the revised registration, which started Monday and will be concluded at 9 o'clock to night. The last previous registration was on June 18.

A canvass by the previous Election Board of the June registration, made after frauds in the registration were exposed by the Post-Dispatch, disclosed that 46,252 persons whose names appeared on the lists could not be found. The June 18 lists, however, are now void, and the present registration will be the basic registration for the presidential election Nov. 3 and the next four years.

Warning Against Short Cuts.

Circuit Attorney Miller, only speaker besides Chairman Williams, warned the clerks against making short cuts in their canvassing.

"Beginning with the June 18 registration, for months to come, the courts are full of trouble for a lot of judges and clerks because they took short cuts," said the Cir-

INDICTED POLL CLERK

SIXTH MAN GIVES BOND IN VOTE FRAUD CASES

Edmond Kuhn Surrenders—Hearing Scheduled for Sept. 29.

Edmond Kuhn, last of the six election officials of the Twentieth Precinct of the Twenty-first Ward to be taken into custody on indictments returned by the grand jury which is investigating fraud in the August primary, surrendered last night at Police Headquarters and was released on bonds of $5000.

Kuhn, who lives at 4123 Green Lea place, was accompanied to Police Headquarters by a bondsman, Frank Reader, 4141 Natural Bridge avenue, who signed two bonds, each for $2500. They are returnable Sept. 29 before Judge Joseph Dickmann in the Court of Criminal Correction.

Kuhn was Republican clerk in the precinct where lop-sided returns, including an officially certified vote of 163 to 1 in favor of Robert E. Hannegan and his running mate for membership on the Democratic City Committee, prompted the grand jury to open the ballot box and make a new count. Hannegan is now chairman of the committee.

Kuhn is charged with making a false canvass and return of votes cast in the committee election, and also with making a false canvass and return of votes cast in the primary election, conducted at the same time and on the same ballots. Both offenses are felonies, punishable by prison terms of from two to five years.

Similar charges were brought against the other five election officials who were in charge of the precinct for the primary election. They were arrested and gave bond Tuesday night.

The grand jury, continuing its inquiry, is now considering the certified returns of the Second Precinct of the Twentieth Ward where defeated candidates got few votes, or none at all.

James J. Gallagher and Miss Margaret Burke, defeated candidates for members of the Democratic City Committee from the Twentieth Ward, appeared before the grand jury yesterday. Each of them was credited, in the official returns, with eight votes in the Second Precinct, while their opponents, John J. Dewey and Charlotte Corran Lee, each got 211.

Harold D. Robinson and Maude T. Oswald, Negroes, defeated candidates for members of the Republican City Committee, who got no votes at all in the Second Precinct, were also witnesses. Their opponents, John J. Hurley and Lillian Thieroff, were credited with 71 votes. Mrs. Oswald defeated in the ward by 55 votes, has filed an election contest, alleging fraud.

Another witness was Vincent C. Wolf, 4215 Hartford street, who was the Special Deputy Election Commissioner assigned to the precinct on primary day, and Miles Myers, 2427 North Grand boulevard, Democratic watcher at the polling place.

FINED $50 FOR USING BROTHER'S DRIVING LICENSE

James Williams Penalized and David Williams Also Assessed $25 for Lending Permit.

James Williams, a Negro, 3019 Adams street, was fined $50 and costs by Provisional Police Judge Ray Karst today for failure to have his own driver's license and for using a license issued to another.

When arrested Sept. 18, Williams had the license issued to his brother, David Williams, 2930 Hickory street. David Williams was fined $25 and costs for lending his license to another person.

Circuit Attorney Miller, only speaker besides Chairman Williams, warned the clerks against making short cuts in their canvassing.

"Beginning with the June 18 registration, for months to come, the courts are full of trouble for a lot of judges and clerks because they took short cuts," said the Cir-

HEARST SUBPENAS LABOR LEADER IN SEATTLE STRIKE

Counsel Wants to Ask Dave Beck About Picket Line Supporting Newspaper Guild Walkout.

ANTI-UNION POLICY DENIED BY EDITOR

Labor Council Turns Down Commerce Chamber Request to Take Paper Off Its 'Unfair' List.

By the Associated Press.

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 24.—Dave Beck, West Coast representative of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, answered a subpoena to appear today as a witness in the American Newspaper Guild's case before the National Labor Relations Board against William Randolph Hearst's Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

NLRB Examiner Edwin S. Smith, who issued the subpoena for Beck at the request of Edward G. Woods of Chicago, chief of Hearst counsel, remarked at the time that Beck would not necessarily testify.

The Guild charges that the Post-Intelligencer discharged Frank M. Lynch, photographer, and Philip Everhardt, Armstrong, a dramatic critic, because of their Guild activities. The newspaper denies this and says the two longtime employees were fired for inefficiency and insubordination.

Following the discharge of the Guild, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor, called a strike. The strike was supported by the Seattle Labor Council, of which Beck is leader, and the newspaper suspended publication 43 days ago.

Beck's appearance was demanded by Hearst counsel in an effort to prove Beck was asked for and furnished some of the pickets who surrounded the Post-Intelligencer Aug. 13.

"Do You Want a Card?"

Oliver Morris, city editor of the strike-bound Hearst paper, testified that, after Armstrong was discharged, he approached Morris and said: "Do you want a card?"

Both officers are felons, punishable by prison terms of from two to five years.

Similar charges were brought against the other five election officials who were in charge of the precinct for the primary election. They were arrested and gave bond Tuesday night.

The grand jury, continuing its inquiry, is now considering the certified returns of the Second Precinct of the Twentieth Ward where defeated candidates got few votes, or none at all.

James J. Gallagher and Miss Margaret Burke, defeated candidates for members of the Democratic City Committee from the Twentieth Ward, appeared before the grand jury yesterday. Each of them was credited, in the official returns, with eight votes in the Second Precinct, while their opponents, John J. Dewey and Charlotte Corran Lee, each got 211.

Harold D. Robinson and Maude T. Oswald, Negroes, defeated candidates for members of the Republican City Committee, who got no votes at all in the Second Precinct, were also witnesses. Their opponents, John J. Hurley and Lillian Thieroff, were credited with 71 votes. Mrs. Oswald defeated in the ward by 55 votes, has filed an election contest, alleging fraud.

Another witness was Vincent C. Wolf, 4215 Hartford street, who was the Special Deputy Election Commissioner assigned to the precinct on primary day, and Miles Myers, 2427 North Grand boulevard, Democratic watcher at the polling place.

FINED $50 FOR USING BROTHER'S DRIVING LICENSE

James Williams Penalized and David Williams Also Assessed $25 for Lending Permit.

James Williams, a Negro, 3019 Adams street, was fined $50 and costs by Provisional Police Judge Ray Karst today for failure to have his own driver's license and for using a license issued to another.

When arrested Sept. 18, Williams had the license issued to his brother, David Williams, 2930 Hickory street. David Williams was fined $25 and costs for lending his license to another person.

Circuit Attorney Miller, only speaker besides Chairman Williams, warned the clerks against making short cuts in their canvassing.

"Beginning with the June 18 registration, for months to come, the courts are full of trouble for a lot of judges and clerks because they took short cuts," said the Cir-

from the St. Louis Relief Administration. It is maintained for women who are unemployed and in need of temporary shelter until positions or homes can be provided for them by the Relief Administration.

"The Election Commissioners are permitting the inmates to register, but are marking them 'disqualified.' It seems to me that the disqualifying of these women as voters would lead to a precedent of disqualifying all people on relief receiving temporary assistance."

The Election Board made known today that it had sent out men, today and yesterday, to watch various registration places, and to record with checking device held in the hand, the number of persons entering the places in the 13-hour registration day. If, in any precinct, a day's registration should be reported which was largely in excess of the checker's account for the day, the board would look into the matter further. The checking devices are those used in making traffic counts.

Kansas City Registration.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 24.—With registration totaling about 200,000 in the first three days, a new record for Kansas City appeared certain by the closing hour tonight. About 60,000 persons registered yesterday, 65,000 Tuesday and 75,740, by official count, Monday. The four-day total in 1932 was 230,000. For the city election of March, 1934, 246,000 names were on the books.

NATIONAL CASKETS

IN OUR search for integrity in funeral merchandise it was entirely logical that we should approve of the caskets made by the National Casket Company.

For fifty years the National Casket Company has held to high ideals in manufacture and to the merging of these ideals with the changing fashions. It is consequently the largest manufacturer of caskets in the United States. Its caskets have a nation-wide appreciation and sale.

Every day our exhibit of National Caskets of unwrought quality and value is attracting more attention, especially as costs are no greater than ordinarily asked. There is a National Casket for every need and for every purse.

You are invited to view these beautiful caskets. A copy of "What to Do" will be sent on telephone or postal request.

LEGIONNAIRES ELECT H.W. COLMERY, KANSAS

Topeka Lawyer Chosen by Acclamation on Last Day of Cleveland Convention.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 24.—With a rising shout and a parade of the standards of every Legion department, the American Legion today elected Harry W. Colmery of Topeka, Kan., national commander by acclamation.

Immediately on the announcement of the election, veterans carrying the standards of their states, rushed to the platform and gathered around Colmery at the speakers' stand.

The convention previously had affirmed its belief in the Monroe Doctrine as a measure of peace and opposed entry of the United States into the League of Nations by a unanimous vote. The vote came on the presentation of the foreign relations committee report by Chairman John R. Decker of Colorado.

The veterans also approved a resolution opposing any modification of cancellation of war debts and voted in favor of refusing future loans to nations in default on their war debts.

Another resolution urged the United States Government to maintain a strict policy of neutrality and remain free of any alliance which might draw the country into war.

The delegates condemned activities of the Black Legion and asked Congress to investigate the hooded order. It also suggested publicity to prevent any danger of confusing Black Legion and the American Legion.

A resolution recommending universal fingerprinting of the civil population of the country and a system of identification for all non-citizens with legislation to make the system effective as a national policy was adopted.

The legionnaires voted to make an employment program a major policy and reaffirmed their "condemnation of mob violence and lynching through the United States."

The convention also reaffirmed the Legion's long advocacy of a "universal service act, providing for the draft of capital, industry and man power as well as men to fight in the event of a national emergency or actual war."

Among resolutions adopted was one recommending that one or more full-sized rigid airships be constructed to determine the full usefulness of the airship in defense of this country.

Others adopted without dissent included one urging 90 per cent reductions in immigration quotas, deportation of all aliens who are anarchists, Communists or affiliated, directly or indirectly, with the Third Internationale. The resolution would exempt from deportation aliens who have lived 10 years in this country or those whose wives and children are citizens.

Others called for the removal from the public relief rolls of aliens who have not applied for citizenship, universal application of the finger printing system for all persons in the country and an investigation of the methods used in the dissemination of "subversive doctrines."

Such controversial questions as the teachers' allegiance oath died in committee.

The convention rose for a shouting vote of confidence today in Gen. John J. Pershing at the request of National Commander Murphy as a reply to David Lloyd George's criticism of the American high command in his memoirs.

Color and noise slowly seeped away from the sidewalk crowds after the last great fanfare of Legion trumpeters at the drum and bugle corps contest, which ended early today. First award went to the Commonwealth Edison Post Corps of Chicago.

The auxiliary met separately today to make official the choice of Mrs. Lorena Hahn of Wayne, Neb., unopposed for national president.

SUIT TO CANCEL LIFE POLICY AFTER DEATH

New York Company Says Physical Condition of Insured Was Concealed.

The effort of a life insurance company to cancel a policy after death of the insured because he had not given details of treatments by his family physician for several years preceding his application for the insurance, went before Federal Judge George H. Moore for hearing today.

An action in equity to cancel the policy, the suit was filed by the New York Life Insurance Co., which contends it would not have issued the policy had it been advised fully of the applicant's physical condition. The policy, for $10,000, was issued Jan. 30, 1934, on the life of William J. Calhoun. He had paid two annual premiums totaling $1974 before he died Dec. 1, 1935.

His widow, Mrs. Beulah Calhoun, contends that her husband had no knowledge of the condition which caused his death, that the conditions for which he was treated by his family physician did not cause death and that he withheld no material information from the company and underwent examination by the company's physician.

Dr. J. A. Seabold testified he had been physician for the Calhoun family for 15 years but had had no occasion to treat Calhoun, a former athlete, until April 3, 1931, when Calhoun complained of pain in the wrist. From that time until Calhoun's death, the physician treated him on six occasions, tentative diagnoses having indicated at various times a nephritic condition and stomach ulcers.

Dr. Seabold said that after Calhoun's death during hemorrhages he obtained permission of the widow to perform an autopsy and that the autopsy showed death had been caused by varicose veins in the lower esophagus, a condition apparently not connected with the patient's earlier complaints.

On Jan. 23, 1934, Dr. Seabold said, he examined Calhoun thoroughly and found him in good physical condition except for a slight enlargement of the heart accompanied by a tachycardia.

The company contends it did not know of the heart condition, but Mrs. Calhoun contends its own examiner, then Dr. Ludwig O. Muench, found the same condition and for that reason the premium rate was raised to that applicable to men nine years older than Calhoun.

Calhoun resided with his wife and two children at 7430 Wayne avenue, University City.

FINED $250 AFTER FATAL AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

Charles Utrecht Will Appeal From Police Court Conviction of Careless Driving.

Charles Utrecht, 8029 Church road, was fined $250 by Police Judge James F. Nangle yesterday for careless driving as a result of an accident Aug. 8, in which Clodwell Baxter, Negro garbage collector, was killed.
The accident occurred on Annetta avenue, near the intersection with McLaran avenue. Utrecht testified he saw the city garbage truck in which Baxter was riding when it was only 20 feet from his car. He said he was unable to avoid a collision.

The truck driver, Oral Thompson, 2500 North Taylor avenue, was unhurt. Utrecht, a hardware dealer, will appeal.

Run Over by Train, Not Much Hurt.
KITTANNING, Pa., Sept. 24.—A 100-car freight train passed over 18-month-old David Abrams yesterday as he lay between the rails.
He suffered a cut on the forehead.

MRS. SAMUEL ELLIOTT FILES SUIT FOR DIVORCE

Charges Owner of Hog Haven Farms Struck Her; Seeks Alimony and Injunction.

Mrs. Samuel Elliott of Belleville filed suit for divorce yesterday in the Circuit Court at Belleville, alleging general indignities. Her husband is owner of the Hog Haven Farm properties at Monsanto.
She also applied for an injunction to restrain him from interference with her and from disposing of furnishings in their home, 25 North Thirty-first street.

They were married in June, 1935, and separated last Sept. 4. She alleges he was quarrelsome, struck her, and threatened to destroy the furniture in their home. She asked alimony, and says her husband's income is $10,000 a year.

Elliott filed suit yesterday to replevin personal property and furniture which he alleges belongs to him.

TOM K. SMITH HEADS BANKERS' ASSOCIATION

St. Louisan Says Meeting Changing Economic Environment is Major Problem.

By the Associated Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 24.—The American Bankers' Association considered resolutions at the concluding session of its sixty-second annual convention today. The Resolutions' Committee report was postponed after the convention named Tom K. Smith, head of the Boatmen's National Bank of St. Louis, president, yesterday. He succeeds
R. J. Fleming of Washington, D. C.

Smith, on taking office, said the most urgent problem confronting bankers today was the adaptation of banking to a changing economic environment and declared research would be one of the major objectives of his administration.
Orval W. Adams, Salt Lake City, was advanced from second to first vice-president, putting him in line for succession to the presidency next year. Philip A. Benson, head of the Dime Savings Bank of Brooklyn, N. Y., was elected second vice-president.

The national bank division of the association elected William F. Augustine, vice-president of the National Shawmut Bank, Boston, as its leader for the coming year.

Two surveys on banking.
Frank views in two surveys—one on what 7400 bankers think of the public; the other on what 50,000 sample citizens think of the bankers—were made public today.

Clarence Francis of New York, president of General Foods Corporation, conducted the surveys in preparing for his address in which he asserted banks are failing to assume their full place of economic and moral leadership. He suggested they finance the rebuilding of the country and lead the way to a higher living standard. Of the bankers, 58 out of 100 thought the public friendly to them, a fourth thought the public indifferent, and 11 per cent said "not friendly."

Some reasons—losses in closed banks, adverse propaganda, "hunting a goat," and "dislike of people you owe."

One-fourth felt their customers do not understand "why it is necessary to make service charges on unprofitable accounts."

"Many bankers," the industrialist told the convention, "reported the insuring of deposits has made their depositors feel secure."
Banking and monetary legislation, 67 per cent of those questioned replied, has increased long-run security of depositors and stockholders; 18 per cent said it had lessened security.

More than half said installment buying helped bring on the 1929 financial collapse.

Views of the Public.
Views of the public, tabulated from 50,000 sample citizens, indicated:

Forty-seven per cent believed it more necessary to save for old age than a necessary age; 45 per cent believed it as necessary only 5 per cent believed it less necessary.

Eighty-seven per cent use the banks. Fifty-seven out of 100 considered the banks not doing their share of recovery.

"Asked to name the man in public life with whose views they agreed on money matters," Francis said, "the first four were:

"President Roosevelt, Father
Coughlin, Senator Glass and Gov.
Landon—in that order."

"Trailing the leaders were Herbert Hoover, Henry Ford, Congressman Lemke, Dr. Townsend, Senator Borah, Norman Thomas and Ogden Mills. . . .

"I think it lamentable that no banker or bankers stood out conspicuously."

Every classified want ad in the Post-Dispatch today is a message

PARK GRANTS TWO PARDONS

Also Restores Citizenship of Man and Woman, Both of St. Louis.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 24.—A pardon, restoring citizenship privileges, was issued yesterday by Gov.
Park to Leslie Houston of St. Louis, who was paroled from the Missouri penitentiary on Aug. 2, 1930, after serving five years and three months of a 12-year sentence for robbery.
The Governor also restored citizenship privileges to Dorothy Mulligan of St. Louis, through a pardon. She was released from the penitentiary on Aug. 23, 1930, after serving seven-twelfths of a two-year sentence for attempted robbery.

The new Fall woollens include selected lines from Scotland and England, long noted for their fine fabrics. But these distinguished clothes may still be bought at moderate prices. The custom tailored suit, $50 to $75.

G.O.P. CITY CANVASS GIVES LONDON LEAD

Pape Reports 135,000 for Him, 134,000 for Roosevelt and 83,000 Doubtful.

A canvass of St. Louis completed yesterday under direction of the Republican City Committee indicated Gov. Alf M. Landon had a slight lead over President Roosevelt. Chairman Fred W. Pape announced today.

The canvass showed 135,000 voters would cast ballots for Landon and 134,000 for President Roosevelt. Pape claimed. In addition, he said, 83,000 were classified as doubtful, 1000 were supporters of Norman

Thomas, Socialist candidate, and 2000 were for William Lemke, Union party nominee.

The canvass, Pape said, was made thoroughly in each of the city's 670 precincts by the Republican precinct organizations. Louis J. Reidel, Thirteenth Ward Committeeman, was chairman of the committee directing the work which required about 10 days.

"Our figures," Pape said, "would indicate the St. Louis registration should be more than 350,000. The registration for the Aug. 4 primary election was 394,000, but at least 44,000 names were those of 'phantom' voters. We expect no padded registration for the Nov. 3 election."

BARKLEY REPLIES TO GOV. LANDON'S FARM PROPOSALS

Senator at Columbia, Mo., Calls Program Only
'More Expensive Carbon
Copy' of Present Law.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Sept. 24.—Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, addressing a rally of the Second District Young Democratic Clubs here last night, declared that Gov. Alf M. Landon's farm program proposals, made at Des Moines, Ia., Tuesday night, were only "a more expensive carbon copy of the benefit plan President Roosevelt already has working."

"The Republican nominee," Barkley said, "proposes parity of farm prices without any decrease in production. Perhaps Mr. Landon doesn't realize that with unsalable surpluses, farm prices will stay on the bottom. If he encourages full production they will drop lower and lower. It's ridiculous to talk about paying the difference between what the farmer ought to get and the extremely low prices. It's also ridiculous to talk about that type of a program and then propose balancing the Federal budget at the same time."

Barkley, after reviewing New Deal measures, asserted the Republican candidate had proposed no solutions of the problems they were designed to meet.

"What will Mr. Landon do about these things if he is elected President?" Barkley asked. "If he says he will repeal none of these laws, then he admits now what he proclaimed in 1934 when running for re-election as Governor of Kansas, that the New Deal was wise and he would co-operate with President Roosevelt."

"Gov. Landon speaks of getting back to the 'American way' of doing things. The 'American way' for the last half century has been to deal with every problem that arose in the light of conditions. It has been to move forward in mechanics, in industry, in education, in morals, and in Government. When Jefferson bought Louisiana, when Lincoln freed the slaves, when Theodore Roosevelt wielded the Big Stick, when Wilson proposed his great ideal, critics said they were abandoning the 'American way.' I say that the 'American way' is the Roosevelt way."

COURT DELAYS EXECUTION OF MAN IN HOTEL KILLING

Negro Hall Boy Had Been Sentenced to Die Oct. 2 in North Carolina.

By the Associated Press.

RALEIGH, N. C., Sept. 24.—The execution of Martin Moore, 22-year-old Negro sentenced to die in the lethal gas chamber here for the killing of Helen Clevenger, was postponed by the State Supreme Court yesterday.

In granting the former hotel hall boy a writ of certiorari, the Court agreed, "tentatively at least," to review his case the week of Nov. 2. He had been sentenced to die Oct. 2. He had been sentenced to die Oct. 2.

Moore's appeal was made after he twice confessed, officials said, that he shot the 18-year-old girl July 16 in an Asheville hotel room and then clubbed her to death with a pistol.

SUIT TO TEST ORDINANCE ON SUNDAY SALE OF 3.2 BEER

Mound City Liquor Co. Asks for Review of Revocation of Tavern Permit.

In a test case to determine whether the city ordinance permitting sale of 3.2 beer after 1 p. m. on Sundays conflicts with State law, the Mound City Liquor Co. filed suit in Circuit Court yesterday asking for judicial review of Executive Commissioner Thomas L. Anderson's revocation of the license of one of its stores, the Happy Hollow Tavern, at Grand boulevard and Olive street. Anderson ordered the license revoked after a hearing yesterday, but postponed effectiveness of the order until today to permit counsel for the liquor company to file an application for a writ of review. State law forbids sale of intoxicants on Sunday. City law permits licensed retailers to sell 3.2 beer after 1 p. m. Sundays as "non-intoxicating."

Hearing on the application for review was set for Oct. 8 before Circuit Judge John W. Joynt.

40,000,000 TREES AVAILABLE FOR SHELTERBELT PURPOSES

Assistant Chief of Forest Service Says Survival of Others Has Been Remarkable.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Forest Service officials hope to plant 40,000,000 trees for shelter belt purposes in the Great Plains States this fall or next spring. Ernest W. Tinker, assistant chief of the service, was enthusiastic about survival of trees planted during the past two years. He recently made a trip into Nebraska and South Dakota where, he said, "survival of the trees was remarkable."

A checkup July 1 showed that about "20,000,000 trees out of 23,700,000 planted by the Forest Service" were growing, he declared, adding that trees set out last year were six feet high and already lessen the wind movement "within their protective range."

PERU AND BOLIVIA SIGN TREATY

Pact Outlaws War, Provides for Settlement of Disputes.
LIMA, Peru, Sept. 24.—Peru and Bolivia have signed a treaty of friendship and non-aggression, the Foreign Office announced today. The pact outlaws war between the two countries and pledges a direct adjustment of differences, such as frontier incidents, without resort to mediation by foreign nations. The treaty and a protocol dealing with social and Indian problems affecting the two countries were signed here on Sept. 14.

WOMAN SENTENCED ON NARCOTIC CHARGE

Former Hotel Bookkeeper Gets Two Years on Plea of Guilty.

Miss Eunice Anderson, former hotel bookkeeper, was sentenced by Federal Judge Charles B. Davis yesterday to two years in the Federal Women's Penitentiary at Alderson, W. Va., on her plea of guilty of possession and purchase of narcotics and on her insistence that she wished to be sent to prison long enough to cure her of drug addiction.

Judge Davis had indicated at first he was willing to fix her punishment on the basis of the time she had served in jail since her arrest last July. The woman, about 35 years old, said she had taken a drug cure at a sanitarium in Illinois, but had been unable to resist the habit after coming to St. Louis last January. She said she had taken $100 of her employer's funds to buy drugs.

Raymond Skates, who said he studied counterfeiting in books at the Public Library, was sentenced to three years in the Federal Reformatory at Chillicothe, O., by Federal Judge George H. Moore on his plea of guilty to a counterfeiting charge. He was found in possession of five plates for making $1 bills.

Judge Moore sentenced Edward G. Koupeny to three years in the Federal Penitentiary and Eugene J. Zarojeski to two years on their pleas of guilty of transporting a stolen automobile from Chicago to Sullivan, Mo. Edward Williams and William H. Love, Negroes, received two year sentences on pleas of guilty to similar charges.

Pollard Brown, Negro, pleaded guilty of theft of a case of shoes from an interstate shipment and received a two-year penalty and Summer Jenkins, also a Negro, was sentenced to three years for sale and possession of narcotics.

MINNESOTA GOVERNOR MAKES PERSONAL INQUIRY IN STRIKES

Presses Conferences Employers and Workers; His View on Upholding the Law.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Sept. 24.—The Pillsbury Flour Mills Co. and the Northwestern Consolidated Milling Co., closed about a month as the result of a labor dispute in the milling and elevator industry, were reopened today. A mill operated by the Washburn-Crosby Co. resumed operations last week.

Gov. Hjalmar Petersen looked forward meanwhile to conciliation conferences to advance a settlement of the labor disputes which caused him to mobilize 400 National Guardsmen in readiness for any emergency if peace efforts should collapse.

The K. Aslesen Wholesale Grocery Co. reported two workers unloading a freight car were beaten today.

The Governor, defending mobilization of National Guardsmen, said: "Employers urge and demand that employees and other citizens obey the law and that civil authorities uphold the law, but when it comes to collective bargaining, which is the law of the land, some of the employers are not so strong for upholding the law. It is the legal right of the union to represent its members in collective bargaining and it is the employers' obligation to recognize that legal right."

The Governor is undertaking a personal investigation of the milling strike.

WIFE DIVORCES JACK ADLER

Charges President of Metal Products Company With Indignities.
Mrs. Sophia Adler, 709 South Skinker boulevard, was granted a divorce today from Jack Adler, president of the Adler Metal Products Co., by Circuit Judge William S. Connor in Court of Domestic Relations. They were married in July, 1924, and separated last Aug. 1.

A suit brought by Mrs. Adler for separate maintenance was dismissed. Her petition for a divorce was a cross-bill in answer to a suit for divorce filed by Adler, who was represented in court by counsel today. She alleged general indignities. The Court was informed that a property settlement had been made.

group to leave the room, and when a murmur arose from other spectators, many of them relatives of the defendants, he ordered the courtroom cleared.

Lee described the scene on Guley road where Poole was shot to death last May 12 after he had been abducted by members of the Black Legion who accused him, falsely, of wife beating.

"Dean said for everybody to get out of their cars and he pulled out a couple of guns," Lee said. "We went over in the field and Davis asked Poole if it was true he mistreated his wife."

Lee said he had his pistol with him because he supposed there was to be an initiation meeting of the night riders "and we used guns at initiations mostly to impress parties that was joining."

Lee's version of the shooting, like that of Davis, was that Dean was solely responsible for the killing. Dean has admitted firing the actual shots, but insisted Davis ordered him to fire. Dean pleaded guilty, and is awaiting sentence.

DR. MUENCH SAYS HE OWNS FURNISHINGS LEVIED ON

Makes Claim as Third Party in Execution Against Wife on Process Server's Judgment.

Dr. Ludwig O. Muench appeared at the Sheriff's office today and made a third-party claim on furniture and personal effects at his home, 4738 Westminster place, which were levied on by a deputy sheriff yesterday on an execution of a Justice of the Peace court judgment for $245 obtained against his wife, Mrs. Nellie Tipton Muench, by William Pfeiffer, Webster Groves process server.

In his claim, Dr. Muench said the property belonged to him and not to his wife, therefore was not subject to levy. He placed a sworn valuation of $1500 on it. Pfeiffer has 48 hours in which to put up a $3000 bond if he wishes to proceed with the levy. Otherwise a watchman who has been placed in charge of the property will be removed. If Pfeiffer puts up the bond, the property will be sold by the Sheriff and the question of ownership will be decided later at a trial of the third-party claim in Circuit Court.

Pfeiffer also obtained a judgment for the same amount against Dr. Muench, but the case is pending on appeal to Circuit Court. Pfeiffer charged the money was owed him for obtaining affidavits to support Mrs. Muench's application for a change of venue from St. Louis for her trial in the Dr. Isaac D. Kelley kidnapping case, which eventually resulted in her acquittal.

Navy Plane Crashes; One Killed.
NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 24.—Aviation Machinist Mate P. L. McElroy, a messenger, was killed and Aviation Pilot R. S. Banker, of St. Helena base, pilot of the plane, was critically injured in the crash of a Navy utility plane today on the dock at the St. Helena Coast Guard base. Witnesses said the plane had been flying over the area for almost an hour at an altitude of not more than 500 feet.

MAN WHO SMASHED WINDOWS HELD ON ANOTHER CHARGE

Business Agent and Worker Wanted in Madison County; Refuse to Wive Extradition.

Oscar T. Wiles, business agent of the Warehouse Employees' local union, and Clarence R. Bassett, a warehouse worker, who received workhouse sentences yesterday for smashing seven Kroger store windows last February and then were paroled, were arrested as they left the courtroom, at request of authorities of Madison County, where similar charges are pending against them. They refused to waive extradition.

The sentences, imposed by Provisional Judge Dewey S. Godfrey in Court of Criminal Correction, were on their pleas of guilty. In paroling them on promise of good behavior, Judge Godfrey told them violence should not be employed as a means of settling strikes.

NEW CONCERN SHARES LACLEDE GAS REVENUE

Utilities Power & Light Report Reveals There Is an Operating Company.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Formation within the Utilities Power & Light Corporation holding company system of an intermediate corporation to render services to operating subsidiaries for fees is disclosed in documents filed with the Federal Securities and Exchange Commission.

Two of the subsidiaries from which the new corporation, to be known as the Utilities Power & Light Operating Corporation, would collect fees are the Laclede Gas Light Co. and the Laclede Power & Light Co. of St. Louis.

According to the reports filed here, the operating corporation would render various legal, financial, engineering and management services for the subsidiary public utility companies, charging them an annual fee of nine-tenths of one per cent of gross operating revenue, with provision for rebate if the actual cost of the services was less.

Harley L. Clarke, president of the holding company, would be the head of the new operating corporation, and the reports show that he would receive a total annual salary of $50,000 from various Utilities Power & Light companies in which he holds executive positions, as follows: Utilities Power & Light Operating Corporation, director and consultant, $15,000; Utilities Power & Light Corporation, director and president, $14,600; Indianapolis Power & Light Co., director and chairman of the board, $15,000; Litchfield & Madison Railway Co., $5,400.

The reports state the gross operating revenue of the utility operating companies in the system for the year May 31, 1938, was $31,836,420. On this basis the fees collected by the new operating company would be about $285,000 a year.

4500 TEACHERS ENROLLED IN GROUP HOSPITAL SERVICE

Subscribe to Medical Society's Plan.

The Group Hospital Service affiliated with the Medical Economic Security Administration sponsored by St. Louis Medical Society has enrolled as members 3000 school teachers in St. Louis and 1500 in the county, it was announced today by Ray F. McCarthy, executive director.

Other public employees who have enrolled include those of the WPA, PWA, Internal Revenue Bureau, Treasury Department, Customs Office, U. S. Medical Depot and Post-office.

Because of wide acceptance of the plan, McCarthy said, dependents of members probably will be eligible to enroll within a few months. At present the plan is open only to employed groups. Members pay an enrollment fee of $1 and dues of 75 cents each month for which they may receive three weeks of hospital care each year, if needed.

Gas Cookery is Better in Every Way

Speed... Gas cookery is faster than any other automatic cookery. It saves housewives many hours of cooking time.

First Cost... When you buy a gas range you buy it only once. The burners are built to last a lifetime. There are no replacements—no parts to wear out. You don't buy it over and over again, repair bill, by repair bill.

Operation... Gas is better for all cooking needs because it is more flexible, more adaptable to all demands. Each burner can be used for any temperature desired—not just high, medium and low. No special pans and pots are required. Insulated ovens keep the kitchen cool while baking or broiling.

Installation Cost... When you move a gas range in St. Louis the cost is negligible. For some other types the installation cost is a considerable item.

Automatic Features... Modern gas ranges are now equipped with oven temperature controls and automatic top surface lighters that merely require the turn of a valve. Gas range manufacturers were the originators of the oven temperature control.

6224 Gas Ranges Sold in St. Louis This Year

Placed end to end these ranges would reach from Twelfth Boulevard to Kingshighway

Here is undeniable, unquestionable, irrefutable proof that St. Louis women prefer to cook with gas. These 6224 gas ranges were installed within the corporate limits of the city and represent an investment of $487,843.77—nearly a half million dollars.

This overwhelming preference for gas cooking is evidenced not only in St. Louis, but throughout the country. Last year, total gas range sales exceeded those of the previous year by 30 per cent. This year's sales indicate an even greater increase. More gas ranges were sold in one year (1935) than gas' nearest competitor has installed in the last 25 years.

In St. Louis where high quality merchandise is sold, the average price paid for a gas range in 1935 was $87.63. This is 50% less than the price of an identical quality range using another type of automatic fuel.

The increasing popularity of gas cooking is due to several advantages offered by modern gas ranges. Gas is the fastest fuel. There are no burners to heat up. It can be regulated to any intensity from a simmer to a hot fast flame. It's economical to use and the highly insulated ovens of modern gas ranges keep kitchens cool.

There are more than a hundred gas range dealers in St. Louis. Your dealer is showing many makes of completely-equipped, fully approved gas ranges. You'll like the stylish lines of these ranges, their beautiful compact appearance. Ask your dealer about the liberal trade-in allowance on old stoves.

WORKER ON DAM AT ALTON FALLS 70 FEET AND LIVES

Whit Burcham Hits Concrete Base of Pier; Leg and Arm Broken.

Whit Burcham, an employe on the Federal dam project in the Mississippi River at Alton, fell 70 feet to the concrete base of a pier early today and escaped with compound fractures of the right leg and arm and shock.

A signal man for the concrete crew, Burcham was standing on top of the pier, and had just signaled the concrete train to dump a load from a bucket which had been hoisted to the top of the pier. He lost his balance and grabbed the bottom of the bucket for a second. It carried him out so far that when he fell he missed a safety net spread below.

The force of the fall was broken, however, when he struck against some bracing timbers and a walkway as he dropped. His home is at 2808 Residence street, Alton.

ELEVEN INDICTED, ACCUSED IN $1,000,000 BANK SHORTAGE

Officers, Stenographers and Bookkeepers of Bradford (Pa.) Depository Named.

By the Associated Press.
ERIE, Pa., Sept. 24.—A Federal grand jury closed a long investigation of an alleged $1,000,000 shortage in the Commercial National Bank of Bradford, Pa., today by indicting 11 persons, including 10 officers and employes of the bank. Stenographers and bookkeepers were accused in a long list of charges.

Those indicted are: Howard J. Benson, assistant trust officer; Floyd R. Parmenter, trust officer and cashier; Stanley B. Benton, note teller; John W. Becker, office manager and collector; W. Russell Hungerford, bookkeeper; W. Alderson Lynch, stenographer; Ella Eliason McCaig, assistant bookkeeper and typist; Hazel A. Benson, discount clerk; Harold Miller, savings teller; John T. Cunningham, president of the Cunningham Natural Gas Corporation of Bradford, and Wilson R. Campbell, president of the Farmers and Mechanics' Trust Co. of Bath, N. Y.

The 11,000 depositors, who had about $4,465,000 in the bank, were protected by Federal deposit insurance. The shortage was disclosed after the assistant cashier, 47-year-old Frank W. Calkins, had been found dead in his garage from carbon monoxide gas. The coroner's verdict was "probable suicide."

JURY SETS ASIDE WILL OF FORMER POLICEMAN

Son and Daughter Get $11,000 Estate of Timothy Dee.

A jury in Circuit Judge Max Baron's court yesterday set aside the will of Timothy Dee, a retired policeman, who died in 1931. The action was taken on petition of his son, John T. Dee, 2635 Montgomery street, who alleged that his father was not of sound mind when he drew the will three months before he died and that he was unduly influenced by his sister, Miss Catherine Dee, who kept house for him.

The latter, who died in 1934, was left the whole of the estate, which was inventoried at $11,253, the appraised value of realty. In her will she bequeathed her property to Mary T. Dee, an adopted daughter. Judge Baron instructed the jury no evidence had been introduced to establish that Dee was of unsound mind, and therefore the only issue for the jury to consider was that of undue influence.

By the verdict, the plaintiff and his sister, Mrs. Catherine Kickham, are entitled to the property. Neither was given a bequest by the will. Dee was a widower.

JUDGE HOGAN DISQUALIFIES SELF IN RECEIVERSHIP SUIT

Transfers S. N. Long Warehouse Co. Case to Judge Williams.

The receivership suit against the S. N. Long Warehouse Co., 828 Gratiot street, filed by Samuel N. Long, founder of the business, was transferred yesterday to Circuit Judge Charles B. Williams' court by Circuit Judge Granville Hogan, who disqualified himself and granted a change of venue.

Several days ago Judge Hogan removed James P. Spelman, 3522 Caroline street, as temporary receiver. He had been appointed by Circuit Judge Eugene L. Padberg in the absence of Judge Hogan on vacation. Spelman was directed to restore the property to the management of Wilfred E. Long, a grandson of plaintiff.

The grandson said the receivership appointment was made without a hearing on his part. He had been in possession of the property through a transfer by the elder Long.

WATER LINE TO BE EXTENDED FROM MAIN AT BELLEFONTAINE

Former Alderman E. L. Kuhs to Pay for Work Necessary for His Subdivision.

Permission to extend a six-inch pipe line from the city water main at Bellefontaine Farm has been obtained by Edward L. Kuhs, former First Ward Alderman and real estate dealer who recently opened a subdivision near his home on the Missouri River.

The line will be laid by Kuhs at no expense to the city and he will pay the regular meter rate charged 37 other St. Louis County residents which is higher than the city rate, it was said by Director of Public Utilities Edward E. Wall.

The contract, approved by Associate City Counselor Oliver Senti, provides that the city may discontinue service to the line in case of shortage.

WIFE DIVORCES G. S. HUFFMAN; ALIMONY ON SLIDING SCALE

Graduated Payments Based on Income of Metalcraft Corporation Officer.

Mrs. Dorothy Duckworth Huffman obtained a divorce today from George S. Huffman, treasurer of the Metalcraft Corporation, 5101 Penrose avenue. She charged desertion.

She was granted $1500 a year alimony under a graduated agreement which fixes the alimony at that figure while Huffman has his present income, but which raises the alimony if Huffman's income goes up. The maximum alimony she can receive is $2700 a year. Custody of a 4-year-old daughter, Desha, also was obtained by Mrs. Huffman.

The Huffmans were married at Anna, Ill., in October, 1930, and separated in July, 1935. She gave her address as the Maryland Hotel. Huffman resides at the Fairgrounds Hotel.

FASHION is an ART —
NOT a matter of DOLLARS and CENTS

An artist painting a picture is always striving to inject his genius to its fullest measure into every brush stroke. His mind is always on the ultimate appearance and beauty of his work. Whether he receives little or much for his painting does not change its quality.

So it is in clothes—as we know them at Kline's. Every fashion that enters this store is the fullest measure of loveliness possible. Here there is no short cut to beauty—no buying of clothes so that their only virtue is cheapness. Clothes by Kline's—whether sports coats at $16.75 or magnificent suits at $295—are fashionable. Here you'll seldom find "bargains" at the height of a season. Here, however you WILL ALWAYS find clothes that make you lovelier, clothes that have been chosen for the charm they will bring to you no matter how little or how much you wish to pay.

Roosevelt Urges Voters to 'Look Up Own Answers'; Gov. Landon Renews Charge of Extravagance

Candidates' Messages Heard on Forum Program in New York; Both Declare for Freedom of Discussion.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—An appeal by President Roosevelt for "clear thinking" in deciding the issues of the campaign and an attack by Gov. Alf M. Landon on what he termed the "waste and extravagance" of the New Deal were made at the Herald Tribune Forum last night.

The President, speaking by telephone from Hyde Park, N. Y., said the Forum might start political partisans thinking and "convey the idea that prejudice is a rather weak substitute for logic in determining the questions that are of such vital consequence to our country as a whole and to each individual citizen thereof."

Landon's statement was read by Representative Joseph W. Martin Jr., Eastern Republican campaign manager.

Roosevelt's Address.

The text of President Roosevelt's address follows:

"Anything that makes for tolerance of opinion and contributes to the general education of our people in the issues of governmental policy is of vast value. Therefore I like the forum idea. May we have more of them and cover the country with them."

"It is not likely that such a brief expression of a point of view as is possible on such an occasion will persuade the convinced or lead the partisan to change his or her position, but it may start such people to thinking and convey the idea that prejudice is rather weak substitute for logic in determining the questions that are of such vital consequence to our country as a whole and to each individual citizen thereof."

"It is natural, I suppose, in a campaign year for advocates and adversaries of any policy, or process of government to relapse into exaggeration and invective, and so becloud the controversy as to make it possible for the future of the country to be determined in rancor and temper instead of by calm deliberation and clear thinking."

Function of the Press.

"I don't know that there is any actual remedy for this state of af-airs, but I believe that it is within the power and the province of the press to make whatever improvement is possible. I do not think that anybody objects to a statement of opinion or an argument, either pro or con, being put forth in the editorial pages provided the editorials do not contain misstatements of fact. That, unless I entirely misunderstand newspaper psychology, is what the newspaper editorial columns are for.

"I do not believe—and I do not think any disagreement is possible on this subject—that a journal's news columns ought to be lampered with, either by coloring news or by leaving out news. The news is the commodity that is marketed to the whole people."

"I may be accused of idealism when I suggest that a Republican reader of a Democratic newspaper is entitled to all the news that appertains to his segment of the political landscape and that a Democratic reader of a Republican newspaper should not be fed exclusively on a Republican diet. And I would apply the same idealism to the headlines."

Contrasts Nations.

"The forum idea, conducted impartially, is an indication of the objective which most fair-minded people seek. I cannot help but contrast a nation which more and more is encouraging any friendly discussion on all manner of public problems with those countries which, unfortunately, have made public discussion difficult, if not impossible."

"In the welter of passion which is apparently still inseparable from our political campaigns, you and I hear about the liberty of the press—regimentation of the press against the Government and regimentation of the press by the Government."

"It is doubtful if the United States ever had an administration since the days when Washington was accused of despotism and aspirations to kingship that had the slightest desire to muzzle anybody. The unchecked virulence of assaults on almost every administration since the beginning of our history in itself is best proof of that statement. A Friend Disturbed.

"An old friend of mine, who, although a successful man of affairs in New York, has led a somewhat narrow existence, asked me the other day if it was true, as many of his friends had told him, that three-quarters of all the money spent for relief of the needy unemployed in these past few years had gone for overhead and only one-quarter to the needy unemployed themselves."

"He asked me further if it was true, as he had been told by his friends, that all our bank deposits were insecure and our insurance policies worthless. I wrote him that it would be best for him to look up the answer himself. I suggested that he attend your forum yesterday and today. I hope he has been with you."

"The time may come when the policies of the nation will be determined with a serenity and logic that any serious business problem is decided among the directors of the business, but I must reluctantly confess that we have not reached that day."

"I wish I might have attended the forum in person. If I had been with you, I might have been moved to take part in the discussion. My part, in that case, would at least have been tempered by good humor, an effort to develop the facts, and a desire to present constructive remedies for current ills. I send to you my compliments and good wishes."

Landon's Message.

The text of the message sent by Gov. Landon follows:

"Your chairman very kindly invited me to speak to you today, personally or by radio. To my great regret other engagements in Iowa and Minnesota have prevented my accepting the invitation. I would like, however, to give you my greetings and to say a word in tribute to those whose work and co-operation have made possible the success of the New York Herald Tribune Forum."

"In these troubled days, when established systems of government are being overthrown in many nations of the world and when our own traditions are being questioned, the women of America are faced with great responsibilities. These they are meeting, as they have always met them. They must help in making the great national decisions that affect so vitally not only their own welfare, but the welfare of their children."

"A high degree of public understanding of the meaning of our constitutional right to freedom of religion, freedom of education, freedom of speech and a free press is essential to the continuation of true liberalism. Within the past few years the number of countries in which these rights exist have grown fewer and fewer. This trend is directly opposed to the progress of true liberalism. With the tide toward race prejudice and absolutism abroad in the world, it is important that we jealously guard our freedom in these respects."

Democracy's Need.

"A democracy cannot live in the dark. Only tyranny and absolutism can proceed under the shadow of the censor. This must never be forgotten."

"The delegates to your Herald Tribune Forum are a representative and public spirited group of Americans. You have the practical experience in family budget-making and know the right and wrong of national budget-making. You have the generosity and warmth of heart to see that the sick, the aged, the needy and the unemployed, are cared for."

"In talking to you tonight I shall stress briefly two points on which I feel deeply. The first is the issue of waste and extravagance. When the New Deal was originated, ostensibly to meet an emergency, all Americans were glad to co-operate. We were ready to excuse mistakes due to urgent haste and necessary experimentation. What we cannot excuse today is the fact that waste and extravagance and the reckless experimentation then initiated have been fastened upon Washington as the habitual thriftlessness of a prodigal government of ever-expanding bureaucrats."

Sympathy With New Deal.

"We Republicans are glad to express our sympathy with many aims of the present administration. It is when we reach the ways and means, the hard practical details, the problems of day by day administration, the practical results, the housekeeping, if you will, that we Americans, both Republicans and Democrats, part company with the New Deal. In this world there can be no escape from the hard facts of arithmetic and experience."

"As prosperity under the pressure of natural economic forces gradually returns, the revenues of the Government luckily go up. But so still do the expenses of the Government. That is the most damning fact about the present administration. The costs are traveling in the wrong direction. Unless they are reversed, we can never balance the budget or reduce taxes. Both these are essential to our national stability and prosperity. If I am elected, I shall reverse that trend immediately, without injury to the legitimate functions of government or injustice to the needy and unemployed."

"I am thinking not only of the heavy burden of the still-climbing direct and hidden taxes. I am thinking not only of the peril of the financial stability of the nation—and of each of us—in this spend-thrift policy. I am thinking quite as much of the coming generations—of your children and mine—who will have to pay the bills for this generation. Is this fair?"

Narrow Nationalism.

"The other aspect of the New Deal that I would stress is the narrow nationalism in its planned economy. I do not believe this narrowness of outlook is good economics. Nor does it make for social justice or higher standards of life. You women of America love your country and you want it to go forward as America, free from foreign entanglement and true to its great past. Yet you care as deeply for world peace. You are therefore against the narrow type of nationalism that would plan the economic forces and direct the lives of the people of this country. America cannot exist safely and self-contained without foreign trade or any responsibility abroad.

"I know that such narrow nationalism tends to convert the nations of the world into armed camps. The ideals of the present administration are fair to listen to. But when the President turned his back on the London economic conference in 1933 he set back the cause of peace by many years. I am for that economic co-operation with other nations which will fully protect America's interest. I pledge practical support for the peaceful settlement of international disputes through arbitration and negotiation."

Hoover Calls for Return of Relief to Local Hands.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Former President Hoover advocated local instead of Federal administration of relief in a speech here yesterday, declaring that during his administration, when relief was handled locally, "no one starved."

The former President was one of many speakers who addressed the Herald Tribune Forum.

Under Federal administration of relief, he said, "the sense of community responsibility has been turned to greed for Federal money."

"To protect themselves in an equal share of relief funds, many a community has joined in a vicious scramble to get what it can from the Federal grab bag," he declared.

"What some Mayor or Congressman grabbed for his locality has become a claim for re-election."

"There are labor shortages in the face of large numbers on relief. The destitute cling fearfully to a certainty, rather than lose their hold on a great Federal machine. Numbers of people are being thus reduced to a sort of numb dependency. There is less local effort to place people in jobs. Local public opinion to correct failure and wrong is less effective.

Resentment Instead of Sympathy.

"Today, instead of sympathy for the unemployed and the destitute, there is a growing resentment. The real sympathy from the national heart flows far more truly through personal leadership in the community than through Federal agents."

"There is a spiritual loss in all this which cannot be estimated. Instead of building up the solidarity of neighbor for neighbor, instead of building the responsibility of good neighbors among men and women, we are undermining self-respect of men and women. We are creating contempt for Government."

He said the major burden of relief must be carried by the Federal Government but that, in his opinion, one-half of the $3,500,000,000 spent annually on relief would yield a greater benefit than is now attained.

In his administration, he stated, there were no charges of politics, waste or corruption, or failure to prevent hunger or cold.

Hamilton Meets Farley.

A short time before Hoover spoke, Democratic Chairman James A. Farley and Republican Chairman John Hamilton addressed the forum.

Meeting for the first time since the campaign started, they sat side by side on the platform and chatted amiably. Later each congratulated the other on his speech and they left together to pose for pictures.

Farley declared the Roosevelt administration had adhered to the 1932 Democratic platform "except where changing conditions rendered it imperative to alter the details."

"More than that," he said, "the spirit of that platform has never been lost. Day or night, from the moment Franklin D. Roosevelt took office."

Hamilton emphasized a clause in the Republican platform which declared that "the acceptance of the nomination tendered by this convention carries with it as a matter of private honor and public faith an undertaking by each candidate to be true to the principles and program herein set forth."

Lemke and Colvin Speak.

Addresses were made by two presidential candidates. William Lemke, nominee of the Union party, said the Communists had laid their "cuckoo eggs in the Democratic nest" and that President Roosevelt was "hatching them."

He said the Union party was born because of "the broken pledges of both the reactionary Republican and stand-pat Democratic parties and party leaders."

"There is no difference between the two old parties," he declared. "They both believe in standing still, in letting bad enough alone, thankful that it is not worse. They believe that some miracle will happen and get them out of the present situation."

D. Leigh Colvin, Prohibition nominee, declared that "prohibition is the supreme political issue in 1936 because the old parties have restored the liquor power."

"The liquor power," he said, "is that combination of the organized liquor interests with their tremendous financial power, plus their allegiance with the gambling and vicious interests of the criminal underworld, plus its alliance with certain predatory corporations designed to gain control of the Government, plus the corrupt political machines."

CUMMINGS AIDS INQUIRY

Sends Prosecutors to Illinois in Anti-Trust Law Cases.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 24.—Four special prosecutors from the office of Attorney-General Homes S. Cummings arrived here today to appear before the Federal grand jury, apparently as part of an investigation of railroad bombings in the Illinois coal fields.

Howard L. Doyle of Decatur, United States District Attorney, issued a statement that the purpose was "the investigation of certain alleged violations of the Federal anti-trust laws." He conferred with S. E. Whitaker, Walter L. Rise and John F. Clagett, special assistants to the Attorney-General, and Gwyn Harper, special attorney of the Department of Justice, who arrived from Washington this morning.

Witness to Burglary Attempt Fires Into Air.

Awakened by an unusual noise at 2:30 a. m. today, Albert Papenberg leaned out a window in his second-floor bedroom at 3701A Cook avenue and saw three Negroes trying to enter the grocery below.

Not having a telephone, he fired a shotgun into the air 10 times from his back porch in an effort to attract police. The shots attracted 24 policemen and one newspaper reporter, but by that time the Negroes had disappeared.

APPEAL FOR SAFETY OF 4000 HOSTAGES

Diplomats, Churchmen and Red Cross Agents Join in Plea at Bilbao.

By the Associated Press.
ST. JEAN DE LUZ, France, Sept. 24.—Diplomats, churchmen and a representative of the International Red Cross joined last night in an effort to save 4000 hostages from death in the Spanish Government-held City of Bilbao.
Fears were expressed that anarchists on the Government side might massacre all prisoners if the Fascist General, Emilio Mola, bombarded Bilbao.
Daniel Garcia Mansilla, the Argentine Ambassador accredited to Madrid, and other diplomats failed to obtain the consent of the insurgent Burgos junta to a mass exchange of hostages. Gen. Mola was reported to have said he would exchange hostages only one by one.
A map giving the positions of the prisons and ships holding the hostages was sent to insurgent officers at San Sebastian by foreign Consuls and received in reply a promise that insurgents would attempt to avoid bombarding those places.
Diplomats expressed doubt that the plan would succeed, since one of the hostage-laden vessels has been anchored next to a large munitions plant and another beside a military aviation field—sure targets for the insurgents.
Dr. Marcel Junod, representing the Red Cross at Geneva, planned conferences with Basque Nationalist leaders at Bilbao in an attempt to have ships moved.

WOMAN, 74, HURT IN AUTO TUESDAY, DIES OF INJURIES

Mrs. Thompson, Moweaqua, Ill., Had Just Left Undertaker's When Accident Occurred.
Mrs. Winifred Thompson, 74 years old, of Moweaqua, Ill., died today at St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis, of injuries suffered Tuesday night. An automobile in which she was riding was struck by two other cars when her son-in-law, Fred Baumgardt, who was driving, attempted to turn around in the middle of the 1400 block of St. Louis avenue, East St. Louis.
The accident occurred just after they drove away from the Barnes Funeral Home, 1416 St. Louis, where they had viewed the body of Mrs. Thompson's daughter, Mrs. Fred Baumgardt. The other cars were driven by Ira Wyde, 20 North Third street, East St. Louis, and Verdie Walker, 719 North Twenty-sixth street, East St. Louis. Mrs. Thompson was the only person injured.

MINNESOTA FOOTBALL TEAM ROUTED BY HOTEL FIRE

Many of Players Lose Personal Property in Blaze in Montana.

By the Associated Press.
MISSOULA, Mont., Sept. 24.—Pajama-clad, 43 members of the University of Minnesota football team en route to Seattle to play the University of Washington, escaped without injury today from a fire which destroyed the Florence Hotel and seven other buildings here.
The players and coaches dashed from the building and ran, most of them barefooted, several blocks to the special train on which they are traveling to the coast.
The hotel housed almost 200 guests. At least a dozen buildings were damaged by smoke and water. The damage was estimated by firemen at several thousand dollars.
Pulling their trousers on over pajamas, the football players ran through heavy smoke to reach the street. Coach Bernie Bierman said personal losses were heavy.

COAL WEIGHER FINED $25 ON MISREPRESENTATION CHARGE

Alleged to Have Sold Fuel as Perry Egg, When It Was Freeburg Grade A.

Otto Baer, a bonded weigher for the West Pine Coal Co., 3967 West Pine boulevard, was fined $25 and costs by Police Judge James F. Nangle today on a charge of misrepresenting the quality of coal sold to a customer.
Testimony was that Baer sold four and a half tons of coal to a customer for $18.36, representing it to be Perry egg coal, from Perry County, Illinois, when examination showed it to be Freeburg grade A, from Freeburg, Ill. H. W. Kessler, an inspector for the Department of Weights and Measures, said the coal should have been sold for $13.50.

BABY DIES AFTER OPERATION THAT FATHER OBJECTED TO Autopsy Shows Intestinal Abnormality Was Certain to Be Fatal to Chicago Infant.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—Six-day-old Julian Tafel, operated on Tuesday for an intestinal abnormality, died last night. The father at first had objected to the operation, but gave in to the mother's pleas.
The child had no chance from the beginning, it was disclosed by an autopsy, performed two hours after three physicians gave up the battle at the baby's oxygen tent. Had he not died of uremic poisoning after the operation, a necessary secondary operation would have killed him, they declared.
The Tafels have a daughter a few years old.

Operation on E. H. Wayman, City Counselor Edgar H. Wayman underwent an operation for appendicitis last night at St. Luke's Hospital. His condition was reported as "good" today. He became ill Tuesday.

LLOYD GEORGE FINDS FAULT WITH PERSHING

Criticizes 'Bustling Incompetency' of U. S. Efforts in World War.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—David Lloyd George, wartime Prime Minister of Great Britain, finds fault with Gen. John J. Pershing and the whole United States World War machine in the fifth volume of his memoirs, published today. He condemns Gen. Pershing for his stubborn fight to keep his American divisions intact instead of allowing them to be incorporated in the Allied armies.

"He (Pershing) was quivering with suspicion that the British and French meant to rob him of his army," Lloyd George writes. He speaks of "American indecision and bustling incompetency," but praises the courage of the American soldier. He says large numbers of American soldiers in the Argonne sector were insufficiently fed. He criticizes American handling of shipments of artillery and airplanes.

"The result," he says, "was a fussy muddle."

Almost the whole first year of United States participation in the war, Lloyd George says, was "a comparatively insignificant contribution of a mighty republic to the struggle in France."

"It was very much less," he continues, "and far smaller than the British nation made in a similar period."

"Inexplicable Paradox."

"It is one of the most inexplicable paradoxes of history that the greatest machine-producing nation on earth failed to turn out mechanism for war after 18 months of sweating, toiling, hustling. The men placed in charge all seemed to hesitate each other—but never the job."

"The equipment (the American) was in another place, 'was a lamentable story of indecision, bustling and incompetency.'"

At the end of the war, Lloyd George declares, half of the airplanes used by American aviators were of French or British make; no American-made fieldpiece fired a single shot during the war; not a single American-made tank rolled into action.

American soldiers, he admits, were "superb." The presence, he concedes, enabled France and Great Britain to fling their last reserves against Germany. "Most of the fighting fell to the French and British troops," he remarks, "but their sacrifice would have been in vain without the American army."

Lloyd George also rehearses his controversy with Field Marshal Haig whom he accuses of incompetence in strategy and tactics and whom he charges with refusal to co-operate with Marshal Foch.

Lloyd George commends the United States Navy as highly serviceable against submarines and in conveying transports.

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson Replies, Accuses Lloyd George of Conspiracy.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, who was chief of supply and traffic of the American Expeditionary Force in France, replied today to Lloyd George's criticism of Gen. Pershing and the United States contribution to the Allied cause.

"Mr. Lloyd George himself was involved in a conspiracy to have Gen. Pershing supplanted by Gen. Peyton March so that American soldiers might be treated as cannon fodder by the British and French," said Gen. Johnson. "Gen. March, who was chief of staff here, indicated in his own book that if he had gone over he would have broken up the United States army."

"Regarding Lloyd George's statement that Pershing was quivering with suspicion," Gen. Johnson said: "I never saw Pershing quiver, but he certainly had a right to. His original order in August, 1917, contemplated an American army under an American flag, but he found both British and French using every stratagem to have American soldiers fed into their divisions, to fight in their uniforms and under their colors."

Says Pershing Obeyed Orders.

Gen. Pershing, with the constant knowledge and approval of President Wilson, insisted on carrying out his orders, and while at every crisis he relaxed this policy, as was superbly acknowledged by Gen. Foch, he did insist on the formation of American divisions, army corps and a field army.

"As to the American contribution of supplies, Clemenceau is on record that American supplies to the French armies were all that enabled them to hold the front. It is true that direct supplies of tanks, planes and ammunition did not get fully under way in our 18 months, but this was the policy and express desire of the Allied powers. "The French urged us, and we agreed, to use their 75-millimeter guns. The arrangement was that we would use facilities for manufacture in both France and England, furnishing them with steel and other elements. It worked out perfectly satisfactorily to them. As for tanks, we furnished motors and other parts to be assembled abroad."

mobilization of force by any nation or combination of nations in the war in a similar period of time."

Gen. Pershing Declines to Make "Any Comment Whatsoever."

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Sept. 24.—Gen. John J. Pershing declined yesterday to "make any comment whatsoever" on Mr. Lloyd George's book.

VEILED PROPHET EXCURSIONS

Rail Rates to Be Lower Than at Any Previous Time.

Railroad excursion rates to St. Louis for the Veiled Prophet celebration Oct. 6, will be lower than at any previous time, it is announced. The time limit on round-trip tickets also will be longer, it is said.

From the West and Southwest and from Chicago and intermediate points a fare-and-one-third rate will be in effect, with a 30-day limit for tickets. Certain roads from the East will sell tickets at fare plus 25 cents, with return required Oct. 7. Similar reductions have been ordered in the southeastern territory, with a 15-day limit.

Louis Has Been Lucky

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24.—WONDER what James E. Waddock, champion of the world, thought as he sat in the side and saw Joe Louis and Ettore apart?

"Lucky stiff," he probably thought to himself—and he could mean either fighter. Louis has been lucky from the beginning.

In spite of his smashing feat by stopping Ettore, he is lucky in some other public feat. His fight was a draw, but he fought a good fight. He would win if he had a better form against a fighter.

BRADDOCK Sharkey and contributed a quarter of a million in receipts to view his fight against Ettore, a fighter who is only a third-rate. Louis got almost as much beating Ettore as Braddock for winning the world championship.

"Lucky stiff" is right. It also goes for Ettore who made no possible yardstick, made to measure up as a great fighter. In all his career, Ettore never won over $7000 for his end of a win or lose—and he lost. Yet we saw him before a tremendous crowd drawing a per cent of $215,000 for a puerile exhibition of fighting. Try to figure how many tons of coal Al would shovel to earn that sum if he were devoted to an occupation that suits him far better than fighting.

"Lucky stiff" once more.

An "Unlucky Stiff."

As to himself Jimmy A. have something different to think about, such as "I wonder if this arthritis will ever be of my arm?"

"Suppose it does, will I be enough to beat that dinger? Even if I don't, I ought enough out of the loser's pay for a beating, if I take one?"

If Louis misses me with right hand as often as he tore, I probably would have good chance to beat him never can tell. After all, I be 32 next June.

"I can't be all in at the And so forth, ad libitum. Is he going to be lucky or lucky?"

That's up to you to give we have a settled conviction as far as the future of his title is concerned, he is a good-sized loser's end—it's Schmeling or Louis he is.

Capitalizing the Stadium

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24.—The American Olympic Committee, headed by Dr. V. G. Vucanich and defended by Dr. Jarrett from the swimming pool, has decided to make the stadium, not by the committee, of which Dr. Jarrett is chairman, not by the committee, but by the committee had to consider the stadium again it would be the same decision.

Dr. Jarrett declared he did not intend to seek re-election as president of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States. His term in office expires in December.

The Olympic games, bobby and I intend to devote spare time to them in the future, he said. Dr. Jarrett was elected a member of the International Olympic Committee.

Dray's COLUMN

Louis Has Been Lucky.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24.—Wonder what James J. Braddock, champion of all the world, thought as he sat at ringside and saw Joe Louis take Al Ettore apart?

"Lucky stiff," he probably said to himself—and he could have meant either fighter. Louis has been lucky from the beginning. In spite of his smashing defeat by Schmeling, he is still lucky in that somehow the public feels that his downfall was an accident, that if he fought Schmeling again he would win. And they turn out in thousands to see him perform against a washed-up BRADDOCK fighter like Sharkey and contributed almost a quarter of million in gate receipts to view his appearance against Ettore, a fighter who obviously is only a third-rater.

Louis got almost as much for beating Ettore as Braddock did for winning the world championship. "Lucky stiff" is right. It also goes for Ettore who, by no possible yardstick, could be made to measure up as an opponent of Louis. In all his previous career, Ettore never was paid over $7000 for his end of a fight, win or lose—and he lost plenty. Yet we saw him before a tremendous crowd drawing down 20 per cent of $215,000 for a rather puny exhibition of fighting. His brief net receipts netted him $2000. Try to figure how many tons of coal Al would have to shovel to earn that sum if his life were devoted to an occupation that suits him far better than fighting.

"I can't be in at that age." And so forth, ad libitum. Is he going to be lucky, or unlucky?

That's up to you to guess. But we have a settled conviction that, as far as the future of his world's title is concerned, he is in for a good-sized loser's end—whether it's Schmeling or Louis he meets.

Batteries: New York—Gahler and Danning; Boston—Weir and Mueller.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—The New York Giants clinched the National League pennant today by defeating the Boston Bees, 2 to 1 in the tenning opener of a doubleheader.

Climaxing a drive they started on July 15 after sinking to second division, the Giants scored their ninety-first victory with today's triumph. They have four games to play.

The second place St. Louis Cardinals, with 85 victories, have five to play, and by winning all their games will still fall short of tying.

The victory moved the Giants 5 1/2 games in front of the Cardinals, before the Gas House Gang started their doubleheader today with the Reds.

Schumacher Wins Own Game.

Hal Schumacher's seven-hit pitching, and a run in the tenth inning on Bill Urbanski's two-base error of Travis Jackson's liner and Schumacher's single sewed up today's victory for the Giants, breaking up a pitcher's duel between the New York ace and Danny MacFayden.

By sewing up the pennant, the Giants clinched the first "subway series" between the two New York major league teams since 1923. The Yankees won the American League pennant on Sept. 9.

The pennant victory for the Giants is the second championship they have won under the management of Bill Terry. They were triumphant in the National League race of 1933, and then defeated the Washington Senators in the world's series.

Giants' Drive Started July 15.

Their drive to the title was one of the most astonishing in the history of the league. After fighting for the top early in the season, they blew up completely in late May and early June and slipped steadily down until they hit fifth place.

Al Ettore Flies Through the Ring, Propelled by Joe Louis

Al Ettore of Philadelphia went to the floor three times in his heavyweight bout with Joe Louis, Detroit Negro, in Philadelphia Tuesday night. These pictures show in detail the effect of Louis' right-hand smash to Ettore's head in the fourth round, which sent the hapless Al down for a count of nine. 1—Ettore spun into a whirl. 2—Al catapulting (3) into the air to land (4) flat on the canvas. After several seconds, starting to push himself up. 5—Raised to one knee and (6) waiting for Referee Jack McGuigan's count to reach nine.

Creel and Evens Win Quarterfinal Matches In Lefties' Golf Meet

By W. J. McGoogan.

NORWOOD HILLS COUNTRY CLUB, Sept. 24.—Howard Creel, Pueblo, Colo., continued his triumphant march in the first annual National Left-handed Golfers' Tournament here today with a 10 and 9 victory over Kenneth Fitzgerald, Meadowbrook Country Club.

The victory put the tournament medalist and favorite in the semifinal round.

He was followed into the penultimate matches by Fred Evens, Norwood Hills, St. Louis' hope who scored an 8 and 7 victory over Kenneth Guenther, Sioux Falls, S. D.

Creel, after establishing a lead of five upon the morning's play, turned the nine holes necessary in the afternoon in 34, despite the fact that he was over par on three holes. A high wind was bothering his tee shots somewhat but his great recoveries made up for the deficiency.

Downs a 30-Foot Putt.

After losing the first to Fitzgerald's par four, Howard banged his tee shot at the second hole and knocked in a 30-foot putt for a birdie deuce. He made a difficult second shot that third from behind a tree just short of the green and chipped close. He won the hole with a four to go six up. They halved the fourth with fives and Creel went seven up with a birdie three at the fifth.

He was in a ditch to the right of the sixth fairway, the ball lying in the roots of a tree but he made a beautiful out and was just short of the green. He got his five and a half.

Creel hit a tremendous drive at the seventh, pitched on and went eight up with a par four and he ran out the match with a par three at the eighth and an eagle 3 at the ninth.

Evens Plays Steady Golf.

Evens was only one up after the morning round but Guenther's game went to pieces in the afternoon as Freddy played a steady game.

As Guenther expressed it, the only good shot he made in the afternoon was when he chipped over a dead stump at ninth hole to gain a half. Otherwise, his tee shots were wild and his putting was none too good.

One of the best shots Evens made

RAIN PREVENTS BROWNS' GAME; PLAY INDIANS TWO TOMORROW

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 24.—Jack Knott and Elton Hogsett will pitch for the Browns tomorrow when they play a doubleheader with the Indians for the entertainment for delegates and visitors to the American Legion convention. Today's game was postponed by rain.

The Browns are not going anywhere themselves, as far as the league standing is concerned, but they may wreck Cleveland's chance to finish in first division. If they do, the Cleveland management will be to blame. Rain at Sportsman's Park dictated that these two games be dropped from the schedule, but the Cleveland club saw an advantage in transferring them here as a lure to the Legionnaires.

Consequently Rogers Hornsby brought his team here this morning from Detroit where it gained a 10 to 1 triumph over the Tigers yesterday. The victory gave the Browns an even break for the year with Detroit.

The Browns, whose bats were stilled by Elden Auker and Tommy Bridges the day before, pounded

MEDWICK HITS 63D DOUBLE, SETTING A NEW LEAGUE RECORD

By J. Roy Stockton.

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, Sept. 24.—The Cardinals defeated the Cincinnati Reds here this afternoon in the first game of a double-header.

The score was 5 to 4.

Twelve innings were played.

With the Cubs again losing to the Pittsburgh Pirates, the Redbirds increased their second place margin over the Chicagoans to two games.

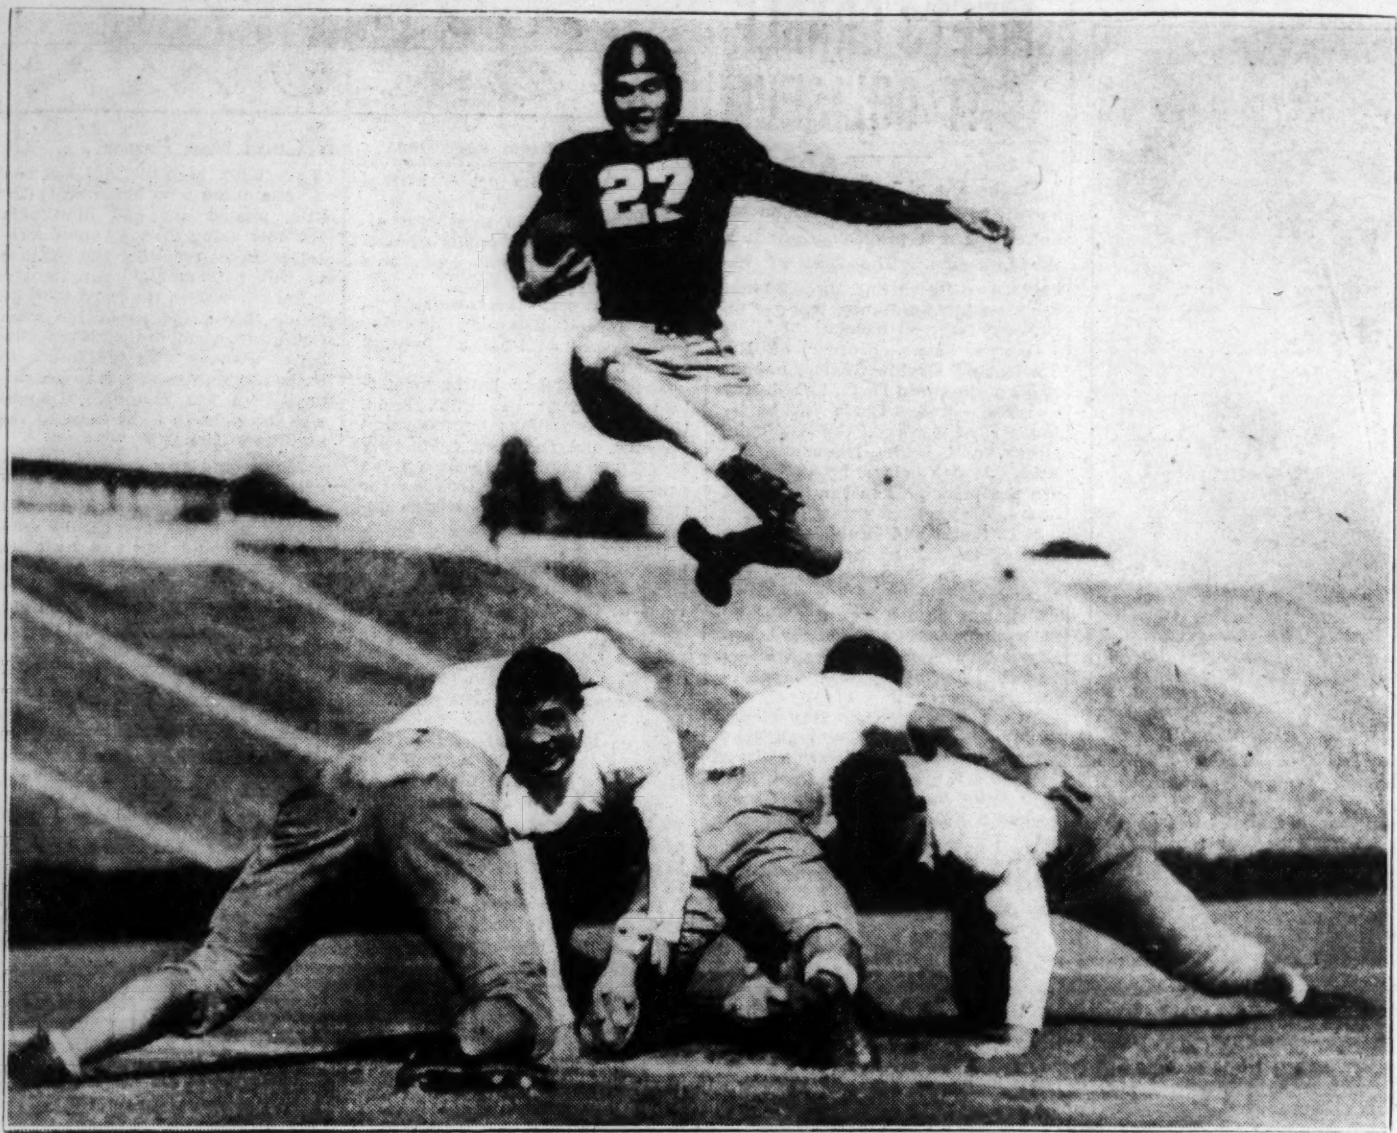

LeRoy Parmelee started on the hill for the Cardinals but was removed for a pinch hitter in the eighth, and Mike Ryba went to the mound for the Cardinals in the ninth. Gene Schott was the Reds' pitcher.

Joe Medwick hit his sixty-third two-bagger of the season in the third inning, setting a new National League doubles record.

MUNY FOOTBALL LEAGUE BEGINS SEASON SUNDAY

The amateurs who play the game of football without the inspiration of an Alma Mater to drive them on will begin their season this Sunday on the Drill Grounds in Forest Park when the first doubleheader of the Municipal Football Association is played. Four teams are in the league.

There will be a meeting of the managers tonight with Recreation Superintendent Frank D. Sullivan at 8 o'clock at the Field House in Forest Park.

Teams entered are the Weber Deibels, White Lines, Food Centers and the Sentinel De Molays. The De Molays are the runner-ups. The De Molays are entering for the first season.

There were five teams last year: the Mordie Wolfs, Lennemans and Quadrangles being the teams that have dropped out. The Quadrangles are now playing professional football.

CITY-COUNTY RIFLE AND REVOLVER SHOOT WILL BE HELD SUNDAY

Rifle and revolver matches for the city-county championship will be held Sunday at the outdoor range of the Glendale Shooting Club, sponsors of the event. The range is located at Hollow, Mo., about 23 miles west of the city limits on Mitchell road.

The rifle title will be decided over the Dewar course which consists of 20 shots at 50 yards and 20 at 100 yards. Any 22-caliber rifle, using .22-caliber rim-fire ammunition and metallic sights can be used.

Any pistol or revolver can be used for the pistol championship. Course of fire will be 30 shots at 50 yards, slow fire.

11 games, winning five and losing six. They defeated Seawee, Kirksville, Missouri; Mines, Jonesboro Teachers and De Paul and lost to Creighton. Marquette, Mississippi; North Dakota; Xavier of Cincinnati and Washington. The Bears, playing 10 games in 1935, won six and lost four. They were defeated by Illinois, Michigan State, Southern Methodist and Duquesne and won from McKendree, Creighton, Drake, Missouri, Oklahoma Aggies and St. Louis U.

Group Scouting.
Quite a group of St. Louis scouts will see the Illinois-De Paul game Saturday. Washington will send Gale Bullman and Percy Gill to pay special attention to the Zuppke eleven, while St. Louis U. will have head coach Muellerleile, Carl Pike, Titus Cornell and Ed Hall to observe the De Paul maneuvers.

Both Billikens and Bears have made last-minute changes in their lineups for opening games. At St. Louis, Les Eagle will be at fullback in Kloepper's place, with Bob Shea taking over Herrmann's half. Kloepper has a bad ankle. The only "rusty" iron man at Washington is Norman Tomlinson, big tackle, whose ankle is creaking. Walter Gog will open at the position against Bradley Tech.

Creel and Evens Win and Reach Golf Semifinals

was out of a trap at the seventh hole where he banged the ball to the green with a wooden club.

Alexander Antonio, Linden, N. J., was 2 up on Dr. W. J. Winburn, Winchester, Ky., at the half way mark. Theirs was a close match all the way, due in a measure to Antonio's failure with the putter. At that Antonio had a score of about 76 and the Doctor took two more strokes.

Samuel G. Alpert, La Salle, Ill., surprised by taking a lead of 3 up on Spencer Brainard, New Haven, Conn., New England southpaw champion, during their morning round.

Yesterday's Rain Spoiled Play.
So bad was the weather for the second round yesterday that more than one gave up the struggle before the 36 holes were completed.

Alexander Antonio, Linden, N. J., was one who advanced in an abbreviated match, winning 4 and 3.

According to the scoreboard, from L. W. Hay of Kenosha, Wis., actually the match went fewer than nine holes as Hay, 4 down at that point, said when the rain began to pour down, "Aw, I give up. I can't beat you, so what's the use of wandering around in this rain?"

Not so dumb, at that, for he and his erstwhile opponent went into the clubhouse to escape the worst part of the downpour.

Bob Edgar, Normandy southpaw, got along all right in his match with Spencer Brainard of New Haven, Conn., until the rain overtook them and he was 8 down when it was time for lunch.

Edgar reflected that it might be the sporting thing to do to give up at that point to save Brainard the trouble of going out in the afternoon so he might conserve his strength for his next round.

Bob also gave up, as did Hay. The only trouble was that both Antonio and Brainard played in the afternoon, anyway. Alexander going to the Country Club for a round and Brainard in a five-hole here.

Fought to Finish.
However, there were some matches fought to the bitter finish.

Fred M. Evens, Norwood Hills, gained revenge over Sam Arnold, Kirksville, Mo., for the beating Arnold handed him in the final of the State Lefthanders' tournament last season, by winning from Sam, 4 and 2. Fred gained a lead of two up on the mornings round due to a splendid 76 in the rain and held onto the margin in the afternoon. In fact at one time he was five up.

Evens hasn't been playing much golf of late and his hands and feet are tender but he managed a 74 in the afternoon, chipping well from off the greens and putting entirely too well, according to Arnold.

Evens today opposed Kenneth Guenther of Sioux Falls, S. D., newspaper sports writer of his vicinity.

Guenther had a rather hard match in winning from George Baker, Decatur, Ia., 7 and 5.

Perhaps the outstanding match of the second round was that in which Samuel G. Alpert of La Salle, Ill., won from Herman Wyman, Forest Park, one up in 37 holes.

Alpert gained a lead of 7 up on Wyman in the morning and it was thought that perhaps Herman would not consider it worth while to go out in the afternoon.

Questioned as to his intentions, Herman said "Oh, yes, I might just

WHIPPLE WINNER IN LEGION GOLF TOURNAMENT
CLEVELAND, Sept. 24.—Ray Whipple of Post No. 41, La Grange, Ill., defeated Jack Scheurman of Cal-Hut Post No. 273, Los Angeles, Cal., by a single stroke yesterday to win the national American Legion golf championship.

They met at Hawthorne Country Club for a nine-hole playoff after being tied at 152 each in the regular 18-hole tournament Monday. Both finished with scores of 77 in the playoff.

BUDGE OPPOSES UNDERWOOD IN COAST TENNIS QUARTERFINAL

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 24.—Don Budge, top ranking American singles star, was called upon today to supply most of the fireworks in quarterfinal matches of the annual Pacific Southwest tennis championships.

The Oakland red-head, defending titlist and a dist-favorite to battle through to the final Sunday, was pitted against young Bobby Underwood, Stanford undergraduate.

In the other remaining quarterfinal John Van Ryn, 1935 national doubles champion, was picked to defeat Los Angeles' Jack Tidball who bumped Milwaukee's seeded Frankie Parker out of the championship bracket two days ago.

Fred Perry, Wimbledon and American singles king, and Francis X. Shields, former American Davis Cup player and now a Hollywood film actor, play Saturday in one semifinal match that already has attracted a boxoffice sellout.

Perry, who won the Pacific Southwest singles in 1932-33, did not enter last year, moved into the semifinals yesterday, downing John McDiarmid, bespectacled Princeton professor, 6-2, 6-4.

Shields won over Mort Ballagh of Los Angeles, 6-2, 6-4.

Alice Marble Advances.
Alice Marble, outstanding favorite to capture the women's singles title, yesterday eliminated Dr. Esther Bartosh, Los Angeles' Canadian titlist, 8-6, 6-1.

The national champion rushed into a 5-1 lead in the opening set before Dr. Bartosh could do anything with her foe's hand drives.

Miss Gracy Wheeler gained the semifinal rounds in the women's tourney in a tremendous 47-game contest with Barbara Winslow, 16-year-old Hollywood junior. Miss Winslow won by 11-13, 6-4, 9-7.

Dorothy Bundy advanced to the third round by defeating Mrs. Louis Martin, 6-0, 6-4.

Tulane's Oldest Rival.
University of Mississippi is Tulane's oldest football rival. They started in 1893 and since then Tulane has won 17 and Ole Miss 8.

Along with this victory streak of Hubbell's, the Giants also featured a return to form of Terry, who had been bothered with a bad knee for much of the season. Since the Giants started fighting for first place, he has played all but a few games at his first base position. His fielding and batting punch was a big factor in the Giants' victory record.

At the same time as the pitching recovered, the hitting did the same. Featured by a trio of outfield sluggers consisting of Mel Ott, Joe Moore and Jimmie Foxx, the batting for the club has been near the .300 mark since the first of September.

Giants Score First.
In today's game the Giants scored first in the second inning when Sam Leslie singled and scored on Burgess Whitehead's base hit.

The Bears tied it up in the sixth with Gene Moore's single, Tony Cuccinello's sacrifice and Hal Thompson's hit.

Schumacher and MacFayden bore down from there through the ninth inning, forcing the game into overtime. Opening the tenth, Burgess Whitehead lined out. Urbanski then juggled Jackson's grounder and threw wild past first, allowing the Giants' veteran third sacker to reach second. Schumacher won his own ball game immediately afterward by dropping a Texas League single into center, bringing Jackson home.

The Giants succeed the Chicago Cubs as National League champions.

They hit their stride and maintained it in their drive to the pennant, taking advantage of a pitching collapse on the part of the favored Cardinals and a disastrous hitting slump by the Cubs.

All that remains now is for the Cards and Cubs to battle it out for second place, with the Pittsburgh Pirates still a runner-up possibility.

GRIDBALL TEAMS OPEN SEASON, OCTOBER 18
Gridball leagues will open their season Oct. 18 in Forest Park. The City Recreation Department will again sponsor the sport. There are 18 teams that are planning to enter. Entries will close Oct. 13. A meeting will be held the next day to elect officers and make plans for the season.

Some of the players who are planning to captain teams are: Bob Dan and Fred Schiaffly, William Connert, Boyd Ware, W. L. Polk, Jimmy Jones, John Wagner, John G. Scott, Russell H. Doerner, Arthur B. Shepley Jr., Joseph Daley, Edward O'Brien Jr., Hord Hardin Jr., Joseph Flynn, and Larry Mullin.

He's Just a Young Feller, but Cleveland and Des Moines Seek Control of His "High, Hard One"

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 24.—President Alva Bradley of the Cleveland Indians said today he is not afraid he will lose Bob Feller, his sensational rookie pitcher, who at 17 years is co-holder of the big league baseball record for strikeouts in one game.

"I believe Judge Landis will rule in our favor," Bradley declared after Baseball Commissioner Keneaw M. Landis said in Chicago he was investigating a protest from the Des Moines club of the Western League that Cleveland violated the major-minor league agreement in signing Feller.

"I am investigating the Des Moines club's claim and will make a decision in due time," Landis asserted.

First Conference.
Bradley said that Feller, Feller's father, and C. C. Slapnicka, assistant to the president of the Indians, were called to Landis' office two weeks ago where they met E. Lee Keyser, president of the Des Moines club.

The minor league official claimed at Des Moines that the Cleveland club violated an organized baseball agreement in signing Feller direct from the sandlots but denied that he has asked Landis to make Feller a free agent.

"I believe we have a moral claim to Feller," said Keyser, "but I have not asked the baseball commissioner to make him a free agent. I honestly feel that if Cleveland hadn't signed him, Feller would have signed a Des Moines contract. He had worked out with us for several weeks."

Keyser said he told Judge Landis that Slapnicka went to Van Meter, Ia., Feller's home, and signed the young star a year ago. "That was a direct violation of the agreement between minor and major leagues," Keyser declared.

The Cleveland contention, Bradley said, is that the Indians did not pick the boy off the lots but bought him for New Orleans of the Southern Association.

Bradley declared that Feller was signed by Jack Knight, then president of the Fargo-Moorhead club of the Northern League, a club with which the Indians had a working agreement.

Feller never appeared in a Fargo-Moorhead uniform and was sold to New Orleans, another Cleveland farm. Without ever having reported to the Pelicans he was again sold this time to Cleveland.

Rule Covering Major-Minor Agreements.
The rule covering major-minor agreements relative to signing players is among the subdivisions of rule 1:

"Free agents—college players (1) Major-league clubs shall sign as free agents only college players and players who have previously contracted, or accepted terms, or had service, with any minor or major league club. A 'college player' means a player who is at the time of signing contract or accepting terms, or who within one year prior thereto has been, a member of a baseball team of any college, university, institution of higher learning (above the grade of preparatory schools, high schools, academies or other secondary schools)."

LOUIS PLANS BUSY RING CAMPAIGN TO KEEP IN CONDITION

BROWN BOMBER HAS TENTATIVE DATES FOR NEXT THREE MONTHS

Expects to Fight in New York Next Month and November, and in Cleveland in December.

By the Associated Press. PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 24.—Joe Louis, the big Negro transfer man from Detroit, has returned with his van to move the heavyweight boxing industry from Poverty row back to Easy street.

Back in circulation with smashing victories over ex-fighter Jack Sharkey and blond Al Ettore of Philadelphia, the Brown Bomber was rapidly approaching his former magnetism as one of the greatest one-man drawing cards in the business of legalized mayhem. Promoters, who felt like jumping out of their smoke-filled offices three months ago when Max Schmeling crashed the Bomber into a stunning defeat, were smiling and talking big money again.

"Am I laughing?" shouted promoter Mike Jacobs, holder of the Brown Bomber's fighting contract. "I am shouting. Sure, Louis didn't exactly lick any Jack Dempseys when he beat Sharkey and Ettore, but I am convinced more than ever that he's a great fighter. I don't think they can stop him now that he has learned the hard lesson of over-confidence. If I can get Madison Square Garden to shift the Braddock-Schmeling championship from June to May, then we can start planning right now for Joe to meet the winner in June. It should be a perfect setup for a million-dollar gate."

Could Have Done Better. Receipts from Tuesday night's fight in Philadelphia's huge municipal stadium, where a crowd of around 50,000 watched Louis apply the knockout drops to Ettore with two perfectly executed left hooks in the fifth round, brought smiles to "Uncle Mike." Despite the fact that the 22-year-old Ettore never has been a serious heavyweight contender, the gate grossed $215,279.80 and netted $176,326.29. Louis share was $60,147.89, including his cut from radio and motion picture rights, as against $36,765.26 for Ettore. Although defeated after a game fight, Ettore's profit was by far the best in his six years of campaigning. His former high was around $7000 for his third battle against Leroy Haynes.

"And we could have done better if we had the foresight to install more $11.50 ring seats," groaned Jacobs. "It was a perfect setup. We all made money. In fact, we rediscovered Philadelphia as one of the best fight towns in the country."

It was 10 years ago last night that Philadelphia originally was "discovered" as one of the best fight cities. On that night, Gene Tunney lifted the heavyweight crown from Jack Dempsey before a record throng of 125,000 spectators, who paid a total of $1,895,733.40.

Plans to Remain Busy. Promoter Jacobs said he would like to bring Louis back to Philadelphia for a fight next September. Next summer's developments would decide the Brown Bomber's foe. Meanwhile, Louis was back in Detroit, leaving for home immediately after the fight. His next stop will be in New York Hippodrome early in October against Jorge Brescia, former Argentine amateur champion. Convinced that he must keep active, his handlers have booked tentative engagements for Madison Square Garden in November, probably against the winner of the Bob Pastor-Haynes fight, and for a Christmas show at Cleveland, probably against Johnny "Rubber Man" Risko. Such a program shouldn't extend the Brown Bomber, but the truth is there is no one of great importance around for him to fight except Braddock and Schmeling.

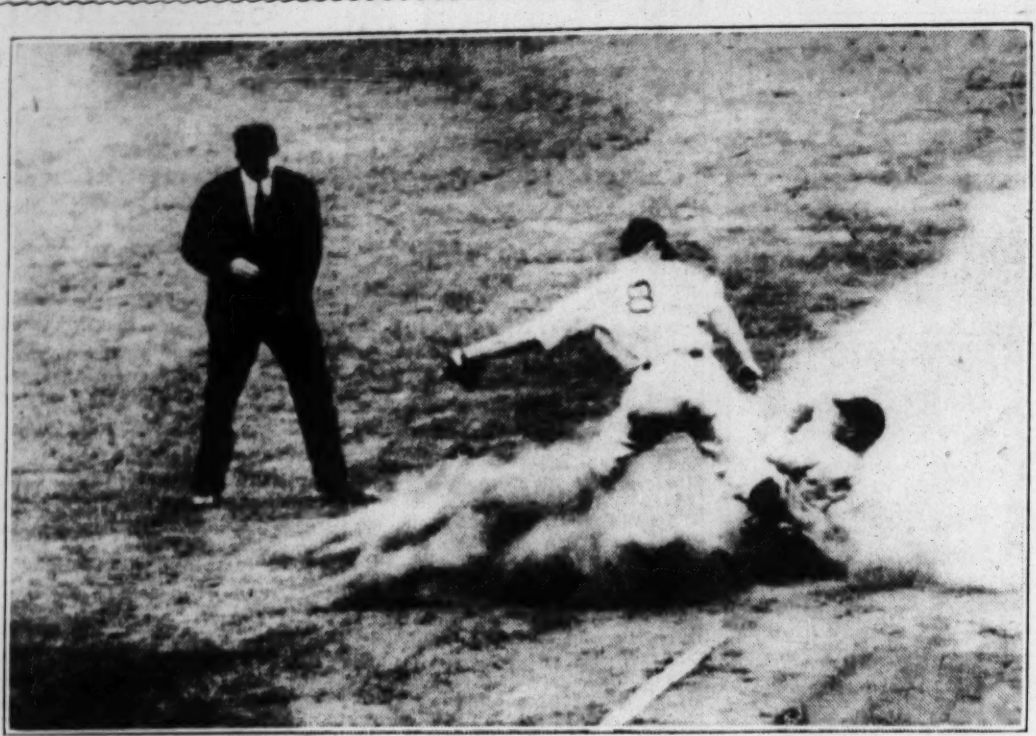

Manager Joe Jacobs revealed that Schmeling planned to return late in November for an exhibition tour of 31 cities, mostly in the South, winding up in a Miami show in January. Braddock has advised he will be fit within a month, although Promoter Jacobs doesn't think he will. Ettore will keep on fighting. He has tentative engagements booked for New York and Pittsburgh.

Since signing under Jacobs' banner, Louis has fought before 309,000 paid customers. Although paid attendance for the Ettore fight was 40,407, Jacobs estimates that complimentary, ushers, police and firemen swelled it to the 50,000 mark.

LUKE APPLING VOTED MOST VALUABLE PLAYER ON CHICAGO TEAMS

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—Luke Appling, White Sox shortstop who apparently is headed for the American League batting championship, has been voted Chicago's most valuable major league ball player by participants in a four-week poll, conducted by a Chicago business concern. Appling received 61,278 votes, to 59,736 for Billy Herman, the Cubs' star second baseman.

Extra-Base Hit Day in Detroit

Harold Clift of the Browns slides into third safely on his three-bagger opening the second inning of the game in Detroit yesterday. Of 15 hits made by the Browns, six were doubles, two triples and one a home run. Besides the three-bagger, Clift had two doubles and Hornsby's men won the game, 10 to 1, their eleventh victory in 22 games in 1936 with the club that captured the American League pennant last year.

RICE-STIX GIRLS PLAY CURLEES TONIGHT FOR NATIONAL MEET TITLE
Rain interfered with the final girls' contest of the American Softball Association national tournament last night. Play will resume tonight at the Sister South Side Park, Kingshighway and Chippewa, with the Rice-Stix girls of South Side scheduled to meet the Curlees of West Side in the opening game at 7:30 o'clock. Both teams own a victory in the two-out-of-three-game series for the national title, the Curlees having won the first game, 4 to 1, and the Rice-Stix the second, 3 to 2. In a men's exhibition game scheduled to start about 9 o'clock, the Slacks of South Side, national champions in the men's division of the A. S. B. A. tournament, will play the Kutta team of St. Louis park.

The George H. Sisler National Softball Trophy will be awarded to the champion teams between the first and second games. The winner of the girls' game tonight will receive one title award. The Dixie Oil men of Detroit, Michigan and Ordie Wolf girls of Maplewood Park, St. Louis, won the national titles in the 1935 tourney. The trophies, emblematic of the championship of the American Softball Association, must be won twice for permanent possession.

Motorcycle Races Sunday.
The annual State championship motorcycle races of the Ace Motorcycle Club will be held Sunday afternoon at the foot of Sky Jack Mountain near Kirkwood. Time trials start at noon and the races at 1:30 o'clock.

GEORGE SAUER MEETS GRABLE AT COLISEUM

Brothers and relatives of well-known wrestlers will appear on Bill Schwabe's mat program tonight at the Coliseum. The first of five bouts, two finish and three 30-minute time limit matches, will get under way at 8:30 o'clock.

George Sauer, brother of Ray Steele, and Orville Grable, nephew of Man Mountain Dean, light-heavyweights, and Chris Zaharias, brother of George, the Galloping Greek, and Eddie Newsum, New York Jewell star, will appear, are the principals in the two headliners.

Both Sauer and Grable are claimants of the light-heavyweight title, according to Schwabe. Sauer is a former middleweight king. Zaharias pinned Newman's shoulders on the last Coliseum card, with the being a thriller while it lasted. Each husky depends mostly on brute strength.

In the three prelims Ray Eckert of Memphis will face Warren Bockwinkel, St. Louis heavyweight; Al Haemmerle will oppose Dale Riley and Mike Anton, Greek, will grasp with Babe Rodriguez, Mexican.

48-Hour Speed Record Set by U. S. Drivers

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah, Sept. 24.—An Jenkins took the 48-hour motor car speed record from Great Britain last night after smashing a series of other marks in two days of driving over the Bonneville salt flats.

Aided by Relief Driver Babe Stapp, veteran Los Angeles race pilot, who twice escaped unscathed when tires were thrown, Jenkins averaged 148.628 miles an hour, far surpassing the old record of 136.34 miles an hour established by Capt. George Eyston of Great Britain.

The triumph in the 734.082-mile grind marked the end of a big parade of speed and endurance records of lesser importance brought back to the United States.

The finish of the run that started Monday at 5:52.32 p. m. came in a picturesque setting at dusk.

"Well," Jenkins said without a smile, "that's that."

And when the tanned Utah driver announced that Saturday at dawn he would start a 13-hour run calculated to finish a clean sweep of world records by bagging the few marks for shorter distances missed as he took it easy in the early stages of the 48-hour run.

VALLEY ELEVEN'S WILL BE AT FULL STRENGTH FOR OPENING GAMES
DES MOINES, Ia., Sept. 24.—Barring mishaps in the remaining light practices this week, at least three Missouri Valley football teams will be at full strength for opening games over the week-end.

Marchie Schwartz was the most optimistic over the prospects before the South Dakota opener, asserting, "every man on the squad is in top shape. There's not an injury among them."

Although injuries continued to plague Washington, Grinnell, and Tulsa, it was indicated that the other teams in the loop would have all their regulars available to start the season.

Bus Bergmann, 195-pound Chicago end, returned to the Bulldogs squad yesterday but took things easy after an injury, but it was believed that both he and Phil Manders, halfback, would be in shape to start the Simpson game Friday night.

WRAV'S COLUMN

been added to its list of attractions. The Stadium, in line with almost every other public "howl" built along the same lines, has been a financial flop.

The city official's campaign to make it self-sustaining has, for the present, at least a hopeful outlook.

The Army-Navy battle formerly was held at Franklin Field, University of Pennsylvania grounds, but the bowl seats only 60,000. The municipal stadium can accommodate about 130,000 for fights and more than 100,000 under football conditions.

But some of the customers will have to bring field glasses, if they happen to be on the remote confines of the cement cliffs.

Not So Hot.

PHILADELPHIA, although phasing up under the prodding of a hustling Mayor, has not been so hot as a sporting sense. Perhaps this is best reflected in the status of the hotels here.

According to a statement made by the Mayor at a gathering here of hotel and labor men, only one hotel in the city has paid its taxes in several years!

When sports are prospering so does hotel business. But Philadelphia has turned out nothing that ranks tops since Connors Mack last won the American League pennant.

He Missed the Boat.

LEW TENDLER, great south-law lightweight of a few years ago, is pulling a Jack Lempsy in Philadelphia, in a modest way. That is to say, he is a proprietor of a public house and restaurant that is well patronized.

You can read his neon signs for blocks, on Broad street, and there the cognoscenti of the fight trade gather to inhale and excrete fight atmosphere—and other things.

Lew had a finger in Al Ettore's pie and probably dug a few plums out of what Al earned Tuesday night.

He himself had his own big moment and dubbed it. That was years ago when he fought Benny Leonard for the title.

Along about the eighth round of that battle Lew's left caught Benny and almost finished him. But it failed to finish Benny's intelligence. Benny was smart enough to keep talking and because although dazed thoroughly, he had instinctive sense enough to keep chattering at Lew, he fooled his foe. Tandler was afraid to follow up quickly and by the time he decided he had better wait in Benny had recovered from the jolt.

Thereafter the fight went the other way and Benny won. Tandler admits that Benny talked him out of the title. That was O. K. with the world, which knew perfectly well that any time a Lew Tandler could beat a Benny Leonard it was an accident.

That's what it would have been if Lew's man Ettore had floored Louis.

ALCANTER AND GARRISON BOX IN STATE TITLE FIGHT TONIGHT

By the Associated Press. KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 24.—With the Missouri lightweight crown at stake, two Kansas City boxers trained in the same "stable"—Joey Alcantar and Jimmy Garrison—will trade punches in the new Municipal Auditorium here tonight.

Alcantar now holds the title. The 10-round fight is expected to solve the question as to who is Missouri's leading threat for Lou Ambers, world's lightweight champion.

Frank Gatto, Kansas City boxing promoter, said Al. Weil of New York, Ambers' manager, has agreed to a non-title bout between the champion and the Alcantar-Garrison winner. This fight will be held either here or in St. Louis some time next month, Gatto said.

Benny Greenberg and Lew Raymond, St. Louis promoters, have been here seeking to sign the winner for a fight with Ambers at St. Louis, Oct. 16.

There is bound to be a winner. A draw decision will not be permitted to stand.

Following an agreement between the principals, Garrett L. Smalley, Missouri Athletic Commission member, ruled the fight shall go extra rounds should the judges and referee call it a deadlock at the end of 10 rounds.

Cubs, White Sox Will Compete In Fall Series

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—Chicago's major league baseball clubs, the Cubs and White Sox, will resume "civil warfare" next week after a lapse of three years.

The Cubs, whose last mathematical chance of retaining the National League championship disappeared yesterday when the New York Giants defeated Philadelphia, challenged the Sox, holders of the city title since 1933. The Sox Side club accepted and a meeting with Baseball Commissioner Kene saw M. Landis was called for to day to arrange details.

It is planned to open the series next Wednesday, with the first two games at Wrigley Field, home of the Cubs, the next three at Comiskey Park, and the other two, if neither has won four games, at Wrigley Field.

The Sox won the 1933 series in four straight games. The Cubs did not challenge in 1934 and represented the National League in the world series last year.

Shogun Wins Steeplechase

Shogun, a galloping wind, Aqueduct, came right back another easy conquest in the steeplechase. Jumping from the front at the start, the led by a wide margin for the distance of about two miles, clicked by four lengths. A favorite at 7 to 5. The Blag was just as easily second, forward running McKinley get Boy, the second choice, very disappointing race, belied the odds.

Four Elvers was the high speed the full five furlongs on the third, easily with two lengths over Jeneen. The latter choice over the winner, belied Queen by a length for the Four Elvers opened up daylight in the first furlong, was in danger, shot to 5. Jansen lacked early steered to the inside while ground in the final couple could not become a serious to the winner.

A dozen two-year-old players exhibition down the course in the fifth. The installed favorite in the closing affair. He was not a length lead in the first quarter turned up in the 6-early Settler, which bare to a photo finish with the winner. This pair fought it out after Idie Midget gave termik was third, a length Pastry, 6 to 3, won the event by five lengths from Omvont, with Smear third.

Birmingham Takes Open Southern

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 24.—Birmingham and New Orleans in the second game of the Southern Association Series tonight. Birmingham's 5-4 victory. The Barons jumped into a three-run spree in the sixth. They never let their lead slip.

Earl Overman was called to stave off a last-minute Pelicans. With the on second in the eighth Overman came to the move. He would be rally cold. New Orleans out-hit the Pelicans in the ninth. Manager Ripe Stephens will send Clyde Shaffer the Birds tonight, wager Larry Gilbert probab Jonas Rutzman.

After tonight's battle, clubs will be idle Friday, playing opening up at New Orleans for the rest of the series. The winner of the series will represent the Southern Association in the Dixie series, the winners of the Tex playoff.

MARCI HIRSCH JACOBS STRONG ENTRY FINISHES OF THE MON

Lord Tournament and Jockey Nick Wall With Long Shot.

By the Associated Press. BELMONT PARK, N. Y., Sept. 24.—Wall, blond lightweight veteran who has added reputation as a long shot in the current meeting, turned the trick again with the of the Lion D'Or, a Class "C" shot from Mrs. William Z. Muehleberg Stable, first to the nose.

John Simonetti's Sgt. Byrnes, from far out of it before, on five lengths before, Charles Bromley's Br Marching Home covered the race in 1:21.5.

Lord Tournament, winner in a row, and Microphone, runner-up, were the Hirsch Jacobs company on this occasion. Microphone never in the running.

Wall kept Marching Home on Lord Tournament's trail, the latter cracked at the stretch. Then Marching lived up to her name, but to call upon all her reserve it out when the fast-clocking Byrnes menaced her slight age in the closing strides, non had no trouble passing Lord Tournament for the show.

Will Do, a speedy d of Stimulus of the Miles, favorite of Mrs. Ethel V. Fawcett, was out to the card. Quoted at 11 to 5, stole a five lengths lead first furlong, with Alfred on looking back. However, fast in the latter and was out to the prevail by a good neck. Legend chased the winner way and barely earned the photograph showing her better than the well-played Scherer, which finished with a lame.

HUTCHINSON, Kan., Sept. 24.—
Curtis M. Bean, 37 years old, formerly of Chanute, Kan., who recently escaped from police at Joplin, Mo., where he faces bad check charges, was arrested here Tuesday night by detectives who observed him peering intently into shop windows. Bean told police he still carried in his hip a bullet fired at him when he escaped from Joplin police and feared to see a physician. He was accompanied here by his wife and baby and had registered at a hotel as Frank G. Moore.

AN ENGLISHMAN'S VIEW OF AMERICAN POLITICS

Lord Stonehaven, Conservative Party Chairman, Marvells at Long Campaign.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—After 10 days in the United States, Lord Stonehaven of Ury, chairman for five years of Great Britain's now dominant Conservative party, left for home yesterday, wondering a bit how the English would bear up under such a long and strenuous political campaign as the American, but added: "This is real democracy. You certainly have every opportunity to learn all about the candidates and issues."
Lord Stonehaven led his party to victories in Britain's last two general elections, but except for his title, he said there was not much similarity between his job and that of Chairman James A. Farley and John D. M. Hamilton.
He said: "In last fall's campaign I only made one speech and that was just to help out a candidate down in Wales because nobody else was available. The chairman of our political parties doesn't issue statements or discuss policy. That's the job of the candidates." He commented on American use of the radio in politics. "Your presidential candidates can have the use of the air almost whenever they want it," he remarked, but the strict non-partisan policy of Britain's Government-controlled radio limits political speeches to a minimum although "we are going more on the air now."

In Britain, he pointed out, party chairmen do not get Cabinet posts or other appointments as they do here. "There's no reward—you're just glad to lend a hand," he explained.

10 DAYS IN JAIL FOR NOT MAKING ALIMONY PAYMENTS
East St. Louis Switchman Owes $87.50, Former Wife

Failure to keep up alimony payments to his divorced wife resulted yesterday in a 10-day sentence in St. Clair County jail for Robert H. Robinette, 55-year-old switchman of East St. Louis.
The sentence was imposed by City Judge William Borders after Robinette's wife, former Nellie Robinette, had testified on the stand that he was $87.50 in arrears in his payments. He was ordered to pay $75 monthly by the court for the support of his former wife and their four children when the divorce was granted in June, 1935.

NO ROUGH EDGES

NOT EVEN A WRINKLE

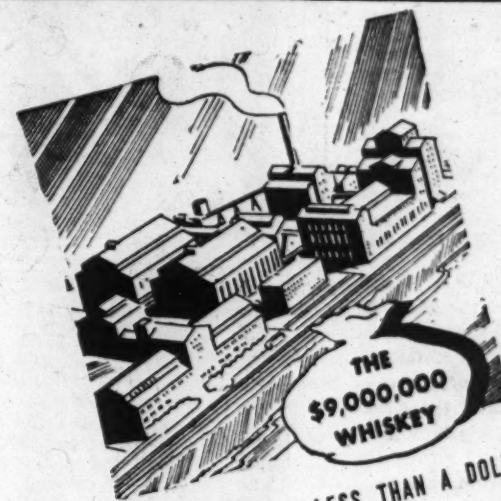

"Not a rough edge in a tumblerful", your taste will tell you with the first smooth sip of Ten High.
And bottle after bottle, case after case, the verdict won't change—it'll still be "Whiskey mellow than any I've ever tasted—me for Ten High from now on!"

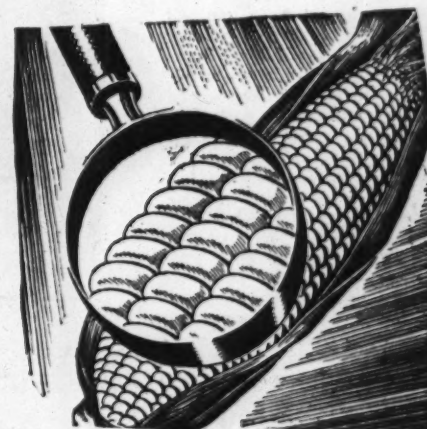

Hiram Walker's
TEN HIGH
STRAIGHT BOURBON WHISKEY

IF YOU PREFER RYE TRY HIRAM WALKER'S TWIN SEAL RYE WHISKEY—100 PROOF

HIRAM WALKER & SONS • PEORIA, ILLINOIS

THAT COSTS YOU LESS THAN A DOLLAR
Keeping rough edges out of whiskey requires an army of scientists as well as modern equipment, with scientific controls that, like safety valves, leap automatically into action the moment flavor is endangered. Such equipment cost Hiram Walker $9,000,000.

MADE FROM BLUE RIBBON CORN
Hiram Walker pays premium prices for corn, and you can taste its sun-rich goodness in every sip of Ten High. If any shipment of corn for Ten High fails to measure up in every way to Hiram Walker's rigid standards, it is immediately rejected!

NOW A SOUTHERN COLONEL PICKS PRIME BOURBON
Look first for a dark, rich amber color that glows softly against the light; then for a stimulating, pleasing aroma. When you sip it, look for the robust tang that typifies full-corn bourbon. And if the whiskey you're testing ranks 100 on all counts, look at the label—chances are it's HIRAM WALKER'S TEN HIGH!

W. C. T. U. CONVENTION DINNER TONIGHT

National President to Be Speaker at Hotel Jefferson Session.

The fifty-fourth annual convention of the Missouri Women's Christian Temperance Union continued today at the Union Avenue Christian Church, Union boulevard and Enright avenue.

At the morning session today Mrs. Nellie C. Burger of Springfield, Mo., was elected to her twenty-fourth consecutive term as president of the State organization. Other State officers also were re-elected. They are: Mrs. Blanche Butts, Joplin, vice-president; Mrs. Lettie Hill, May, Springfield, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Louise L. Van Land, St. Louis, treasurer; and Mrs. James Peterson, Kansas City, recording secretary.

Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith of Evansville, Ill., president of the National W. C. T. U., will speak tonight at the convention dinner in Hotel Jefferson. Local officers of the temperance league estimated today that about 550 persons in addition to the 150 delegates would attend the dinner, which will begin at 6:30 p. m.

At a meeting last night, to which members of the Youth Temperance Council were invited, Dr. Mary Harris Armour, Atlanta (Ga.) evangelist, predicted that the influence of prohibition laws in the United States would result in the world "going dry," despite the fact that the Eighteenth Amendment was repealed.

How "Nations Perish." Dr. Armour, who is called the Georgia Cyclone by members of the W. C. T. U., suggested that her hearers take up history reading. "You will find that every nation has perished through alcoholic degeneration," she said. "They got rich and they got drunk, a vicious and foolish thing. Will America go the way of the nations?"

She urged young men and women to stand steadfast for the things they believed to be right, and spread the story of "the tragic, murderous failure of repeal." The temperance movement is growing steadily, she said, pointing out that there are women's leagues in 52 countries for the abolition of beverage alcohol.

Devotional Services. Devotional exercises at the meeting last night were conducted by the Youth Temperance Council of St. Louis. Miss Helen Van Lund, State secretary of the Youth Council, presided.

Activities of the various departments and committees of the State Temperance organization were to be demonstrated to the convention delegates this afternoon. The convention program will end tomorrow afternoon.

UPPER FIRE ESCAPES SCREENED ON BEAUMONT MEDICAL BLDG.

Real Estate Agents Say Inclosures Are Intended to Protect Wandering Children.

The wire inclosures which have been placed around fire escape balconies on the upper floors of the Beaumont Medical Building, 3720 Washington boulevard, were intended to safeguard children who might wander to the balconies from physicians' offices, real estate agents for the building said today.

Three persons have leaped or fallen to their deaths from the fire escape platforms within the last three and a half years. The inclosures have been placed on the balconies of the six upper floors of the 10-story building.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 24.—A State inheritance tax of $5371 on the estate of Charles R. Spicer of St. Louis, was paid to the State Treasurer yesterday by executors of the estate. Spicer died Oct. 28, 1935. The estate was appraised at a net value of $227,639 for inheritance tax purposes.

ROOSEVELT APPOINTS 3 TO MARITIME BOARD

Two Retired Admirals, Wiley and Hamlet, and George Landick Jr. of Treasury.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—President Roosevelt appointed three of the five members of the new Maritime Commission last night.

The three appointed are Henry A. Wiley, retired Rear Admiral, of Haverford, Pa.; Rear Admiral Harry G. Hamlet, former commandant of the Coast Guard; and George Landick Jr., chief of the planning section of the Treasury's procurement division. The commissionerships pay $12,000 a year each.

No word as to immediate activities was forthcoming from the appointees, but it was learned that they intend to meet soon to prepare for a subsidy program under legislation enacted in the last Congress.

The board may grant construction subsidies up to 50 per cent, and operators may receive authority to meet another 25 per cent of the total cost through "installment" payments over a period of years.

The Subsidy Act provides for direct Federal subsidies to the merchant marine instead of cash aid through ocean mail contracts for which more than $20,000,000 is carried in the current postoffice appropriation bill. These mail contracts will be adjusted before the expiration of that appropriation to conform to the new policy.

The direct grants will be in amounts intended to offset the differences in cost between American and foreign construction and operation of vessels, the ultimate aim being to place the American merchant marine on an equal competitive basis with foreign lines.

Norman Thomas' Campaign Based On Showing How Landon and Roosevelt Dodge Major Issues

Socialist Points Out Nothing Is Being Done or Said About Inevitable Depression, Menace of War, Danger of Fascism.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Starting out on a second nation-wide tour, after doing hardly more than touch base at his home in New York, Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, virtually has completed a schedule that will take him up to election day.
The chief tragedy of the present campaign, Thomas said in an interview with the Post-Dispatch, is that the candidates of the major parties are not discussing the problems confronting the world in a crisis as grave as any that mankind has known.
As the head of a minor ticket, Thomas is doing what he can to make up for the deficiencies he sees in the campaign technique of President Roosevelt and Gov. Landon. Day in and day out, sometimes as often as a half dozen times, he is hammering away at unemployment, poverty in the midst of plenty, the menace of war and the danger of Fascism.

The presidential race is for Thomas merely another opportunity to carry on the educational campaign he has waged on behalf of Socialism for nearly two decades. As a presidential candidate, even of a minor party destined to receive a small fraction of the vote, he has the benefit of a national sounding board, and he is taking the utmost advantage of it.

Ridicules Landon Poster.
Thomas is trying to discuss on an intellectual plane the major issues at the same time that he as-sails Republicans and Democrats for resorting to the methods of mass advertising and mass appeal.
In virtually every speech that he makes Thomas ridicules as typical the poster used throughout the nation by the Republicans on behalf of Landon.

It shows, Thomas says, turning his biting sarcasm on this technique, a Hollywood actor dressed up like a workman, holding up an envelope containing stage money.
In contrast in the show is an oppressed-looking worker wheeling an overloaded wheelbarrow, a "victim" of New Deal relief. The caption, and Thomas underscores this with his irony, is, "Vote for Landon and land a regular job." But it doesn't say how you will land a job under Landon, Thomas adds, denouncing this kind of symbolic appeal.

"People have come to me during the present campaign," Thomas said, "to tell me that you couldn't win votes by an intellectual discussion of the issues. They said that you had to use the symbolic appeals. Even a few people in my own party have taken this point of view."

"Well, it happens that I haven't such a low opinion of the American people as that. I do not believe that they will welcome anti-intellectuality. Even the Communists are resorting to this technique in the present campaign by emphasizing the antithesis between Communism and Fascism. Who but the Socialists are discussing the fundamental problems that the New Deal has done nothing to solve?"

Thomas and His Challenge.

In the course of all his addresses,
Thomas challenges Democrats and Republicans alike to tell him anything that either Landon or Roosevelt proposes, or anything that the New Deal has done, which will prevent another depression following upon the present so-called recovery.
Thomas says that no one ever has accepted his dare.

In his criticism of the candidates for their failure to discuss campaign issues, Thomas is particularly bitter toward the President.
"He could afford the luxury of a fairly realistic discussion of the problems of the day," Thomas said,
"but there seems to be little doubt about his re-election. But, instead, he comes out for 'progress by law'.
Who doesn't believe in 'progress by law'? But how? How to get around the Supreme Court? It's like coming out for the commandments."

"The President has not said how he is going to get his laws around the Supreme Court. He has not said what kind of an amendment may be necessary to make it possible to legislate for the economic welfare of the country. It is tragic that the economic issues are not being discussed in this campaign. It is an even greater tragedy that the international issues are not being discussed."

"President Roosevelt has said that he hates war. Who doesn't hate war? I number several generals among my acquaintance and they never lose an opportunity to tell me how much they hate war. But the President has not said how he proposes to keep us out of war; what specific measures he will advocate that may help to keep us out of the next conflict. People voted for Woodrow Wilson because he kept us out of war. And then look what happened."

Critical of John L. Lewis.

Thomas is also critical of John L.
Lewis and other industrial union leaders. In their support of the President, Thomas says, they have given him a blank check and he will not have to pledge anything to labor in the present campaign.
"By this blank check support the President is left free to appeal to the middle-class," Thomas said.

"He can compose fine generalizations designed to get the vote of the small business man. But labor has no real assurance of what the administration will do in the next four years."

The Socialist leader, running as the presidential candidate of his party for the third time, ridicules the idea that Landon is a Fascist and that the issue is one of democracy or Fascism.
"Fascism vs. Joe T. Robinson, Roosevelt and Garner—that isn't the issue," he said. "Landon believes sufficiently in tolerance to talk to an American Legion convention about it. Landon has been hoisted by a derrick on to the elephant's back and he's still a little dazed, but he's not a Fascist."

Discussing the Fascist charge, Thomas says that the New Deal has in certain areas sanctioned burtrality of a Fascist nature. He refers specifically to Arkansas. In his conversation as in his public addresses, Thomas makes no secret of his pride in the fact that he was first to call nation-wide attention to the oppression of sharecroppers in Arkansas. For nearly two years Thomas has denounced the situation in the eastern part of the state, where tenants and sharecroppers seeking to form a union have been repeatedly attacked.

"Geographical Liberalism."

"The New Deal is kind to labor in Pennsylvania and elsewhere in the North," Thomas said. "But what about the south? And what about the field workers in the Southwest?
I have little faith in this geographical liberalism."

"Failure to discuss the issues realistically," Thomas said, "gives such potential fascists as Lemke and Coughlin their opportunity. It offers the demagogues a chance to step in with his panacea. So far Landon has said nothing whatsoever, nothing at all. He looks back wistfully to the twenties. But we can't go back that way. And Roosevelt has scarcely said more."

Republican and Democratic organizations, extending down into wards and precincts throughout the nation, are able to produce large cheering crowds whenever their presidential candidates appear. For the most part Thomas must depend upon genuine intellectual curiosity to attract people to his meetings.
Convinced Socialists come, of course, to hear their philosophy expounded but in most communities they are few in number. From the questions and the discussion which follow Thomas' meetings it is apparent that those who have heard him are moved by a real curiosity.

Certain questions are always asked. One of them is how Thomas would go about it, if he were elected, to establish Socialism. The Government, Thomas replies, would expropriate certain key industries, compensating the owners on a reasonable basis by bonds maturing over a period of 20 years.

"Mellon Took Them—Legally."

"After all, Andy Mellon didn't make his millions," he tells his audiences. "He just took them—legally."

One of the first steps he would advocate, Thomas says, is a workers' rights amendment giving Congress the power to pass laws affecting the social and economic life of the country.
But it is Thomas' opinion that the chief service he can perform is to point out how both candidates are dodging the issues and how almost inevitably another depression will overwhelm the country in the next four years despite the assurances and promises that come from the Republican and Democratic camps.
This is the task that Thomas has set for himself as he ranges strenuously across the continent, speaking in cities and at crossroads, from sound wagons and at politely liberal dinner tables.

GERMAN FOREIGN OFFICE SAYS REARMING HAS ONLY BEGUN

It Denies Reports Abroad of Halt Soon Through European Agreement on a Top Level.

BERLIN, Sept. 24.—The Foreign Office, taking cognizance of frequent talk abroad that Germany soon might be ready to call a halt in its rearming, said last night the program had only begun, and there was no thought of stopping until the nation's needs are satisfied.
Financial difficulties, aggravated by the European arms race, have been advanced as one reason why the Nazis before long might consider agreeing to a top level of armaments of the nature Leon Blum, French Premier, has been reported ready to propose.
A brief comment in an evening newspaper which the Foreign Office later recognized as reflecting its views, said: "A report that Germany will soon halt her rearmam-ent" is entirely false. German rearmament will respond to defense needs and will be made to fit them.
We have just begun our rearmam-ent program and because of our geographical situation we must decline to stabilize now in a secondary position."

JAPANESE FORCES INVADE CHINESE AREA IN SHANGHAI

Protest Rejected—Tanks, Armored Cars Also Patrol Large Part of International Settlement.

(Copyright, 1936, by the Associated Press.)
SHANGHAI, Sept. 24.—Japanese officials, backed by more than 2000 marines patrolling a large area under martial law, rejected today Chinese protests against invasion of the Chinese settlement and warned the entire city to "keep a cool head."

Forces of Japanese in tanks and armored cars and on motorcycles drew lines around a large area of the International Settlement, placed under military rule yesterday after the killing of one marine and the wounding of two others. The spot where the marine was killed was heavily guarded by squads with fixed bayonets, as military authorities continued their investigation.

The protest against Japanese entry into the Chinese-controlled area north of the International Settlement was sent to Japanese military authorities. They immediately rejected it without making a formal answer.
A Chinese, arrested shortly after the shooting of the marines, was released. The official investigation centered around the story told by a Japanese eyewitness.
Through his testimony, the innocence of the Chinese suspect was established. Investigators said he was merely a passerby.

The Japanese witness related that the attack on the three marines was made by one Chinese gunman. The witness said he was walking behind the marines and the Chinese who was following the marines. Suddenly the Chinese drew a pistol, fired repeatedly at the marines and then dashed down a dark alley.

Admiral Kondo, in a proclamation urging his countrymen to remain calm, asserted the action of the Japanese forces "is based upon the right of self-defense. Its object is to protect the lives of the Japanese in Shanghai."

Passengers to Repulse Attack on Ethiopian Train.

By the Associated Press.
ROME, Sept. 24.—Signora Maria Crucci, 30 years old, wife of an Italian interpreter, was decorated with a silver medal by the Government today for bravery during the Italian-Ethiopian war.
She was traveling with her five children on a train between Addis Ababa and Djibouti July 6 when Ethiopian warriors derailed and tried to capture the train. Although she was injured, the citation said, she inspired Italian soldiers and civilian aboard the train to put up a spirited defense. They fought for 25 hours until assistance arrived and the Ethiopians were repulsed.
The medal was presented by Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, Viceroy of Ethiopia.

DISCOUNT RATE RAISED 2 PER CENT IN FRANCE

Drastic Increase Ordered in Effort to Halt Drain on Gold Reserves.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Sept. 24.—The Bank of France increased its discount rate from 3 to 5 per cent today. The drastic increase was ordered in an effort to halt the increasing drain on French gold reserves.
Today's increase in the discount rate was accompanied by a rise of from 4 to 6 per cent in the rate of advances on securities, and from 3 to 5 per cent on 30-day advances.
The bank's statement disclosed a further loss of 840,000,000 francs in gold ($55,272,000) in the last week reported.

First Action by New Board.

Today's action was the first of its kind by the new board of directors of the bank, including representatives of the Government, labor and agricultural and business co-operatives.
Under a new law promulgated by the Socialist Government, this council took over direction of the bank last month, supplanting a board which, opponents charged, had been controlled since the time of Napoleon by the famous "two hundred families" of aristocratic France.

Previously, the discount rate had been lowered from a high point of 6 per cent, 1 per cent at a time, to 3 per cent, to relieve burdens on business and industry caused, in part, by the promulgation of new social-labor laws.

The bank statement today listed the gold reserve at 52,691,761,885 francs ($3,469,093,881) on Sept. 18, compared with 53,532,188,178 francs ($3,524,425,427) on Sept. 11. The present balance provides a coverage of 87 per cent against all sight liabilities. The coverage ratio against note circulation was 62.9 per cent, compared with the legal minimum of 35 per cent.

The British pound eased in the exchange after going above 77 for the franc since June, 1934.

Usually well-informed quarters said France already had obtained Britain's guarantee that "realignment" of the franc would not lead to a depreciation of the pound.
Britain was reported, however, to have attached the reservation to the guarantee.

Why Your Estate Must Be Administered in the Probate Court

WHEN a person dies, his property cannot be appropriated by surviving relatives. The law requires the property to be accounted for in Court and distributed under the supervision of the Court. This process is called an administration of the estate. It is the means by which title is transferred from the old ownership to the new.

If no administration were required, the door would be opened wide to fraud. The estate might be distributed before debts and taxes were paid. Relatives who were near at hand might seize the property to the detriment of others living far away. These are the reasons why your estate must be administered in the Probate Court.

The administration of your estate is a process in which your estate normally will undergo a drastic shrinkage. This shrinkage may be greater or less depending upon the skill with which the administration is conducted.

Many difficult problems arise in the administration of an estate. If these problems are handled skillfully, the cost of administration is held down, if they are handled improperly many thousands of dollars may be added to the cost of administration. Your estate requires experienced administration if it is to come through the period of administration without being needlessly impaired.

This company offers a solution to your estate problems. It has had nearly half a century of experience in serving as executor. It administers estates as its daily business. It is thoroughly familiar with an executor's duties and it knows how to avoid the pitfalls and dangers which so often needlessly add to the expense of estate administration and needlessly reduce the amount left for heirs and beneficiaries. Name this company as your executor—it is safer to do so, and it probably will prove more economical as well.

Toward Co-operation

ROOSEVELT'S decision to call a power conference Sept. 20 to discuss the possibility of complete collaboration between public and private enterprise in the Tennessee Valley and elsewhere seems to be the most encouraging thing that has happened in a long time. It is eminently sensible.

What is proposed is that the operations and Tennessee Valley Authority functions in the Tennessee Valley should be pooled, with a minimum of power. And, certainly, if private initiative cannot meet the problem, private plus public enterprise could.

There are innumerable European examples of such collaboration in the realm of power which have worked out happily for all concerned. The Berlin Electricity Works, which is the largest source of power in Europe, if not in the world, springs to mind as an example, because there the collaboration is between German public ownership and American private capital. These works are the joint property of the German Reich, the Prussian State and the City of Berlin.

A few years ago, in 1932, they needed extra capital and got it from American, British and Belgian investors—banks and utility companies. Actually, the capital became predominantly private, but the voting stock was equally divided. Everything worked out happily, and the American investors, curiously enough, found collaboration with public enterprise in another land something they could do without a qualm of conscience.

We need such an objective attitude toward several things, notably housing. It is very probable that in the next decade we shall accept a certain amount of public enterprise in this field as desirable and unavoidable. I mean that the majority of people of all parties will come to this conclusion.

We simply cannot afford the cost of slums, in their contribution to juvenile delinquency, ill health and crime, to say nothing of their offense to the public pride, and to the aesthetic appearance of our cities. If it is the objective that determines the method, then, like England, we shall probably have a close collaboration between public and private enterprise, which will be profitable both to business and all the people. But if private enterprise simply balks at admitting a need, and if government assumes a hostile attitude, then we shall probably have public dissemination and retain the slums.

So I shall keep my fingers crossed for the power conference.

UNITED CHARITIES AUDITOR

Chauncey B. Adams to Direct Staff of Accountants.

Chauncey B. Adams, president of C. B. Adams & Co., certified public accountants, has been named chairman of the auditing unit of the United Charities campaign, which will open Nov. 9. He will head a staff of about 30 accountants loaned by financial and accounting firms to audit subscriptions to the drive.

Adams, who has been active in previous charity campaigns, said an announcement would be made later of further plans of his unit.

SISTERS OF LORETTO SESSION

Date of Fourth Conference to Be Fixed Saturday.

Speakers and the date for the Fourth Annual Educational Conference of the Sisters of Loretto will be selected Saturday morning at a special meeting of the permanent committee of the conference at Webster College, Dr. George F. Donovan, president of Webster College, announces today.

The conference last year was held Nov. 29, and was attended by 200 Sisters of Loretto, representing 36 educational institutions.

Let's Be "Friends But Not Allies."

It is extremely desirable that cheap power should be made available to the hundreds of thousands of Americans who still burn kerosene lamps and run agricultural machinery by hand or expensive, individually installed motors. And it is obvious that private enterprise alone has thus far failed to furnish such power to thousands of isolated farms.

I live in the backwoods of Vermont, and in 1929 it cost our family $1000 to get an electric line to our house, after which we paid 12 cents per kilowatt hour for electric light. I am not protesting, but my farmer neighbors have to stick to the old lamps.

The local electric company said that it could not do better, and perhaps it told the truth, although since the Government began going into utilities, the fact is that this company has done considerably better and is building lines at its own expense and letting the clients pay for them by guaranteeing to take a minimum of power. And, certainly, if private initiative cannot meet the problem, private plus public enterprise could.

There are, of course, people—and some of them have considerable authority in Washington—who seem to think that there is some mysterious morality in public enterprise and that all private enterprise is just the functioning of the predatory instinct. On the other hand, there are people who attribute every step toward public enterprise to Communism. This is usually referred to as an "either-or" situation. It indicates that the nation is rapidly sliding into decadence as long as the problem is contemplated from such viewpoints. You can get precisely nowhere. For there is no criterion by which such standards can be checked.

But if the object is to serve the largest possible number of people at the lowest economic cost, protecting the existing investments of those who are also people, then there is a criterion, and it is not hard to find. It is technical.

Moral questions are absolute, as you learn if you try to argue with a Communist. Technical matters are susceptible of scientific analysis and of agreement, according to a higher standard. For the question then becomes not who has the right to do this or that, but how and through whom it can be best accomplished. And if ever this country needed to lay down such objective criteria and move in the direction of maximum agreement under them, that time is now.

As a matter of fact, the talk about the fundamental incompatibility of public and private enterprise is denied by the facts of our everyday life. We drive privately manufactured automobiles over publicly manufactured roads, and the automotive industry is not clamoring for the right to build highways, nor do many of us think that the state could manufacture cheaper and better automobiles.

We drink privately manufactured beer and publicly piped water. We transport ourselves by vehicles which are public, private or a combination of both. We send our children to public schools and to private universities.

It is extremely desirable that cheap power should be made available to the hundreds of thousands of Americans who still burn kerosene lamps and run agricultural machinery by hand or expensive, individually installed motors. And it is obvious that private enterprise alone has thus far failed to furnish such power to thousands of isolated farms.

I live in the backwoods of Vermont, and in 1929 it cost our family $1000 to get an electric line to our house, after which we paid 12 cents per kilowatt hour for electric light. I am not protesting, but my farmer neighbors have to stick to the old lamps.

To Be Bridesmaid for Cousin

MISS LESLIE JANE NEWELL
DAUGHTER OF Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Newell, 4933 West Pine boulevard, who will be a bridesmaid at the wedding Sept. 29 of her cousin, Miss Mary Jane McKay, and Dr. Ralph Michael S. Barrett. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Harvey Samuel McKay.

STUDENTS AT FUNERAL OF MRS. ANNA BACKER

450 From St. Louis U. High Honor Benefactor of Catholic Charities.

Down an aisle formed by the 450 students of St. Louis University High School, the body of Mrs. Anna F. Backer, patron of numerous Catholic charities and contributor of $500,000 for construction of the high school, was carried today to St. Francis Xavier (College) Church where funeral services were held.

The 78-year-old widow, whose husband's sister, the late Mrs. Maria Theresa Backer Kulage, was made a Papal Countess for her large donations to Catholic charities, died Monday of infirmities at her home, 3758 Westminster place, near the church which she had attended for many years.

Archbishop Glennon sat at the altar during high requiem mass with the Rev. Richard A. Cahill, S. J., president of St. Louis University High School, as celebrant; the Rev. W. F. Robinson, S. J., former president of St. Louis University, as deacon, and the Rev. Robert S. Johnston, S. J., now president of the university, as sub-deacon.

"She was unselfish and self-sacrificing," Father Robinson, who was head of the university at the time of Mrs. Backer's gift to the high school, was made, said in his sermon. "She knew that true education means training the soul, building of character, fashioning of man and equipping of youth. In that spirit she made the gift to St. Louis University High School."

The St. Louis University faculty members and Jesuit scholastics of philosophy sat on either side of the altar and a special section of seats was reserved for the high school students. The Jesuit scholastic choir and high school students, at the close of the services, formed an aisle along Grand boulevard, from Lindell boulevard to West Pine boulevard, through which the casket was carried to a hearse.

Organizations in the funeral procession included the Queen's Daughters, the Guild of the Daughters of Charity, St. Ann's Sodality of St. Francis Xavier Parish, the Mothers' Club of St. Louis University High School, the Altar Society of the church and the Sacred Heart League.

Mrs. Backer's gift made possible construction of the high school building on Oakland avenue near Kingshighway in 1923. It is known as George H. Backer Memorial High School Building as a memorial to her husband, son of Mathias Backer, pioneer St. Louis miller. At the time, Archbishop Glennon said the gift was the largest ever made to religion or Catholic education in the archdiocese of St. Louis.

THE REV. A. H. BOCKSTUCK DIES

Pastor of Evangelical Reformed Church, St. Louis, died yesterday of typhoid fever at his home yesterday. A native of St. Louis, he had been pastor of the church for the last 43 years.

After attending parochial schools in St. Louis, he studied at Eden Seminary, then located in Normandy, and later at Elmhurst Seminary in Illinois. He served as pastor at several Missouri churches before receiving the call to De Soto. He was 68 years old. Funeral services will be held tomorrow.

PROTESTANT CHURCH RETREAT

Service for Pastors Monday at Central Presbyterian.

In preparation for the visit of the National Preaching Mission to St. Louis, Oct. 11 to 14, a retreat for ministers of Protestant churches in the St. Louis area will be held Monday in Central Presbyterian Church, Hanley road and Davis place, Clayton, under the direction of the Ministerial Alliance.

The Rev. Albert Buckner Coe, pastor of First Congregational Church, Oak Park, Ill., will be the principal speaker. A questionnaire has been sent each pastor, in which he is asked to grade himself as a Christian and a minister.

FUNERAL OF JOHN P. CROSBY

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

MISS CORNELIA GARRISON TURNER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Turner of Seattle, Wash., and Caleb Forbes Davis, son of Mrs. Caleb Forbes Davis also of Seattle, will be married Saturday night at 8:30 o'clock. The ceremony will take place at the Sunset Club, Seattle, with the Rev. Gerbert Gowen, pastor of Trinity Church officiating. He also performed the marriage ceremony of the bride's past 25 years ago.

Miss Turner will be attended by Mrs. Clarence Black as matron of honor and by Mr. Davis' sister, Miss Esther Davis as bridesmaid. Mr. Davis and his bride will live in Seattle.

Miss Turner is the granddaughter of Mrs. Price Lane of Hotel Kingsway. Mrs. Turner before her marriage was Miss Cornelia Garrison of St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl J. Koehler and their young son and daughter who returned recently after spending the summer at Pentwater, Mich., will live temporarily with Mrs. Koehler's mother, Mrs. Wallace D. Simmons, 46 Westmoreland place, until the addition to their home on Upper Ladue road is completed.

Mrs. P. Taylor Bryan Jr., 4629 Pershing avenue, returned yesterday with four of her five children from Charlevoix, Mich., where she has had a cottage for the summer. Her fifth child has already returned home.

Also returning yesterday from Charlevoix was Miss Elizabeth Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Vernon Clark.

Mrs. Christian Baird Peper and her baby daughter, Catherine, returned home last week from Macatawa, Mich., where they spent the summer at the cottage of Mrs. Peper's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Chappell Kingsland.

Mr. and Mrs. Peper will move soon to their new apartment at 6062 Cates avenue.

Mrs. W. Franklin Armstrong, 5100 Washington boulevard, who was the guest of Mrs. Eugene F. Williams, 9 Washington terrace, at the summer cottage of Mrs. Williams, son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene F. Williams at Oosterville, Oyster Harbor, Mass., and who later visited New York, has returned home.

Mrs. Armstrong's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Fowler Campbell, also of 5100 Washington boulevard, who sailed early in July from Vancouver for Alaska, have returned home. They spent about six weeks at the Casa de Manana, La Jolla, Cal., following their cruise.

Mrs. Virginia Foster Limberg returned to St. Louis with her sons, Edward, Jr., and Charles, from Wequetonsing, Mich., where she spent the summer. The boys left yesterday to resume their studies at Princeton, after a brief visit to their father, Edward A. Limberg, 2 Lenox place.

Mrs. Limberg has taken an apartment on Lindell boulevard for a few weeks, after which she will go West to meet her sister, Miss May Foster, and spend the winter with her in California.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hudson Bicknell, 5128 W. Westminster place, and Mrs. Barstow's brother, Dunham Dodge, have returned from Hyannisport, Mass., where they were members of the summer colony.

Mrs. Hugh McKittick Jones of McKnight road, her daughter, Miss Carroll, and son, Hugh McKittick Jones Jr., are in New York at the Madison Hotel. They probably will be home next week. Mrs. Jones left St. Louis the last of July to spend the remainder of the summer at the Adirondack League Club near Little Moose Lake. Miss Carroll and Mr. Jones were in Europe together this summer and since landing have been visiting in the East.

Mr. and Mrs. George Castleman Mackay, 3693 Lindell boulevard, and their daughters, Miss Suzanne and Miss Lucie, are in New York for a short visit after spending the season at the summer home at Rye Beach, N. H. Mr. and Mrs. Mackay and Miss Suzanne will be home Tuesday, but Miss Lucie will remain in the East to attend art school at Boston this winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Bradford Shinkle, 35 Portland place, and their son, Andrew, are in New York stopping at the Savoy-Plaza Hotel. They are expected home Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Shinkle occupied their home at Watch Hill, R. I., for the summer. Andrew Shinkle will be a student at Country Day School again this year.

Mrs. James T. Caradine, 30 Portland place, her daughter, Mrs. William Watkins Moulton, 10 North Kingshighway, and Mrs. Caradine's grandchildren, Peggy and Betty Wright, are expected to return home tomorrow from Kennebunkport, Me. Mr. Caradine and his daughter, Mrs. Chester E. Wright, returned from the Maine resort last week.

A tea and demonstration will be held tomorrow afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock for the workers in the forthcoming free scholarship fund campaign for Central Institute for the Deaf. The tea will be held in the Auditorium of Central Institute and the following women will assist:

Mrs. Leo Rasseur Jr., Mrs. Borden S. Veeder, Mrs. Harry Koerber, Mrs. Norman C. Wolff, Mrs. Arthur Alden, Mrs. Claxton E. Allen, and Mrs. John J. Larkin.

Mrs. Benjamin Harrison Reese Jr., sailed yesterday from Southampton on the Normandie to visit her family in St. Louis. Her mother, Mrs. F. Rudolph Meyer, 6068 Lindell boulevard, and her sister, Mrs.

THE engagement of Miss Mary Emily Rickey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Branch Rickey of "Country Life Acres" on the Clayton road, and John Eckler of Elyria, O., was made known last night at a dinner party given at the Rickey home. The dinner was given for Mr. and Mrs. Branch Rickey Jr. of Ann Arbor, Mich.

Miss Rickey attended Mary Institute and is a graduate of John Burroughs School and Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, O., where she became a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. She has been traveling in this country since early summer.

Mr. Eckler is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Eckler of Elyria and is also a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan where he was a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity. He is now studying law at Chicago University. He drove from Chicago yesterday to be present for the announcement and will remain several days.

Miss Rickey will go to Chicago this week-end to spend a week as the guest of Miss Anna Jean Tindler.

The wedding will probably take place here this winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Russell, 89 Arundel place, will return next month from Stonington, Conn., where they spent the summer. Their two children, Miss Nancy and Edward, will remain in the East to go to school. Miss Nancy will return to Miss Master's School at Dobbs Ferry, N. Y. Edward Russell will be a freshman at Cornell University. He was graduated from John Burroughs School in June.

Bruce Alger, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Bruce Alger, 1102 Summit avenue, Webster Groves, and William N. Kelley, son of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Kelley, 48 Sylvester avenue, Webster Groves, left yesterday for Princeton University, where they will enter the freshman class.

CHEESE PUFFS

One-half cup butter.
One cup flour.
One-half cup cheese, shredded.
One cup flour.
Four eggs, unbeaten.
Put butter and water in saucepan, bring to boiling point and be sure that butter is melted. Stir flour into steadily boiling water. Cook and beat vigorously, until mixture forms a ball and does not stick to side of pan. Remove from fire, stir in cheese. Break in eggs, one at a time, beat well after each addition. Drop from tablespoon on greased baking sheet some distance apart. Shape round, 2 inches across, piling high in center. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.) 20 minutes, then reduce to moderate (350 degrees F.) and bake 25 minutes longer. With sharp knife make a slit in one side and fill, or cut tops off and fill.

ORANGE SPONGE CAKE MAKES A FLAVORFUL DEPARTURE

Sponge cake makes a perfect dessert of a dish of fresh fruit or berries and caps the climax when it accompanies a dish of ice cream. Here is a sponge cake fragrant with the always delightful odor of oranges. It makes a delicious sponge cake variation.
Orange Sponge Cake.
One and one-fourth cups sifted flour.
One and one-fourth teaspoons of baking powder.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
One cup sugar.
One tablespoon grated orange rind.
Two eggs and one egg yolk.
One-fourth cup water.
Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Add one-half cup sugar and orange rind to eggs, and beat with rotary egg beater until thick and lemon-colored; add remaining sugar gradually, beating very thoroughly; then add orange juice and water. Add flour gradually, beating with rotary egg beater until smooth. Bake in ungreased tube pan, in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 55 minutes, or until done. Remove from oven and invert pan one hour, or until cold.

Cucumber Dressing.
Peel a medium-sized cucumber, put through meat grinder with fine adjustment; mix one-half cup of the cucumber with one-half cup mayonnaise and one teaspoon chopped parsley.

EVERY RECIPE TESTED!

Best of all—every recipe is an assured success with Aristos Never-Fail Flour! Not only because both flour and recipes have been tested to fit each other exactly—but because Aristos always bakes the same.

This makes Aristos the most economical flour you can use. Unlike cheap, ordinary flours which vary from bag to bag and spoil your baking, every bag of Aristos is tested to assure perfect results for cakes, pastry, bread—for all baking purposes. And because it's a true all-purpose flour—Aristos saves you the cost and bother of expensive "prepared" flours.

Aristos makes everything taste better, too! Made of choice quality wheats, scientifically milled, Aristos' extra amount of gluten makes cakes and breads stay fresh longer. No wasteful throwing out of things

GUARANTEED RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Common constipation is due to meals low in "bulk" and drugs give only temporary relief. The sensible thing to do is put "bulk" back into your meals. Millions of people get this "bulk" in a delicious cereal, log's ALL-BRAN. Its "bulk" is much like that in leafy vegetables. Within the body, it absorbs moisture, forms a soft mass, cleanses the system.

Some years ago, an investment was made among thousands of BRAN users. 98 per cent of the type of constipation that does not respond to ALL-BRAN. ALL-BRAN is guaranteed, a week. If not satisfactory, money will be refunded. Kellogg Company.

Just eat two tablespoonsful either as cereal or in cooked food. ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek, Mich.

FRUIT ICEBOX PIE

Twenty graham crackers, rolled fine.
Four tablespoons sugar.
Five tablespoons melted butter.
One package lemon flavored gelatin.
One and three-quarters cups boiling water.
One cup canned crushed pineapple and juice.
One and one-half cups cream, whipped stiff.
Eight graham crackers, rolled fine.
One tablespoon confectioner's sugar.

Combine the first three ingredients, blending well. Pat the mixture firmly over the inside, bottom and sides of a 10-inch pie pan. Chill this while you make the filling. For the filling, dissolve the gelatin mixture in the boiling water, then add the pineapple, which — if fresh — must be scalded. Chill this combination and just as it starts to thicken add the whipped cream, graham cracker crumbs and the sugar. Pour the mixture into the cracker shell until set.

CHICKEN GUMBO

Four cups hot cooked rice.
One large stewing chicken.
One slice ham, diced.
Two tablespoons butter.
One small onion, minced.
One green pepper, chopped.
One bay leaf.
Six fresh or one and one-half cups canned tomatoes.
One sprig parsley, minced.
Four okra pods, sliced.
Three quarts boiling water.
Salt and pepper to taste.
Cut the chicken for stewing. Season with salt and pepper. Heat the butter in the soup kettle. Add the chicken and ham, cover closely, and allow to simmer for 10 minutes. Then add onion, pepper, bay leaf and parsley and allow to brown. Add the tomatoes and sliced okra. Pour in the boiling water and simmer on the back of the stove for two hours. Serve in a tureen. Accompany with rice.

FALL BREAKFASTS REQUIRE VARIETY

Mental and Physical Progress and Family Contentment Results of Good Food.

In thousands of homes throughout the country, the month of September announcing the closing of summer is at the same time announcing the beginning of the school season. This means that the family is assuming a more orderly routine, every activity of the day falling into a definite time.

Mental and physical activity and progress, family and individual contentment are a few of the important things which are the results of good food, carefully selected and prepared and eaten by the family. The importance of a satisfactory, satisfying breakfast is stressed by nutritionists.

Variety Desirable.
A certain amount of variety is desirable in the breakfast even though the menu can follow a general stereotyped form. Some like only to vary the fruit, others the breadstuff, and still others the main or the more substantial dish. With mornings gradually becoming cooler, a hot food in addition to the customary beverage is desirable.

The short time required for cooking egg dishes, the delicate mild flavor, and the refreshing color are a few of the egg characteristics that make them such an ideal breakfast dish. Two egg dishes that suggest slightly different ways to serve old favorites should find a place among the family egg dishes.

French Toast.
One egg.
One-eighth teaspoon salt.
One double slice of bread.
One teaspoon jelly.

Prepare bread by cutting down to the crust, but do not cut off on one side. Trim the three remaining crusts off if desired. Place jelly between the two slices. Meanwhile beat egg and salt until slightly foamy, dip bread in egg in usual manner. Brown in hot fat, turning once. Serve hot. Bacon or sausages may be served with it. In this event cook meat first, then brown toast in the meat fat. A mixture of cinnamon and sugar (in the proportion of one teaspoon per one-half cup of sugar) may be passed at the table for sprinkling over the hot toast. Or, the hot toast may be dipped into such a mixture before serving. If the bread is slightly dry, add two tablespoons (or slightly more) milk for each egg before dipping the bread.

Poached Egg a La Southern.
Slice of cornmeal mush.
Fat for frying.
Poached eggs.

Dip slices of cornmeal mush cut about one-half inch or less in thickness in seasoned flour (one-half teaspoon salt per one-half cup flour). Fry in hot fat until nicely browned and slightly crisped on both sides. Meanwhile poach eggs to the desired doneness. Drain and serve by placing the egg on a slice of fried cornmeal. If the eggs are poached in milk, a sauce may be made using the milk from poaching and the fat from the frying. For a sauce that will have a satisfactory consistency use two tablespoons fat, one and one-half tablespoons flour for each cup of milk. Season well and serve very hot. The sauce may be passed or two or three tablespoons poured over each egg before serving.

Eggs may be poached to a softness or firmness to suit any taste. The heat for poaching should be regulated so that the water is kept at the simmering point. Press the surface of the yolk with the back of a knife or spoon very gently to determine the consistency and, therefore, the doneness desired. If a poached egg is preferred firm, it can be that without being rubbery if the temperature of the water is kept low.

If preferred, soft cooked eggs, removed from the shell, may be served on cornmeal mush slices and are equally delicious.

ROUND OF BEEF

Three to four pounds round of beef.
One-fourth pound fat salt pork.
One-fourth cup diced carrot.
One-fourth cup diced onion.
One-fourth cup diced celery.
Few sprigs parsley.
Small piece of bay leaf.
Two cups boiling water.
Make incisions in the beef and insert strips of salt pork in them. Brown the meat well in a little fat. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, add vegetables, seasoning and water. Cover and simmer or cook in a moderate oven (325 degrees) until the meat is tender (three to four hours). Strain the liquid and thicken it for gravy.

PEANUT BUTTER RAREBIT

Three tablespoons butter.
Four tablespoons flour.
Two cups milk.
Four tablespoons peanut butter.
One-half teaspoon salt.
Melt butter, add flour and salt.
Cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Serve on crackers or toast.
Garnish with paprika. Serves from six to eight.

FRUIT CREAM TARTS BECOMING POPULAR

English Cousin of American Pie. Is Beginning to Find Favor.

America, which has always been pie conscious, is gradually becoming aware of the existence of its English cousin, the tart or individual pie.

While the whole pie, served at the table, has a substantial quality that so many families like, there is much to be said for the individual service. If the crusts are crisp the filling has no chance of soaking through. Baked shells may be kept on hand in a tightly closed container to be filled with the family's favorite fruit mixture and heated before serving.

For tarts, you may use either pastry shells without top crust or pastry rounds. Bake shells by putting rounds of pastry over the back of muffin tins and fill after baking;
or line the inside of your muffin tins with pastry, put in filling and bake altogether. For rounds, cut pastry circles in desired size; cut center holes in half the circles; then fill with desired filling, press on the "lid" and bake.

FILLINGS VARY.

Filling for tarts, especially when the shells are used, are preferably of fruit or cream. There is no finer tart than one filled with sliced fruit, topped with whipped cream; or one made with a cream filling and adorned with fruit.

For the "rounds" (you may call them turnovers or "pielets" if you wish) you will prefer jam, jelly, preserves or cooked fruit mixture.
For garnish or topping, there is always whipped cream; or use mar-ingue, a glaze, cherries or nuts.

Tart Shells.

Two cups flour.
One teaspoon salt.
One-half cup oil or shortening.
Four tablespoons cold water.
Sift flour and salt together. Stir in marga, using a fork or wire beater, and add a little at a time distributing it well so that when stirred the result will be many small lumps. (Do not work up lumps as they make flakes when baked.) Add enough water to hold dough together. Turn out on wellfloured board and roll half at a time. Do not chill, roll only once.
Bake on outside of muffin tins and prick all over with a fork.

Banana-Apricot Tarts.
One-quarter pound dried apricots.
Bananas.
One and one-half cups water.
One-quarter cup sugar.
Soak apricots in water several hours. Drain, remove skins, return to water in which they were soaked and cook slowly for 15 minutes.
Press through a sieve, add sugar and mix thoroughly. Fill individual pastry shells with sliced bananas and cover with apricot glaze. Cool and serve.

Lemon-Date Tarts.
One and one-third cups condensed milk.
One-half cup lemon juice.
Grated rind of one lemon.
Two eggs, separated.
Two tablespoons sugar.
Three-quarters cup dates.
Baked tart shells.
Blend together condensed milk,
lemon juice, rind and egg yolks.
Pour into baked shells and spread with finely chopped dates. Beat egg whites and sugar until stiff to make meringue. Spread over mixture in tart shells and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) 10 minutes.

Banana Cream Tarts.
Six bananas.
One cup heavy cream, whipped.
One tablespoon powdered sugar.
One-half teaspoon vanilla.
Six tart shells.
Slice bananas. Mix thoroughly whipped cream, powdered sugar, vanilla, and add bananas. Fill baked tart shells with this mixture.
Sprinkle with grated chocolate (un-sweetened) if desired. Serves six.

Lattice Tarts.

Three cups chopped rhubarb.
One-half package dates.
Two-thirds cup sugar.
One and one-half tablespoons flour.
One egg.
One recipe pastry.
Mix sugar and flour; add to the beaten egg; mix with chopped rhubarb and dates (sliced). Line inside of muffin tins with pastry and put in filling. Cover with strips of pastry arranged to form a "lattice." Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees) for about 25 to 30 minutes.

DAMSON PLUM JAM

Four quarts damson plums.
One quart cold water.
Sugar.
Wash plums, add water and cook
the fruit until the skins are soft.
Cool and remove the seeds. Measure the cooked and seeded fruit and add two-thirds as much sugar as fruit. Stir the mixture over the heat until the sugar is dissolved and the mixture has come to a boil.
Cook rapidly until the mixture has a thick consistency and the fruit is partly clear. When beginning to thicken, the mixture should be stirred to avoid scorching. Remove the kettle from the heat and let the mixture stand a few minutes so that it may stiffen slightly and thus help to prevent the fruit from floating. Pour into clean, hot jars and seal.

Meat Note.

Never take meat directly out of the refrigerator to broil or saute.
Always allow it to warm up to room temperature.

CHOCOLATE DROPS

One-half cup shortening.
One and one-quarter cups sugar.
Two eggs.
Three squares chocolate, melted.
One-half cup thick sour milk.
One and three-quarters cups
flour.
One-half teaspoon soda.
One teaspoon baking powder.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One-half teaspoon vanilla.
40 blanched almonds or walnut halves.
Blend shortening, sugar and eggs.
Add melted chocolate. Beat sour milk until smooth. Add it to first mixture alternately with all sifted dry ingredients. Add vanilla. Mix well. Drop by teaspoonfuls on greased cookie sheet. Place an almond or walnut meat in each center. Bake in moderate, 350-degree, oven for 10 to 12 minutes.

MARBLE CAKE

One-half cup butter.
One cup sugar.
Two eggs.
Two cups sifted pastry flour.
Three teaspoons baking powder.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
One-half cup milk.
Two tablespoons molasses.
One-half teaspoon nutmeg.
One-half teaspoon cloves.
One teaspoon cinnamon.
Cream the sugar and butter until very fluffy. Add the well beaten eggs and beat thoroughly. Sift the flour, baking powder and salt together twice. Add this combination to the sugar and butter mixture alternating it with the milk. When all is added, beat well. Now divide the batter in half. To one half add the molasses and the spices, stirring them in well. Place alternate spoonfuls of the dark and light batter in a well greased cake pan.

Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for about 45 minutes.

Mix cocoa and chocolate with sugar before adding milk or water to prevent lumping. A pinch of salt improves the flavor.

To Remove Stains.
To remove rust stains from white material rub the juice of a freshly cut lemon on the stain, then hold the material over the spout of a steaming kettle. Repeat until the stains disappear.

... CHANGING TO GAS HEAT

More Gas Heat Installations in St. Louis County This Year Than Ever ... big preparations for winter

Gas Heat is being installed in new homes and gas burners are going into the furnaces of homes already built to modernize their heating systems. That is one of the nice things about gas heat . . . you can enjoy it where you are. The longer you use it the more you appreciate it. It gives so much more for the money! The initial cost is low. It is dependably automatic and healthful.
There is nothing to worry or bother about. No dirt, no fuel to buy in advance, and never any doubt about heat. No matter what the weather conditions may be, gas will not fail you in heating any more than it does in cooking.

You will know what to do about heating your home this Winter if you have accurate information about gas heat and the details of our One-Year Plan.
Call us. Gas Heat may be installed on the F. H. A. Payment Plan.

NEWEST "NO-SCRUB" SOAP DISCOVERY

Soaks Out Dirt in 15 Minutes—Yet Safe For Colors, Hands!

Now this utterly new kind of laundry soap puts an end to the washday slavery women have suffered so long. No more aching backs!
No more unsightly "washboard hands!"
Oxydol is the latest amazing soap discovery by the makers of gentle Ivory soap. Combining speed and safety in a way no single soap has ever done before, it does these 4 amazing things:
(1) Soaks out dirt in 15 minutes, without scrubbing or boiling. Even the "tough" spots come snowy white with a gentle rub. (2) Cuts washing time 25% to 40% in tub or machine. (3) Gets white clothes 4 to 5 shades whiter than other soaps, proved by scientific Tintometer tests. (4) Yet so safe that hands stay soft and lovely, and every washable color comes out sparkling, brilliant, fresh! Even sheer cotton prints, washed 100 consecutive times in Oxydol suds, showed no perceptible sign of fading.

Women everywhere are discarding old-favorite soaps of every sort and switching to Oxydol.
To end the drudgery of washday. To have snowy white clothes.

Oxydol is economical, too. Tests show that it will go one-third to one-half again as far as even the latest soap chips on the market. One package often does twice the work—gives twice the suds—lasts twice as long as less modern soaps. Get Oxydol from your dealer today.

A SOUR CREAM RECIPE THAT MAKES AN EVENT OF THE OCCASION

There are so many uses for sour cream but here is one that makes an event of the occasion:

Sour Cream Ring.
One quart thick sour cream
Three tablespoons vinegar
Three tablespoons sugar
One cucumber, sliced
Four tablespoons chives, cut
Two tablespoons gelatin
One-half cup cold water
Soak gelatin in cold water, add boiling water, stir until dissolved. When cold add to cream whipped stiff, and the rest of the ingredients. Put in ring mold, chill. When hard, serve with fruit salad dressing.

PEANUT BUTTER CUTLETS

One cup peanut butter,
One cup hot milk.
One-half teaspoon salt.
Dash of pepper.
Slices of bread.
Combine peanut butter, hot milk and seasonings, and blend thoroughly. Drop slices of bread into the peanut butter mixture. Brown delicately on both sides in a skillet with a small amount of hot fat. Serve hot.

WHOLE MEAL SALADS MAKE NOON LUNCHES

Served With a Vegetable, Hot Bread and Drink They Are Most Satisfying.

September noons are still pretty warm for hot lunches, but it is important that those noon meals be filling.

Vacations are over, husbands are back to regular office schedules, children are back in school and meals must be regular and satisfying.

One of the most appetizing combinations for noon lunch includes a filling whole meal salad, a cold bread, tea or coffee for adults, and milk or hot cocoa for the children. A hot vegetable may be included if desired. These salads save utensils in preparation and are served in a large bowl so the generous portions may be served to all.

Whole Meal Salads.
Cold meat, cheese or eggs form the protein foundation of these salads, potato, peas, baked beans or macaroni, the starchy requirement and any crisp raw vegetable or fruit the bulk. If you prefer a combination not so high in calories, substitute a bulky vegetable for the starch. With these simple requirements in mind the combinations are easy. Just think of the things that taste good together and you can concoct a delicious salad in no time.

Always remember to cut the foods in fairly large pieces, about the size of a small bite, mix just enough to blend, and with just enough dressing of your favorite variety to moisten the salad. A mushy salad, overrun with dressing will never be accepted by your family. And have it cold if it's to be cold, or hot for a hot salad, never lukewarm.

Serve it in a big bowl of wood, china or pottery with lettuce or other green garnish.

Try these combinations for some luncheon whole-meal salads:

1. Baked beans (drained) celery, Vienna sausages or frankfurters, and sweet pickles. Mayonnaise.
2. Elbow macaroni, cubed ham or corned beef, celery and stuffed olives and mayonnaise.
3. Peas, cheese (cubed) celery, and mayonnaise.
4. Potato, hard cooked egg, cubed salami, radishes, mayonnaise, tomato garnish.
5. Hard cooked eggs, kidney beans, celery and pickled onions or sweet pickles.
6. Cubed ham, celer and pineapple with mayonnaise.
7. Cubed cooked veal with orange sections, toasted almonds and celery.

Baked Bean Salad.

One medium can baked beans (drain off juice).
One cup cubed celery.
One small can Vienna sausage.
Four sweet pickles or eight stuffed olives.

Mix beans, cut pickles and celery and add just enough mayonnaise to moisten slightly. Place in a lettuce lined salad bowl and arrange sausages over the top with slices of olives or pickle between.

Ham and Macaroni Bowl.

Two cups cold cubed ham.
Three cups macaroni—cooked.
One cup celery.

One dozen olives (ripe or green).
Break macaroni in one-inch lengths and cook in boiling salted water for 15 minutes. Drain, rinse in cold water and chill. Add cubed ham, sliced olives and celery and mayonnaise to moisten.
Place in lettuce lined bowl and garnish with lemon or tomato wedges.

CHEESE OMELET MAKES FESTIVE OCCASION OF IMPROMPTU MEAL

Among the dishes that are quickly put together the omelet probably reigns supreme. A plain omelet with a cheese addition makes a festive occasion of the impromptu meal.

Omelet With Roquefort Cheese.

Six eggs
One-half teaspoon salt
Six tablespoons irradiated evaporated milk
Two tablespoons butter
One portion Roquefort cheese.
Beat egg whites until foamy. Add a few grains salt and continue beating until stiff, but not dry. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored. Add salt and milk. Fold yolk mixture carefully into beaten whites. Melt butter in deep frying pan or omelet pan. When bubbling turn in the omelet mixture. Cook over a low flame until omelet is puffed and the bottom and sides are a golden brown. Set in a moderate oven or under a low broiling flame to dry the top. If frying pan is used, score omelet across center with knife. Spread half the omelet with the Roquefort that has been mashed and softened with one or two tablespoons irradiated evaporated milk. Slide half omelet on the hot plate. Fold over other half and press gently until it stays in place. Garnish with parsley or watercress. Yield: Six servings.

Pear Jam.

To five pounds of hard (slightly under ripe) pears, peeled, and cut in small pieces, add a like weight of sugar and let stand over night. Then add one pound of seeds raisins, the finely sliced rind of two oranges and the juice of three oranges and two lemons. Cook until the pears are soft, pour into hot, sterile jars, and seal.

Two eggs slightly beaten.
One cup milk.
Two cups corn.
Two tablespoons melted butter.
Salt and pepper to taste.
Combine all ingredients and pour into buttered baking dish. Set into pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 35 to 45 minutes or until set.

JOHN D. JR. DEFENDS GIFT TO MAINE G. O. P.

"Our Clear Duty" to Aid Party "In Whose Principles
We Have Faith."

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—John D. Rockefeller Jr. replied last night to Democratic criticism of his contributions to the Republican campaign fund in Maine.

Speaking for himself, his wife, and his son, John Rockefeller said: "We believe not only that it is our right as citizens to make such contributions as we wish toward the legitimate expenses of the political party in whose principles and leadership we have faith, but also that it is our clear duty to do so."

Rockefeller emphasized that his 37-year-old father, John D. Rockefeller Sr., had made no contribution.

Text of Statement.

The statement follows: "The criticisms of the contributions made last month to the Republican party in the State of Maine by Mrs. Rockefeller, my son, John, and me (my father made no contribution) merit comment only because there is involved in them a question as to the right of American citizens to contribute to the political party of which they are members."

"It was more than a quarter of a century ago that I first purchased property in the State of Maine and started to make there my summer residence. Since that time, Mrs. Rockefeller, my children and I have been in Maine a part of each year, staying often three or four months at a time. We are intensely interested in the State and all that concerns its welfare."

"However, these considerations were not alone responsible for the contributions in question. We had even more compelling motives. We believe that the maintenance of democratic government requires that groups of citizens shall have the right to submit to the voters such information and argument as their opinion needed for correct decisions on public issues."

"Without such exchange of information and full discussion by all political parties our country would be in peril. We know of no better way in which both sides of each question can be presented under free government than by political parties. And we know no method of meeting the costs of gathering such information and presenting it, without danger to the Republic, other than through contributions by individuals to such parties."

"Our Right as Citizens." "We believe not only that it is our right as citizens to make such contributions as we wish toward the legitimate expenses of the political party in whose principles and leadership we have faith, but also that it is our clear duty to do so. We further believe that the exercise of this right and the performance of this duty by all citizens should be encouraged rather than criticized."

"Because we feel that the political parties are the proper channels for the dissemination of information and the discussion of political issues, the members of my family and I have made no contributions whatever to other organizations which are taking a part, large or small, in the present campaign."

Japan Orders Nanking Envoy to Seek Settlement of Dispute.

(Copyright, 1936, by the Associated Press.)

TOKIO, Sept. 24.—Settlement of differences between China and Japan, heightened by the killing of a Japanese marine in Shanghai, was placed today in the hands of Shigeru Kawagoe, Tokio's Ambassador to Nanking. If he fails to halt anti-Japanese attacks, it was understood, Japan will insist the dispute be tackled by Chiang Kai-Shek, military overlord of the Central Chinese Government.

Decision to allow Kawagoe to continue diplomatic negotiations was made after all-night conferences between Japanese naval, military and civilian authorities.

A Government spokesman said, "we must have deeds and acts, not mere words and promises from the Nanking Government, to show that the anti-foreign movement will be suppressed."

Government officials, who declared present relations between China and Japan were the worst since 1932, said the latest incident at Shanghai proved successive murders were part of a systematic plan by Chinese Terrorists. They said the killing of the marine was done deliberately outside the Japanese settlement in an attempt to escape national responsibility.

The officials said if the attacks continued, they would be obliged to withdraw Japanese residents in certain sections of China and leave the military and naval forces to deal with the situation.

Armed Action Against China Predicted by Japanese General.

By the Associated Press.

PEIPING, Sept. 24.—Armed Japanese action against China was predicted today by Major-General Takayoshi Matsumuro, chief of the Japanese military mission at Peiping.

"China is a bad boy needing coercion following the failure of more gentle methods," commented Matsumuro. "If he doesn't listen to Japan's peaceful lessons, he is likely to have his face slapped. Japan is determined to bring peace and order to China, if not in its entirety, at least to North China."

DISCOUNT RATE IN FRANCE IS DROPPED 2 PCT.

its promise that France must lower its tariff rates in proportion to any decline in the value of the franc. The British promise left Premier Leon Blum free, the same sources said, for "quick action" when and if it is decided such a step is necessary.

The increasing flow of gold and the rise of the English pound against the French franc have led to reports in political circles that Premier Blum is considering a speedy "alignment" of economic money.

Sir Frederick Leith Ross, economic adviser to the British Government, talked with Blum and French Finance Minister Vincent Auriol, last week, diplomatic sources said. The conversations were said to have been part of the French Government's efforts to get a promise from Great Britain not to devalue further the pound if the franc should be realigned with other currencies.

Blum, it was said, afterward conferred with Auriol, Economics Minister Charles Spinasse and M. Baumgartner, director of the movement of funds in the Ministry of Finance. Spinasse was said to have reported on his talks with foreign financial experts at Geneva.

The Cabinet meeting scheduled for tomorrow, informed persons said, would be concerned chiefly with a discussion of the French financial situation.

The liner Berengaria sailed from Cherbourg yesterday loaded with 35 cases of gold valued at 21,000,000 francs ($1,365,000) addressed to New York banks.

Early in 1936, a tendency toward accepting the franc's devaluation as inevitable appeared in French quarters which formerly were hostile to such a measure. Blum has steadfastly opposed devaluation, but financiers have said he may be forced to it.

Government Went to Aid of French Last Year.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—A year ago, the American Government went to the aid of the French through the purchase of gold in Paris. The gold was paid for in dollars, but delivery of the metal was postponed. The dollars, meanwhile, were used to support the franc on foreign exchanges.

There has been a steady flow of gold into this country in recent weeks, of which a major portion has come from France. Between Aug. 13 and Sept. 17, Federal Reserve reports show, gold stocks increased by $101,000,000, which was comprised in large part of imports. The gold shipments from France were attributed by financial quarters partly to uneasiness over French monetary and political conditions. Tuesday, $11,925,000 of gold was engaged for shipment from Paris to New York. This was one of the largest sums engaged for shipment in a single day for some time.

RASPBERRY ICE BOX CAKE

Two cups water
One cup sugar
Two tablespoons granulated gelatin

One pint raspberries (make one cup puree or strained pulp)
Two eggs
One cup whipping cream
One and one-half cups marshmallows

Two dozen lady fingers
One cup chopped nuts
Boil sugar and water 10 minutes. Dissolve gelatin in enough cold water to cover. Add to boiling sugar water. When thoroughly dissolved and slightly cool, add to the beaten eggs. Then add raspberry puree (raspberries forced through a sieve). Place in refrigerator until slightly congealed. Then beat with wire whisk until light and fluffy.

Add next the whipped cream to which has been added the marshmallows, cut in pieces, and chopped nuts. Mix. Line ring mold spring form pan with waxed paper. Line pan with lady fingers split and cut in halves. Place in refrigerator for 12 hours until set. Serve with whipped cream, garnish with a few fresh berries if desired.

SPICED GRAPE JELLY

Three pounds fully ripe concord grapes.

One-half cup cider vinegar.

One teaspoon cloves.

Two teaspoons cinnamon.

Eight cups sugar.

One-half bottle pectin.

Stem the grapes and crush them well. Add the vinegar and spices. Bring them to a boil, cover and cook slowly for 10 minutes. Now squeeze out the juice through a jelly bag and measure it. You will need four and a half cups of juice.

Add water if necessary to make up the amount. Measure out the sugar and add to the juice, mixing well. Add the pectin, stirring constantly. Bring back to a hard boil and cook for one-half minute, continuing to stir. Then take from the stove, skim and pour quickly into clean, hot glasses. Seal at once with hot melted paraffin.

POTATO SALAD

Three cups diced, cooked potatoes.

One tablespoon horseradish mustard.

One tablespoon minced onion.

One can sardines.

One-fourth cup relish spread.

Real mayonnaise.

Pepper.

Combine potatoes with mustard, onion, relish spread and salt and pepper to taste. Add just enough mayonnaise to moisten. Chill. Just before serving add the diced sardines. Serve on crisp lettuce leaves.

Cream Substitute.

When just out of cream for coffee, try beating the yolk of an egg until light; then add a teaspoon of sugar and little water. Place a portion of the mixture in cups before pouring the coffee.

STOCK LIST IS NARROWLY IRREGULAR; PACER SLOWER

Franc Tends to Keep Traders Out of Market and Session Is Quiet.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—The stock market has a little nervousness about the foreign situation but lost most of it later and an assortment of issues came back for net gains of fractions to 2 points or so.

Profit taking, at the same time, kept a number of leaders well in the background. The pace was slow after the opening. Transfers approximated 1,150,000 shares.

Fiscal troubles of the French, with concern expressed over the possibility of imminent devaluation of the franc, inspired early selling in most departments.

The list gave ground grudgingly, however, and the lightness of liquidation finally brought buying in several departments, although demand was far from buoyant.

The French currency stiffened when the Bank of France boosted its discount rate as a means of halting the gold outflow. Sterling, on the contrary, fell back sharply in terms of the dollar.

Domestic economic developments helped to offset nervousness caused by the cloudy prospects abroad.

Pressed Steel Car preferred was given a lift of 2 points on court approval of the company's reorganization. Chrysler enjoyed a belated run-up of around 2. Among other prominent performers on the upside were Louisville & Nashville, Atlantic Coast Line, Delaware & Hudson, Westinghouse, U. S. Smelt-Ing, National Steel, Youngstown Sheet & Tube and J. C. Penney.

Those That Improved.

Improvement was recorded by General Motors, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Gimbel, Douglas Aircraft, Western Union, Consolidated Edison, International Nickel, Keystone Steel & Wire, N. Y. Central, Southern Pacific, American Locomotive, Libby-Owens, Fiske Bakeries, Colorado Fuel, Paramount Pictures and Continental Baking.

National Distillers, Schenley and Hiram Walker drifted lower. About unchanged to down as much as a point were Eastman Kodak, American Sugar, Reynolds, John Hancock, Allied Chemical, du Pont, General Electric, Anaconda, Kennecott, American Telephone, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem and Standard Oil of New Jersey.

Wheat pushed up briskly at Chicago, closing with advance of 1 1/2 cents a bushel. Corn was ahead 3/4 to 3/8. Bonds were quiet.

Shares edging forward just before the close included American & Foreign Power preferred, International Silver, Loew's, Allie-Chalmers, Great Northern and Air Reduction.

At mid-afternoon the French unit was up .00 1-16 of a cent at 6.83 1/2, and sterling was down 1 1/2 cents at $5.05 9/16.

Cotton was unchanged at 30 cents a bale in arrears.

News of the Day.

The monetary problem was brought home to Wall Street by official figures indicating the republic's gold holdings, in the week ended last Friday, were depleted about $55,000,000 to the lowest level in five years.

Some brokerage and banking quarters, while generally of the opinion franc devaluation is not far away, advised against hurried selling of equities if such a move eventuates. Many foreign investors were inclined to place constructive implications on revision of the French unit in that it might bring world currency stabilization that much nearer.

In the meantime selected shares received support on increased dividend hopes and the belief earnings of the better situated corporations will expand substantially in the fiscal quarter of the year.

With freight car loadings last week estimated at around 775,000, the largest total for any week, with one exception, since 1930, several carrier issues exhibited resistance at times. The majority, though, sagged along with the rest of the list.

A few merchandising stocks met modest buying on reports retail sales were continuing to push upward.

Bank of France Rate Raised.

Although the French financial crisis, with imminent devaluation of the franc a possibility, held much of the attention, traders did not overlook domestic business items.

Recent diffidence of the utilities, in the face of soaring electric power consumption, was attributed partly to the belief a decision on the power shares sharply in either direction.

The Bank of France advanced its discount rate from 3 to 5 per cent and the franc, in initial New York foreign exchange transactions, moved up .00 1/2 of a cent to 6.83 1/2.

Sterling was 1-16 of a cent higher at $5.05 9/16.

CHURCH VOTES TO CALL OUSTED PASTOR BACK

Presbytery to Consider Petition of Congregation for the Rev.
Jerrie Johnson.

Members of the Winnebago Presbyterian Church voted last night, 275 to 31, to recall their former pastor, the Rev. Jerrie Johnson, who was ousted early this month by the St. Louis Presbytery.

Whether or not the call may be issued will be decided upon by the Presbytery, which has its next meeting on Oct. 12. In the meantime, the pulpit at the church, which is at 3436 Winnebago street, will remain vacant and sermons on Sundays will be preached by supply pastors selected by a commission of the Presbytery.

The move to recall the Rev. Mr. Johnson, who had been pastor at the church for 32 years, was begun immediately after the commission had recommended that he be removed, because of friction in the church, last March. Asked at that time whether the Presbytery would approve a recall, the Rev. Norman L. Euwer, assistant pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church and clerk of the judicial commission, replied:

"It depends upon the vote of the congregation. If it is unanimous, or very nearly so, for recall, then it would be very unwise for the Presbytery to overrule the decision. But if a considerable minority opposed the recall, then the Presbytery would consider very seriously the wisdom of the decision."

Whether or not the 31 votes in opposition represents a "considerable minority" will be the question which the Presbytery will have to decide. At the time when the commission first issued its report recommending the removal of the Rev. Mr. Johnson, he read the report to his congregation and it immediately voted, 225 to 7, to recall him.

A committee of three composed of Joseph S. Keil, treasurer of the congregation, John Galt and Ernest Erler, was picked to appear before the Presbytery and inform it of last night's vote. The Rev. R. Calvin Dobson, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in University City, presided at the meeting.

The Rev. Mr. Johnson was removed, not because of any formal complaint against his ability or character, but because the Presbytery felt that "because of the faction in the church opposed to him it would be impossible for him to do efficient work."

PLEA FOR $75,000 LAWYER'S FEE HEARD

H. G. Stein Wants Sum for Services to First National
Co. Certificate Holders.

The petition of Hyman G. Stein for a $75,000 fee in connection with legal services rendered to participation certificate holders of the First National Co. was taken under advisement yesterday by Circuit Judge John W. Joynt. Assets securing the certificates, which totaled $9,377,503, are in custody of former Gov. Henry S. Caulfield and the First National Bank as co-trustees.

Stein contends he effected a saving of about $1,200,000 for the benefit of the certificate holders, numbering 3347, as a result of his opposition to any reduction in interest. This reduction had been proposed last year at the time a loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation was under consideration.

Former Circuit Judge Rhodes E. Cave, one of the attorneys for the trustees, explained that the proposal specified a minimum payment of interest at 3 per cent and when objection was made the proposal was withdrawn, as it was not essential. The certificates provide for payment of 5 and 5½ per cent. Caulfield testified the work of Stein and other counsel who represented objecting certificate holders had not resulted in increasing the value of the trust estate. However, he said, the assets were worth more than when the trustees took charge in 1933.

Former Circuit Judge Jesse McDonald, called by the trustees, testified that the reasonable value of Stein's service was between $4000 and $5000. Samuel I. Sievers has presented a claim for $15,000 for similar service, while the law firm of Greenfelder & Grand, which also represented objectors, has asked for a reasonable allowance. Joseph H. Grand of that firm said he would not specify any amount.

The certificate holders have received payments amounting to 50 per cent of their investment. The certificates went into default in May, 1933, but later more than 88 per cent of the holders agreed to an extension which expires in 1942.

The Public has a right to know these facts

Have the differences in cigarette manufacture any relation to coughs due to smoking? A group of doctors sought to find that out for themselves.

They made tests with Philip Morris Cigarettes, and cigarettes made by the ordinary method of manufacture.

In 3 out of every 4 cases, smokers' coughs cleared completely on changing to Philip Morris. And watch this: on changing back to cigarettes made by the ordinary method, coughs promptly returned in a large number of cases.*

On such conclusive evidence, you can smoke Philip Morris freely. Smoke them for good taste, as well... for their robust, full-flavored tobaccos.

✓ Philip Morris & Company do not claim that Philip Morris Cigarettes cure irritation. But they do say that an ingredient—a source of irritation in other cigarettes—is not used in the manufacture of Philip Morris.

Paris' Idea of News.
Those Who Die
"Piously."
Worry Everywhere.
The Chicle Trail.

By Arthur Brisbane
(Copyright, 1936.)

"WHAT is truth?" asked jesting Pile, and would not wait for an answer.

"What is news?" is a question more often asked, and the answer given in Paris would sometimes surprise you.

The estimable Paris Figaro prints in perhaps half a dozen lines in small type on the third page, attaching equal importance to the "news" that an estimable, aged French Marquis "decided piously."

Crossing the ocean makes a great difference in news values.

In Paris, by the way, when a member of the extinct "aristocracy" dies, it is customary to add that he or she died "piously."

A "pious" London advertiser who pays to spread the light, prints, at the head of one London Times personal column, these extracts from the fifty-eighth chapter of Isaiah:

"Thy righteousness shall go before thee; the glory of the Lord shall be thy reward. Then shall thou call, and the Lord shall answer; thou shalt cry and He shall say, Here I am."

No text could have been more appropriate for that particular morning, because at the top of the very next column, also personal, this appears: "Ruth—a sorry state of affairs; I tremble to think ahead.—J. M."

It might comfort "J. M." and Ruth to know how many in Wall street and various other American localities feel the same way, and "tremble to think ahead."

Happy and very numerous are those that do not "think ahead," or backward, or in the present, for the reason that they do not think.

Those London Times personal advertisements cost $1.25 a line.

If you chew gum or if you don't, this may interest you. Scientists seeking ancient temples and strange monuments in the dense tropical forests of Central America, where the ancient Mayans lived and built, followed a trail to the chicle hunters.

Those are the men who look for the sap when boiled becomes pure chewing gum. Our hunting ancestors followed the trails of the mammoth through the thick brush. Our archeologists follow the trail of chewing gum. Our descendants will do 90 per cent of their exploring from flying machines, and we do much of it from the air now.

Before C. Harold Smith died in London, he asked newspaper readers to advise him "how to spend $10,000,000 for the greatest possible good for humanity." Whether he spent the $10,000,000 as advised is not known.

In heaven he may be surprised to learn how little difference anything does by anybody on this insignificant planet amounts to in the long run.

It is what we all do together by combined wisdom of the human race that counts. And even that doesn't matter much in the universe that counts our solar system as one of many "cosmic molecules."

It will surprise many Americans to know that in the beginning of the last century, less than 7 per cent of the population belonged to religious bodies. There was much so-called "free thinking" in those days, due to the impetus of the influence of the French Revolution.

Thomas Jefferson wrote to a Mohammedan ruler that the United States was not a Christian country, professed no religion, nor would he facilitate the making of a treaty with the Mohammedans.

CONTRACT according to CULBERTSON

The Disadvantages of Too Much Free-Thinking in Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

It is all very well to be a free-thinker—whether the field be politics, love or contract bridge. Regretation is painful to many of us; we prefer to be wrong using our own ideas rather than right with someone else's.

But two very potent factors should be considered in any such philosophy. The first is the question of degree. Iconoclasm carried to extremes is called by the very blunt name "insanity." And, even if we manage to steer well clear of a padded cell, we may still earn the stigma of "eccentric" if we persist in our desire "to be different."

The second hazard to free thinking derives from the partnership feature of contract. Since a rigidly defined system of one's own is only a little less repugnant than the same sort of system foisted on one by custom or convention, it must follow that a truly free soul at the bridge table, recoiling from the very breath of standardization, must bid only as the spirit moves him. Which is a great joy and satisfaction to the free soul, but a little wearing on the partner!

Outstanding among the points upon which freethinkers and prosaic conformists disagree is the item of "interference bidding."

No one is particularly pleased to pick up such a hand as ♠87653 ♥874 ♣652 ♠8, and it does not make the occasion more festive to hear one's right hand opponent, the dealer, open hostilities with a one club bid. As I have said, opinions differ.

The great majority of us, including most of the so-called authorities, feel that we can't fire a six-inch shell from a busted water pistol; therefore we pass and pray that we'll be let off easily, with a mere game for the opponents.

Not so with the stout-hearted, indomitable minority, subscribers to the "interference" theory! They, simply on the evidence of the dealer's bid and their own washout, brilliantly deduce, first, that the opponents must have a lay-down slam and, second, that they are sure to bid it. That is, they would be sure if let alone, but presto change! they fix that! How? By bidding a spade, and thereby confounding the opponents into believing that the aces, kings and queens they hold are nothing but mirages. Moreover, these magicians are always ready, even anxious, to pour out the tales of how they talked Mr. and Mrs. Dub out of a cinch grand slam by sticking in a bid on a Yarborough. "Why, they didn't even bid for game!"

Somewhat, these sagas fail to impress me. O, I don't doubt that the Dubs stopped short of game, but why should I believe that the interference bid that stopped them? There is not the slightest doubt in my mind that they are the type of players that would stop because they saw their own shadows. Why is it that the victims of the aforesaid feats of magic never happen to be experts, nor even normally aggressive players?

At least, there is a refreshing change here from the technique used in fish stories. When interference bids are proudly described, we are told only about the fish that were landed; the big ones that got away, so dear to piscatorialists, are never even mentioned. And twice better that way! For otherwise we would hear tales of horror that would cause a Dracula to blush!

East opened the six of spades; West's king went to the ace. Declarer then led his low heart to dummy's king; West won and returned the spade jack. North's queen won while dummy discarded a heart, and now six rounds of clubs were run off, which left West searching frantically for safe discards. The search was in vain.

BRIDGE PROBLEM

The bidding (both sides vulnerable):

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	3 spades	Pass
4 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

[South opened with a spade instead of a diamond in order to be prepared for the two most embarrassing responses he could get: two clubs and one no trump.]

West opened the club king. How must declarer play to make his contract? [See solution below.]

Dummy wins opening lead and returns a club, which declarer ruffs with honor. A heart to the queen, East winning and returning a trump [best defense]. Dummy wins and leads another club for declarer to ruff. Dummy's heart king used as entry and club ruffed with declarer's last trump. Ace of diamonds cashed, and then dummy is good except for one losing diamond and one heart.

North	East	South	West
1 club	1 spade	3 clubs	3 spades

What happened to East and West on this hand was not the result of one of those unfortunate misunderstandings between partners that are bound to occur once in a blue moon. West was fully aware of East's predilection for interference overalls, but even after making due allowance, West could not resist doubling on his splendid three suit holding. At the very worst, he felt, declarer would make no overtricks.

Previews of Coming Films For the Week

Joan Crawford in First Costume Picture — Pulitzer Prize Play on Screen.

JOAN CRAWFORD'S first costume picture, in which she wears some 20 outfits with hoop skirts and satin bows, comes to Loew's Theater tomorrow, as "The Gorgeous Hussy," adapted from the Samuel Hopkins Adams' novel of the same name, the story of Peggy O'Neale, tavernkeeper's daughter who became a great favorite of President Andrew Jackson and was a political figure of importance in the Washington of his day. It was in her effort to defend her name that Jackson, who had had experience with Washington gossip in the case of his own life, Rachel, fired his entire cabinet. In the motion picture, Miss Crawford is starred with Robert Taylor, as Timothee, her first husband, and Lionel Barrymore as Andrew Jackson. Franchot Tone appears as John Eaton, her second husband, Melvyn Douglas as John Randolph, James Stewart as "Rowdy" Dow, Alison Skipworth as Mrs. Bessie, leader of the gossips, and Beulah Bondi as Mrs. Jackson. The film, which depicts Rachel Jackson as a drawing Tennessee mountain woman wearing a shawl and smoking a pipe, has created quite a stir in Nashville, Tenn., near which is the Hermitage, the Jackson home. The Hermitage Association, which has for some time glorified the Jacksons' reputation (the original scandal, it will be recalled, arose from the fact that Mrs. Jackson's divorce from a previous husband had not become effective at the time she married "Old Hickory," as Jackson was called), requested that the film should not be shown in Nashville. A board of censors viewed it and passed it, nevertheless. Barrymore's makeup in "The Gorgeous Hussy" gives him striking resemblance to "Old Hickory." A new forehead, a new nose and chin, plus a shock of white, unruly hair obliterate most of the well-known Barrymore characteristics.

The story of "The Gorgeous Hussy" on the screen, parallel to that of the book, is going much farther than the whitewash Peggy O'Neale, depicted her early acquaintance with the Jacksons, Daniel Webster and John Randolph, her brief romance with Timberlake, her love for Randolph and her marriage to Eaton. Robert Taylor, although starred, appears in a comparatively small part of the film.

"CRAIG'S WIFE," new screen adaptation of George Kreely's Pulitzer Prize play, and "Adventure in Manhattan" come to the Fox Theater tomorrow. "Craig's Wife" stars Rosalind Russell and John Boles, with Billie Burke, Alma Kruger, Raymond Walburn and Judith Anderson. The story is that of a woman who neglects the love of her husband because of her foolish pride in her beautiful home. In the end, she loses him and all her friends. Opening in New York in October, 1925, the play became one of the great dramatic successes of the last 20 years. With Crystal Hume as Mrs. Craig, it ran for 300 performances and then went on the road. When a silent picture of it was made in 1928, Irene Rich played the leading role. This version was directed by Dorothy Arzner, Hollywood's only woman director, and has had unusual critical acclaim wherever it has been seen.

"Adventure in Manhattan" from May Edington's story "Purple and Fine Linen," tells of a young detective story writer who guesses the future crimes of a ring of famous thieves, and manages to outwit them and bring about their capture. Joel McCrea is the writer, Jean Arthur a young actress who falls in love with him. Appearing in both "Craig's Wife" and "Adventure in Manhattan" is the noted stage actor — author, Thomas Mitchell. He takes the role of a friend of Walter Craig, in "Craig's Wife," and of an editor, Phil Bane, in "Adventure in Manhattan."

THE Ambassador will have "Stage Struck," featuring Dick Powell, Joan Blondell, Warren William, Frank McHugh and the Yacht Club Boys, with Jeanne Madden, Carol Hughes and Craig Reynolds, plus "Thank You, Jeeves," Jean Arthur's famous butler in fiction. "Stage Struck" backstage musical, puts Powell into the role of a dance director, Miss Blondell into that of the temperamental star of the show and Jeanne Madden is the sweet, young thing seeking a career. Miss Madden, who comes from Scranton, Pa., is another "discovery." After high school in her home town, her parents sent her to New York to study voice, she was taken on as a protegee of the Metropolitan Opera and a movie contract followed. She is 18 years old. Miss Blondell and Powell, whose recent marriage coincided conveniently with the release of the picture, are 27 and 32, respectively. "Thank You, Jeeves," if it proves to be what the studio hopes, will be first of another long series of "character" films, like the Charlie Chan group. Arthur Treacher, six-foot-four comedian, plays Jeeves, the butler. Although a butler during nearly all of his three years in the movies, the English actor comes from a long line of barristers and brewers. His accent, moreover, is an exaggeration for the benefit of American audiences. In "Thank You,

THE Missouri tomorrow will be a Gene Raymond-Ann Southern comedy, "Walking on Air" and a new Perry Mason mystery story with Warren William as the detective. The second is called "The Case of the Velvet Claws," "Walking on Air," from "Count Pete," a novel published in serial form in a weekly magazine, tells how Miss Sothern, an heiress, hires a young college graduate, Gene Raymond, to impersonate a French count and make love to her, so that her father will permit her to marry another man. Henry Stephenson portrays the father with Jesse Ralph as Ann's spinster aunt. In "The Case of the Velvet Claws," William has just married his secretary, Claire Dodd, when he is called into a new case. The action centers around the murder of a broker, who secretly owns a scandal sheet about to expose the romance of his own wife. With its two features, the Missouri will have its usual group of short subjects.

THE Orpheum Theater will take over "Anthony Adverse" from the Fox. With Fredric March as the hero of the Harvey Allen novel, others in the cast are Olivia de Havilland, Claude Rains, Edmund Gwenn, Anita Louise, Donald Woods, Louise Hayward, Akim Tamiroff and Steffi Duna. With the stage show at the St. Louis will be "Girls' Dormitory," second-run film starring Simone

Propriety of Parties for Bridesmaids

Giving Shower for a Maid Unusual, But Not in Bad Taste.

By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post: Is there any kind of party given to the bridesmaids-to-be besides the bachelorette party? Personally I have never heard of giving a shower for the groom, but I'm wondering why his friends might not give such a party for him as well as the bride.

What is your opinion?

Answer: In all the letters I have ever received asking about showers I too have never heard of giving one for the bridegroom. But since the giving of a shower is entirely a neighborhood custom, which varies in each community, I cannot see why a shower for the bridegroom would be out of order at least it doesn't sound unsuitable to me.

Dear Mrs. Post: You wrote some time ago that it would be especially suitable to give a first-year wedding anniversary couple letter paper with their house address on it. I have in mind a couple who will have their first anniversary soon, and as their initials are the same I wondered whether instead of the house address you thought it all right to use their initials.

Answer: If you use perfectly plain small block initials there would be equally suitable for both husband and wife. You could, moreover, if you like, put their initials at the left of the top of the page and the address at the right.

Dear Mrs. Post: I read in yesterday's paper that Mr. and Mrs. Far Away are visiting Mr. A. brother and his wife who live in this town. It so happens that Mr. A. and Mrs. A. are children school friends of mine whom I haven't seen or heard of for many years. I would like very much to go to see them, due to the sentiment I have for the past, but I don't know the brother and his wife and I have no reason to believe that the A's even remember that I exist. I am sure they will remember me however if I write a call, but wonder whether this would be too flimsy an excuse to go to the house of strangers.

Answer: Nothing could be more proper than going to see old friends no matter whether they are staying with total strangers or not. I wrote you I would go by all means. And if you find them you leave a little note on your card reminding them of who you are and where you knew them.

There are a number of girls here and women's organizations where you could have a party, probably especially adapted to trouble for a very small fee. Girls' Club of Christ Church, Methodist Episcopal Church, Memorial, 1210 Locust street, Women's Christian Association, has classes in athletics, and of the high schools, I believe, night classes.

You will need arm and bandage and I have some mild and I will send you if you mail me self-addressed, stamp envelope.

My Dear Mrs. Carr: I would like to know if a neighbor has a right to his car in front of his neighbor's door and leave it there as long as a week. The line smell is very disagreeable.

Perhaps your neighbor is thoughtless. Couldn't you a nice way if they would park a little farther away, in front of their own door?

Really comes to trouble, ask policeman on the beat to help out and let you know what law is about such things. Or might call up the City Hall inquire if there is an ordinance would protect you.

Dear Mrs. Carr: A BOY, am very much interested in aviation. I would prelate all information. There I could call up and get information and training and there to pay for it. HERM

As you live in East St. with the Commanding Officer, Belleville, Ill., or call up aviation Associates, Curtis Field, or Brayton Service, Inc., Lambert St. Municipal Airport, or Park College, East St. Louis, Ill.

Letters intended for this must be addressed to Mrs. Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr answers all questions of general interest but, of course, cannot give advice on matters purely legal or medical. Their letters published may close an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

The return of knickerbockers this season is an indication this type of shoe will have a greater popularity than ever. It is perfectly appropriate for wear with slacks or country suits and is especially favored by those who like long hikes.

How Physical Examination Helps Child

Many Deficiencies of Body Are Revealed in Time for Correction.

By Logan Clendenen, M. D.

THE physical examination which most colleges require before entrance comes at a very important time in the development of the body. The diseases of childhood in general are quite different from those of the adult, and the body in quite a different way than the diseases of maturity. If any latent condition has been present during the earlier period of life, it may then assume proportions where it must be controlled.

One important example of this is posture. At about the age of beginning college the skeleton has completed its development. The bones are first laid down in cartilage. In childhood the middle part of the long bones of the leg and arm have become ossified, but there is a cartilaginous remnant at each end called the epiphysis. The extreme ends of each epiphysis also ossify, leaving a cartilaginous disk between the epiphysis and the middle portion. This disk is very important because it is only here that the bone can grow.

This fact was established years ago by Stephen Hales, an English clergyman, the same man who studied the laws of blood pressure. He drove little silver pegs in the bones of young rabbits at measured distances, and the bones examined at one month, two months and three months. The distances between the pegs remained the same except when the pegs were separated by disks of cartilage.

For this reason surgeons have learned to regard injuries to this part of the bone in people under 20 with great anxiety. At about the age of 17 growth in the long bones is so rapid that bony tissue bridges across this cartilage and destroys it. At the age of 20 growth in the long bones stops and they settle into permanent ossification.

At this age, too, all the muscles and tendons of the body get set, and habits of posture at this age are apt to be permanent. Bad habits can be broken up, in one college with which I am familiar the freshman class exercises in a room lined with mirrors. This is an effective way to correct errors of posture.

Another thing that the physical examination can do at this age is reveal early latent tendencies to tuberculosis. Tuberculosis is a disease which has one aspect in childhood and an entirely different one in adult life. At about the age of 18 to 20 the change takes place. It may progress for some time without showing symptoms, unless detected by some such procedure as a routine physical examination.

Great stress is laid upon the heart examination, but here I do not feel so enthusiastic. Small defects or casual heart murmurs do not mean much in youth, and are liable to be exaggerated by tactless examiners or friends so that athletics are prohibited and a healthy young life restricted to invalidism. Athletics do not hurt young hearts; in fact, are good for them.

But for many reasons a physical examination would be a good thing for any young person of 20, even if not entering college.

Questions From Readers. A. C.: "I understand that liver is good for only one kind of anemia. How can you tell which kind of anemia a person has?"

Answer: The diagnoses of the different kinds of anemia are easy, but require the technical knowledge of the physician. The procedure is first to estimate the amount of coloring matter in the blood—the hemoglobin. Then to count the number of red blood cells and white blood cells under the microscope. And then to examine a stained smear of the blood under the microscope. With this data all in hand the conclusions are simply made.

Editor's Note: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clendenen can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendenen, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Cucumber and Carrot Salad. Cut cucumbers into tiny cubes and place in cold salted water. Grate raw carrots until you have about the same amount as cucumbers. Drain cucumbers, mix with carrots and add one teaspoon grated onion. Marinate with French dressing and keep in refrigerator until ready to serve. Serve on crisp lettuce with extra French dressing.

THOSE "FRAID CAT" CHILDREN

FEAR is most incapacitating and harmful. It causes more unhappiness than any other emotion which mankind is called upon to combat. Fear, or some modification of fear such as caution or anxiety which result in prudence, thrift, forethought and a careful consideration of existing hazards, is absolutely essential to any well ordered existence. As a motivating force behind conduct it cannot be ignored or eliminated.

This emotion may be constructive or destructive in the development of personality. It may be real or imaginary. It may be related to some particular experience or situation in life and be a perfectly normal response. Or it may manifest itself as a vague, generalized feeling of apprehension about life without any specific cause of which the individual is aware.

Fear should be utilized, in so far as possible, as a constructive force dominated by the intellect rather than the emotion. For example, it is of value for a child to fear being run over by automobiles, but to fear being carried away by the "big, bad, bogey man" is destructive.

Children are born without a multiplicity of specific fears about the environment in which they live and the experiences to which they are subjected. It is now believed that with the exception of the fear associated with loud noises and falling, a child at birth is free from fear. Yet one who has studied little children knows that, at a very early age, many children have acquired innumerable fears.

Those fears are the result of their experiences, and represent the individual's response to specific situations. This is not surprising, as fear can be aroused during these early months in imitative, suggestive, plastic children in many vague and intangible ways. Our knowledge is still too limited to safeguard a child against all situations which may stimulate fear. Parents must, however, hold themselves responsible for committing the obvious mistakes which tend to produce timidity in children.

We can think of fears as being divided into two distinct groups: (1) objective, in which the fear is associated with something quite tangible—dogs, lightning, or the ringing of the telephone; and (2) those fears which are subjective, a feeling of terror to which a child gives way and for which the reason is not at all apparent. Without obvious cause, he awakens from his nap screaming, perspiring, "bite as a sheet," "with eyes as big as saucers," his facial expression one of terror. Or perhaps the 2-year-old is afraid of his father when he wears his hat and not at other times. Music, coming either from the radio or the phonograph, may produce a similar result. These subjective fears are frequently spoken of as "foolish fears" because they are beyond the parents' comprehension; but they are very real to the child.

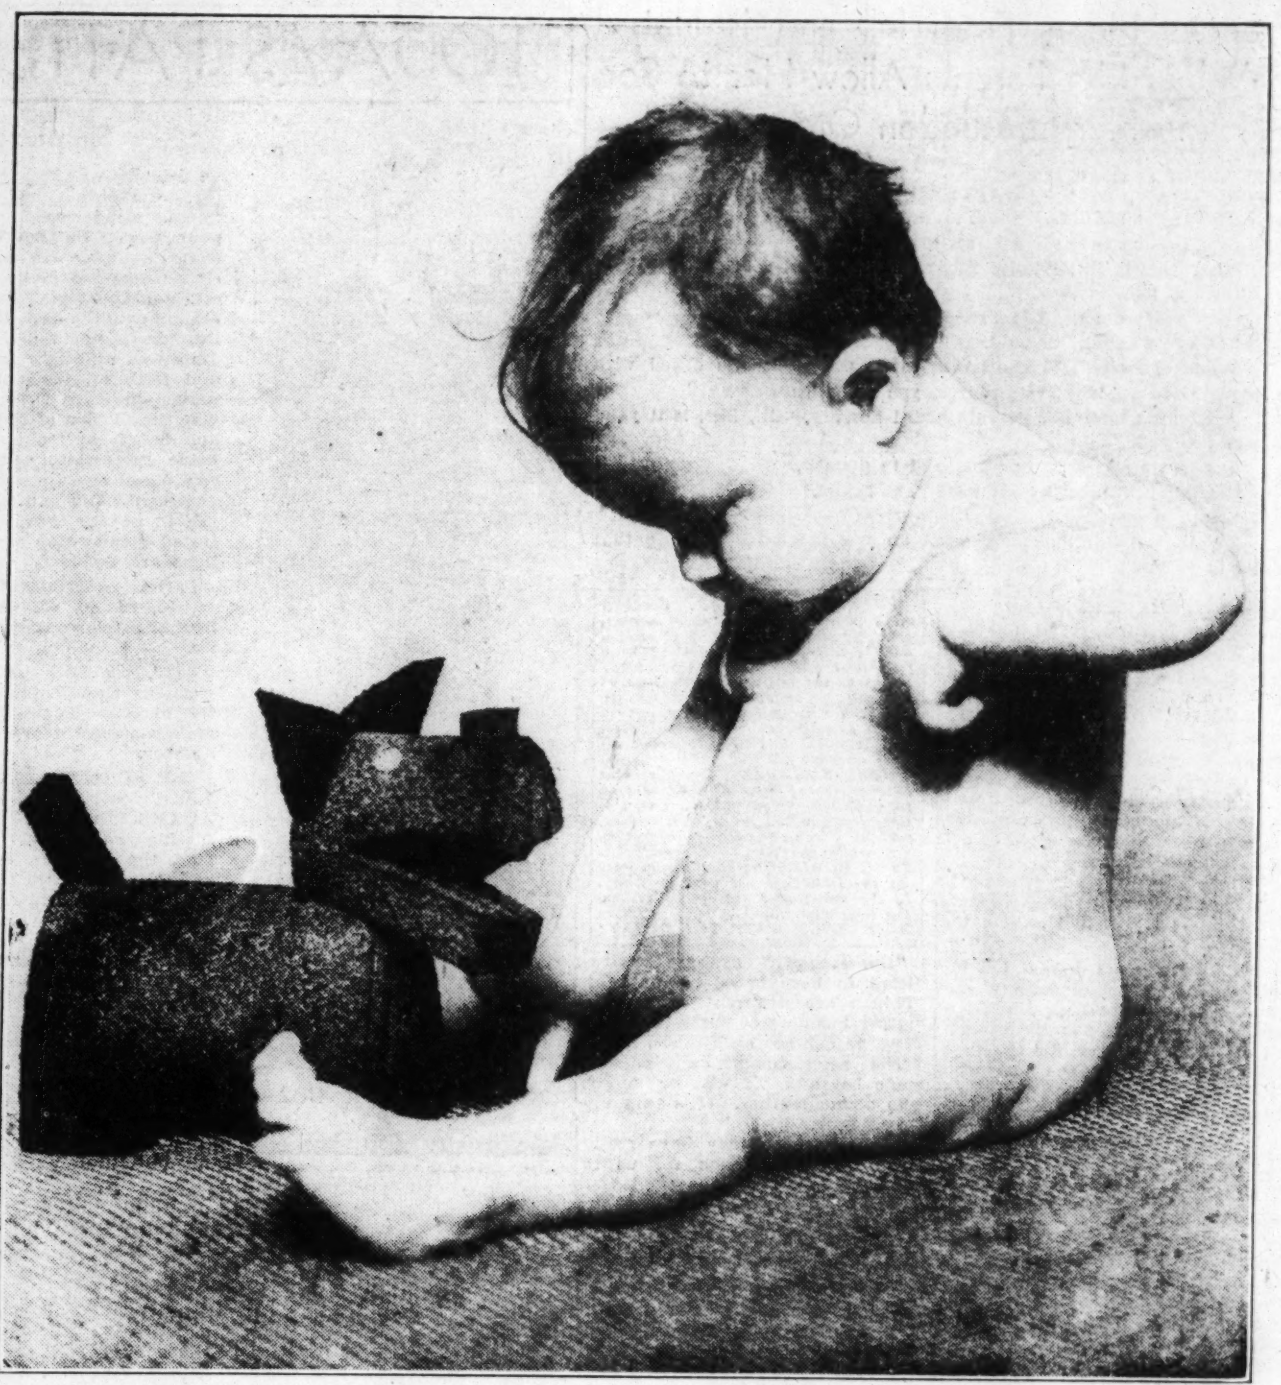

The objective fears are the result of some previous personal experience the child has had. Or they are the result of some witnessed in grown-ups in relation to a given situation. Sometimes the cause lies in conversations which he has overheard and to which his vivid imagination has added much of an emotional nature.

These fears can be overcome only by much patience on the part of parents. They must constantly reassure their child that the fear which he has toward a particular experience is not justified. It serves no useful purpose to subject children forcibly to the thing of which they are afraid. The idea that if they are made to meet these situations they will overcome their fear is erroneous. A frightened child may be made to do certain things by physical force, but overcoming fear is a matter of unlocking the door, not battering it down. One must lead a child away from fear, not punish him with terrifying experiences.

The subjective fears are more difficult to deal with. And not infrequently, parents need help and guidance from those specially trained in solving the emotional problems of childhood. Every effort should be made to determine what there is in the child's environment that is causing the emotional upset—keeping in mind that ideas, as well as situations, create fear.

Good physical health is important. An undernourished, over-fatigued child is apt to be a poor sleeper, restless, finicky, irritable and nervous. He may suffer from a feeling of inferiority and insecurity which is converted into fear during sleep when the conscious controls are no longer operating. A kindly, sympathetic attitude toward these subjective fears is all that is needed. His parents must try to impress a child with the idea that he is understood, or, at least, that an effort is being made to understand him. Punishment, harshness or ridiculing serves only to exaggerate the confusion and fear which the child is experiencing.

The best thing that parents and grown-ups can do for a child who is inclined to be timid, is to help him to acquire a feeling of confidence about life in general and to develop a sense of security. Overcautious, timid children are usually those who are relatively inferior to their associates. Frequently it is life itself they

Sometimes parents create a timidity in children by constant warning which keeps them aware of danger. It is perfectly true that children must learn to be cautious. But if mother continually tells Tommy to keep away from strange dogs, not to play with fire, not to run, to be careful of falling, or if she threatens him with the danger of being bitten, burned, hit by an automobile, picked up by the policeman or junkman, or of not being loved by his parents, Tommy may well develop the idea that he is living on the brink of disaster and at any moment something quite terrible may descend upon him. These warnings may have the desired effect for the moment, but they are in no way constructive as a means of disciplining children or of building character.

Unfortunately, there are always a number of sensitive children who are so concerned by the insecurity which life holds that they develop into unhappy, morbid, pessimistic adults who cast nothing but gloom wherever they go. They live in the shadow of disaster all their lives. Furthermore, these fear-ridden individuals are always evading responsibility, whether it be in relation to their social or business activities. They suffer from a sense of impending failure caused by chronic fear.

Fear as a motive for conforming cannot be depended upon. As soon as the force is withdrawn, the repressions of the past begin to manifest themselves in rebellion and many children are driven into delinquent careers as a method of escape. Others develop a resentment toward all authority which makes it difficult, and frequently impossible, for them to fit into any organized plan of life. Exaggerated fears, built up by a distorted outlook upon life where the personal point of view has become twisted and warped, are frequently associated with, if they are not the actual cause of mental breakdowns.

A child's emotional responses to life, especially those which are inclined to be intense and unpleasant—jealousy, anger, grief and fear—should not be used for the amusement or convenience of grown-ups. These reactions tend to become habitual and so interwoven into the personality of the child that they are never eradicated. Parents would not think of experimenting with the tears, sobs or fears, yet they play upon his feelings, stimulating fear, jealousy and anger, in a most careless, indifferent manner.

In the effort to guide and train children conscientiously, it is not easy for parents to eliminate entirely the use of fear in their discipline. All through life, in most individuals, fear (ranging from mere caution to terror) is a strong and ever present motive for good and wise conduct. Fear of public disapproval keeps many individuals honest and moral; fear of poverty or want tends to make men thrifty; fear of death or sickness makes us careful of our physical being.

So with the child, a normal, healthy desire for approval and a wholesome dislike of punishment carry with them a fear of losing the one and acquiring the other. It is essential for children to appreciate that at home, at school and in the world at large one must entertain a high regard for his physical, moral and spiritual well-being and deep concern about doing anything that would destroy them.

This presupposes that an element of fear regarding a social behavior must be introduced, but it is not the fear that harasses, confuses and incapacitates. It is nothing more than putting a proper value on things worth while and being sufficiently concerned to keep them so. This element of fear is constructive, inasmuch as it is perfectly appropriate and not excessive, and is controlled by the intellect.

There are children who do not seem to be much concerned about their security in relation to other people. They are not affected by loss of approbation, punishment or ostracism. They are difficult children to train. During the early years at home this indifference to approval and utter disregard for authority are first manifested toward the parents. Later it is seen at school and in relation to organized activities; and finally this indifference brings the child into conflict with society. At home he is called difficult; at school he is said to be queer, and society says he is bad.

There is much to learn about this group of children before we can be of material help. Many of them have built up a deep-seated, rebellious attitude toward authority because of disciplines that have been severe and unjust. Others have never had the opportunity during their early years to observe an example that would tend to develop a healthy respect for those in authority or a desire to conform.

Each child must be studied as an individual, not as one of a group, in order to determine the underlying cause for this type of a-social conduct. Fear invariably plays an important part in twisting the perspective of these unfortunate children. They must learn how to meet fear and failure and to know that being thwarted at times is part of life. But he can learn these lessons by meeting the ordinary everyday situations to which he is subjected. If he manages well to survive the penalties which naturally follow the indiscretions of his years, we need ask nothing more. We need not provide artificial barriers for him to hurdle. We should rather help him to overcome some of those imposed by his normal environment. Fear is one barrier that needs kindly, patient consideration from parents.

Butter ramekins well and line with fine bread crumbs. Add one tablespoon finely minced cooked ham and break a raw egg into each container. Cover with one tablespoon cream, season with salt and pepper and cover with buttered bread crumbs. Bake in a slow oven for 20 minutes. Serve in ramekins.

That must have been exciting. I agreed enthusiastically. "After being in the wilds so long, I'll bet you are ready to settle down in old New York for a while, eh?"

Explorer Hoefler shook his head slowly. "Not for very long," he said. "You see, day after tomorrow I'm sailing for Africa."

Most Children Need Privacy Occasionally

Even Healthy and Active Child Feels Want of a Quiet Retreat.

By Angelo Patri

"WHERE is Prissy? Have you seen her about?" "She doesn't want to be seen, I imagine. She is in the clump of old cedars reading a book. Been there for the past hour or so. Why? Do you want her?"

"No. I don't so that I know she is all right. She likes to get away by herself every once in a while and it's good for her. I guess she's used to do it myself. Hid in the attic or the hay loft or climbed a tree. Just so as to be alone for awhile."

Some such privacy is a need most children feel. Some mothers are troubled by it and try to drive the children out to play with the others. "Why are you moping in here by yourself? Just go along now and play with your brothers or sisters."

Children usually seek the companionship of others in their play, but there comes an hour when the healthiest and most active child feels the need of a quiet retreat where he can sit awhile with his dog, or his book, or his thoughts, and be at peace. Let him have it.

In these days of high pressure education this quiet place and hour is required. School days are long and severe on growing bodies. There is much noise, and noise wears down children's nerves amazingly. There are special lessons, language lessons, dancing, dramatics, art, music, all required in time outside school. There are social obligations that must be met. Grandmother must be visited, this one must be seen off on a trip, this one to the hospital, still another has to receive congratulations or condolences, and the children have to do their share always. Otherwise "they would never be forgiven."

Allow the children their precious quiet. Help them to it if necessary. That does not mean that a quiet hour is imposed because it is good for them. Imposition would mean another burden, another worry. Just allow the child to find his own solace in the peace of his spirit.

This is one good reason for keeping all churches open all day. I have seen children, who, as teachers and parents knew as careless, noisy, troublesome young ones, steal away and enter the church to sit in a dim corner and "be still." There is healing in the atmosphere of this place, a quiet healing of the soul. I believe that all churches, of all faiths, should open wide their doors to give sanctuary to weary children. They can be put to no better purpose, in my opinion.

This is the special need of city children. In the country there are inviting places standing ready for those who care to go to them. The shade of the hemlocks, the bank by the river, the old orchard and the back pastures where the nut trees line the gray stone walls, are havens for country children. But where can city children find peace?

In all our providing for youth, we have neglected this important provision, the place for quiet meditation and cultivation of the inner strength that is the spirit. Maybe something can be done about it this coming season.

A New Yorker Relates Bits Of Adventures

By George Tucker

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.

THERE was a lecture by Jean LaVoure in the Village about some missing murals, and I drifted in to hear what that exciting adventurer had to say. But the lecture was in French, so I drifted right out again and went over to the Explorers' Club, in Seventy-second street, where Paul

L. Hoefler had just checked in after a year in India.

"How was Mother India?" I asked him.

"Great," he declared, "and not at all what one would suspect. We were fortunate in being the guests of India's most powerful Maharajahs, and they went out of their way to help us get what we wanted. You see, we were making pictures, and there are parts of Indian philosophy and life that white men have never been permitted to witness. For instance, we secured some excellent shots of the Faithful at Prayer in the sacred Hindu and Mohammedan mosques."

"The Maharajahs honored us with special military reviews of their private, and let me assure you, powerful armies. Each detachment of men was headed by an elephant, and the jewels adorning the beasts' heads were estimated in value at a quarter of a million dollars."

"ONE of our most exciting experiences was negotiating Rajputana, which the natives call 'The Land of the Princesses.' This is the barrier between the millions of South India and the fierce, warlike tribes of the north."

"One met with a lot of violence and misery, of course, but the impression carried away by most observers is that India is the world's last great frontier of pagantry—gorgeous palaces and shrines, mystics and yogis, the calm tranquility of the religious sects, the turbulent, rowdy tribes of the Rajputi, the fighting and the dancing, the bright color and red dust."

"One of the sights I'll never forget was the fanatical prayer to the Sun God in Jaipur. They let us film it. Then we saw the famous camel corps of Bikaner, a private battery of thousands of mounted camels which is retained especially for the use of one man, the Maharajah of Bikaner."

Puddle Muddlers Have Good Time At Their Feast

By Mary Graham Bonner

THEY ate in silence for quite a while and Willy Nilly rejoiced to see their eyes smile as their mouths were so busy. "The person who discovered food was really a discoverer," growled Jupiter Bear.

"No one discovered food," said Christopher Columbus Crow. "Now I discover things, and I discover where food is to be had. But food was never discovered all of a sudden and all at once like a great discovery."

"Who says it wasn't?" asked Blacky Bear, as he smeared jelly all over his mouth in an effort to talk and eat at the same time. "It stands to reason no one discovered it," answered Christopher, helping himself to some corn.

"Do you suppose people all went hungry for a long time until one person suddenly said:

"Here's an idea! Let's eat! Everyone has always been eating."

"To my duck way of looking at things this talk is very foolish," quacked Mrs. Quacko Duck. "Let's just eat and enjoy ourselves, and let's say that eating is fun."

"Mrs. Quacko has the right idea," barked Rip, the dog, as he came across a big bone with lots of meat on it.

And now all the Puddle Muddlers continued their feast, but from time to time a quacking voice was heard to say:

"Eating is fun."

Or a bleating, or cawing or cackling or barking or growling voice was heard to say:

"Eating is fun."

And every once in a while Willy Nilly said, too:

"Eating is fun." As far as this was concerned, every one agreed with every one else in Puddle Muddle.

Fresh Grease Spots
Fresh grease spots can be removed from a rug by first covering the spot with blotting paper and applying a hot iron. Cover with magnesia, let remain 24 hours and then brush off. If we would only get right to it and remove grease stains as soon as they are discovered, so many things would clean up beautifully that otherwise will never look the same.

Cleaner Hampers
Clothes hampers and baskets should get their fall scrubbing just like everything else in the house. Hot soap and a scrubbing brush will make them look like new. Then after you are through with that, why not give them a nice coat of paint?

New York as Viewed With Feminine Eyes

Autumn Brings Liveliest Season—"Miss Liberty's" Birthday Is Near.

By Alice Hughes

(Copyright, 1936.)
HERE we are about into autumn, and from now until Nov. 1 this town will be at its very finest. Now, with the sunshine so bright and the sea-breeze air so clear that you can see almost to the Azores from the top of the Empire State Building, Gotham is really glamorous and vivid. Even the harassed citizenry loses that strained look which is the hallmark of the Manhattanite.

Theaters and night clubs pop open like a string of firecrackers, Madison Square Garden opens its doors to the sportsmen, florists begin to lay in "mums for the football girls, and the stores are caoophonous and jammed with eager sisters snapping at new raincoat. Whatever its flaws and drawbacks at other times, at this period of the year New York is truly one of the world's great towns. If you're planning a visit, do try to make it in October. You'll see us at our best. In January, of course, we try to give the place back to the Indians, but they won't take it.

KATHARINE BRUSH addicts will be glad to know that this "colorful scribe" is putting the finishing polish on a new book of long short stories. She lives and works in a huge modernistic apartment with her present husband, Banker Charles Winans, and a 14-year-old son, Tommy Brush, by her first marriage. In her two-story living room hangs a seven-foot portrait of herself, wearing a black dinner gown. Kay is a bit embarrassed by this heroic picture, but her men folks won't have it moved. "Young Man of Manhattan" was the book that made her famous. People used to say that the hero was modeled from Dick Vidmer, who broke into newspaper business writing sports in Washington, and is now on the Herald Tribune here. This Kay denies. She says he was a composite portrait of several bright young men of journalism. Well, Katie, like mother, knows best!

ONE of our most prominent spinners will celebrate her fiftieth birthday on Oct. 28, and already a hundred civic groups are getting set to honor the old girl with band music, red fire and orations. She's Miss Liberty, who has stood on Bedloe's Island in the bay all these years holding up the torch, saying howdy and bidding good-by to millions. We take her for granted, but thousands on the Lower East Side still regard her as a symbol of every American ideal of liberty, equality and fraternity. I made a trip over to see her one hot afternoon in July and can report she's looking mighty fit—all joints holding together.

The glamour girls went mad during international polo matches, the objects of their attentions being the rich and handsome young bachelors of the Argentine team. Roberto Cavanaugh and Luis Duggan, whose families own more beef cattle than there are in Texas, I shouldn't wonder. I always get a bit startle at these good old Irish names attached to Argentines, but their forebears went to South America many years ago and began to sew up the cattle business, and now the boys are real Latins from Londonderry.

Times Square is made richer by the arrival of the stately and beautiful Helen Gahagan, who is being starred with High-Hat Hooper Clifton Webb in a Theater Guild drama. Helen now spends much of her time in Hollywood with her movie actor spouse, Melvyn Douglas. . . . I waved good-by to the other day to Margaret Sparks, the fine radio singer, off for a brief European holiday before starting her season's trilling. Also on the Normandie, that trip, was big Alan Hale, the movie actor.

The style hounds are still bemused with wine colors, and the other day I dropped in on a very snooty fashion show on the avenue devoted entirely to clothes in various shades of the fruit of the vine. They were lumped under the general head of "Grape Harvest Colors." In the accessories, they combined the brown of grape stems, the green of the leaves and the blue of the fruit. It was all so darned autumnish that I shivered and sent for a heavier wrap. And the duds, I may add, were very beautiful and seasonable.

A Limited Income
Buying furniture for the new home on a limited amount of money is very difficult and often puzzling. The best plan is to buy just the necessary pieces of furniture, but buy good pieces. Then more may be bought from time to time. If the house is small the same type of furniture could prevail throughout so that changes could be made in placement when a new member arrives.

On cold, damp mornings, warm the flour for mixing bread.

Diets
So often the young girl of today is so afraid of getting stout that she goes on absurd diets that undermine her health. If your daughter is inclined to be stout and you can see the justice of a bit of dieting, take her to your physician and get him to prescribe a diet that will be reducing and at the same time keep the girl in fine health. A self-imposed diet at this age is dangerous.

Fill Up the Cracks
Before giving the painted walls a coat of paint, be sure to fill up any small cracks which may have come to the surface. There is a plaster on the market for these small jobs similar to plaster of Paris but it takes longer to harden and therefore is more easily applied by the amateur.

Bring LIFE, LUSTRE and COLOR to YOUR HAIR—this harmless, odorless vegetable rinse will do it

Attractive hair can be made doubly beautiful by giving it lustrous, gleaming highlights. And dull, faded, streaked hair can now be made radiant and colorful. . . . without risk of harm to the scalp or hair, without a lot of trouble and fuss. . . .

HOW? By using Lovalon after each shampoo. Lovalon is the hair rinse approved by Good Housekeeping Bureau and used by beauty shops throughout the world. Lovalon does not dye, does not bleach—affects the hair in no way except to make it more beautiful. And certainly Lovalon is cheap enough to use—five rinses cost but 25 cents!

Try Lovalon. It takes but a minute to use. And you will be amazed at the sparkle and silken softness it gives your hair. Lovalon comes in twelve shades. Get the 25 cent size Lovalon at any drug or department store, or a trial size at any ten cent store. Or, have any beauty shop give you a Lovalon rinse.

GIVES STOCKINGS 50% TO 100% LONGER LIFE, SWEAR WOMEN!

MAKES SILK PRINTS, WOOLENS, STOCKINGS "YOUNG" AGAIN!

Miss Nadine Parker gives startling testimony before Notary Public Boyle

Miss Lottinville under oath

Delighted Women Take Oath—Tell about Amazing New Suds Discovery!

A NEW . . . an utterly different . . . suds. Fine things washed in it look amazingly better . . . never . . . "younger." Soap-washed silk prints you thought faded get shades brighter . . . woollens fluffier. And stockings, say women who kept careful count, wear an average of 90% longer.

It sounds like a miracle . . . almost unbelievable . . . so we asked a number of women to take a solemn oath before telling the things Dreet had done for their garments.

This is what one of them, Miss Nadine Parker, says: "Some friends and myself kept count of how long silk stockings lasted when washed in the best fine fabric soap flakes and how long when washed in Dreet."

"Well, it was astonishing—all of us found that Dreet-washed stockings lasted much longer. It seemed that stockings washed in Dreet didn't get runs in them so easily. "I found that my stockings lasted nearly twice as long when I used Dreet as when I used soap. And the difference in appearance of Dreet-washed stockings is almost unbelievable—they stay so much richer looking and newer."

Signed: Miss Nadine Parker, 6843 St. Lawrence Ave., Chicago. Witnessed Under Seal, James Boyle, Notary Public

Miss Eileen Lottinville testifies: "I found that my silk stockings washed in Dreet lasted 120% longer than when washed in soap flakes. And it was marvelous how much better they looked, too."

Dreet is different. When you use it look for these three things:

1. Dreet makes suds as easily in hard as in soft water. 2. It never forms soap scum, that nasty, unpleasant "ring around the washbasin." 3. It completely dissolves almost instantly in cold water . . . leaves no annoying soap particles to catch in your garments. Anything that's safe in water is safe in Dreet. Try Dreet under our double-money-back guarantee. Don't wait. Get the large economical package from your dealer today. Procter & Gamble, Cincinnati, Ohio.

THE NEW SUDS FOR STOCKINGS.
© 1936, Procter & Gamble

MAKE THIS TEST

Take a pair of "clean" soap-washed stockings from your drawer. Wash just one of them in Dreet. Then compare it with the other. The Dreet-washed stocking will look younger and richer. The other will seem old, gray and "cottony looking" in comparison.

5 times more suds than any soap flakes in hardest water

"Watch your own complexion grow lovelier every Day"

SAYS THIS DELIGHTFUL NEW YORK BRIDE

NEW YORK, N. Y.

I want to thank Camay for keeping my skin soft and clear. When you use Camay you can watch your own complexion grow lovelier every day.

Sincerely,
(Signed) LORRAINE JAFFEE
(Mrs. Wilton Jaffee)

August 31, 1936

WHAT a stunning picture—lovely Lorraine Nevene in her bridal veil!
She's Mrs. Wilton Jaffee now, one of Manhattan's most attractive summer brides. A tall and stately brunette with eyes of fascinating green—and an exquisite complexion that's delightful to see.
When she talks of skiing in the winter and sailing in the summer sun, you wonder how she can possibly keep her skin so radiant and smooth. Her answer is,
"Camay—several times a day."

Everywhere—girls who are getting married seem to agree upon their favorite beauty aid—Camay. You will find that Camay's gentle cleansing will bring out the natural beauty of your complexion.
You'll feel refreshed as the stimulating little bubbles of its bland, fragrant lather give your skin a deep, thorough cleaning. And soon you'll see your complexion take on a smoother, brighter, younger look, for Camay really works to give your skin softer, clearer, more transparent texture.

One major reason Camay has this almost magic effect upon your skin is because Camay is milder. Tested in laboratories and on women's skin, time after time, Camay has been proven milder than other leading beauty soaps.

Start today to see how this favorite beauty aid of lovely brides can improve your complexion. Buy a half-dozen cakes of Camay from your dealer today. You'll be amazed at its low price.

The Daily Short Story

Let's EXPLORE Your MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.

See Whether His Opinions Agree With Your Own

AUTHOR'S NOTE: These answers are given from the scientific point of view. Science puts the rights of organized society above the rights of individuals.

1.—There is no really accurate evidence with which to settle this question. Divorced men who have been the chief cause of the divorce do not usually make good husbands for anybody, although there are notable exceptions—very notable. The same, of course, is true of divorced women. However, I do not think one marriage experience helps much in preparing for another, as it is with a different person, with different qualities and habits and the like.

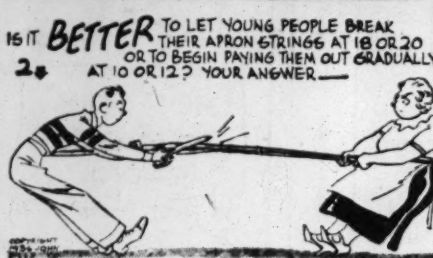

2.—Neither one. Parents should begin paying out the child's apron strings the day it is born. In the name of all common sense what is the object of having parents at all? Why, simply to have sufficient intelligence to see their one and only duty is to help develop their children into strong, self-reliant, self-controlled adults who, in time, can stand on their own feet, direct their own lives and, in turn, do the same thing for their children.

3.—The only evidence I can find on this point is related in a fascinating little book by the Better Vision Institute of New York, "Why We See Like Human Beings." In one of the wonderful pictures made by the

Good Likeness

By Douglas Cronin

THE taxi moved along swiftly, headed for the water front. In the rear compartment sat John Davis Randall, banker. A big man, about 50, well groomed, dignified, handsome. A cigar was in his mouth. A expensive pigskin suitcase was on the seat beside him, a cowhide bag on the floor.

Soon he would be at sea, bound for Hawaii. A business trip. He had suggested it himself. A visit to the Honolulu branch. An excellent suggestion. It was easy to combine business with pleasure in Hawaii.

The taxi drew to a halt at a stop signal. In a mild way, under his breath, John Randall cursed the signal. All signals. He sighed impatiently. But no matter. There was still ample time.

Abruptly, after an idle glance through the side window, the eyes of John Randall widened.

A man, tall and shabbily dressed, had stepped out of the small pawnshop on the corner. There was a look of bitterness on his face—as if he regretted deeply the loss of what he had just pawned. Now he was walking down the street.

Soon he would be lost in the crowd. The signal changed to GO.

"No. Wait. Not yet," John Randall was speaking to the driver, but his eyes were fixed intently upon the shabby man, trying to follow him through the throng on the sidewalk. His voice, usually well under control, was charged with excitement. "Take the luggage back to my office. I'll have to get another boat. Here."

He thrust a bill into the driver's hand, then opened the door and stepped out. As he reached the curb, he saw the man disappear into a cheap restaurant in the middle of the block. He sighed with relief. Recovering most of his calm, he moved quickly along the sidewalk.

At the door of the restaurant he paused, looked in through the glass. The man in the shabby clothes was seated at a table in the corner. John Randall stood beside the man, hesitated, then suddenly dropped a hand upon his shoulder.

On the instant the thin, shabby man glanced up. His eyes, sunk deep in his lean, hard face, peered for a moment into John Randall's features, then swept his entire length with a long, staring glance.

John Randall smiled. "Don't worry, Dave. It's me, all right. Your brother John. God! After all these years! I saw you from my taxi! You were coming out of that pawnshop on the corner."

"You'd better calm down, fella," the man interrupted in a hoarse voice. His thin, unshaven face was without expression. "And lay off that 'Dave' stuff. You must be drunk. My name ain't that and never was. I'm Sam McKean."

"What? Sam McKean? Why, it can't be!" John Randall drew out a chair and sat down. He gazed fixedly at the man across the table. "You're Dave. Dave Randall. My brother. Don't you think I know?"

"Don't you think I know?" the man returned with a wry grin. "You—you don't know me?"

"No." The man seemed bored, impatient. He turned his head as if searching for the waiter. John Randall sighed, bewildered. In silence he studied the man's profile. Certainly. This was Dave. He felt sure of it. It had been a long time. Thirty years, in fact. But one cannot forget a brother.

Thirty years ago, John remembered it clearly. A poor family living in Dayton, O. He had been 22. Dave had been 20. A proud, headstrong youth. They had been inseparable friends as well as brothers. Then suddenly, unable to endure a long period of joblessness, Dave had run away. To New York perhaps. Or Chicago. He left no word. They never received one.

JOHN RANDALL leaned forward anxiously. "But maybe you don't remember your name?" he suggested. "Your home? Your youth?"

The man laughed. A queer laugh. "Sure. I told you my name. Born in New York. A big family—how could I forget it—with eight kids? The old man booted me out when I was 12. Been a bum ever since. And expected to be one when I kick off. Any objections?"

John Randall continued to lean forward over the table. The man's features seemed to grow more and more like his brother's. It was almost impossible to believe otherwise. "You're sure of all this?" he asked in desperation. "Positive? You're not Dave Randall? If you are I want to help you. I've got money. Plenty of it. I can."

A pause. The waiter approached, placed food on the table, then left. The man began to eat, rudely ignoring his questioner.

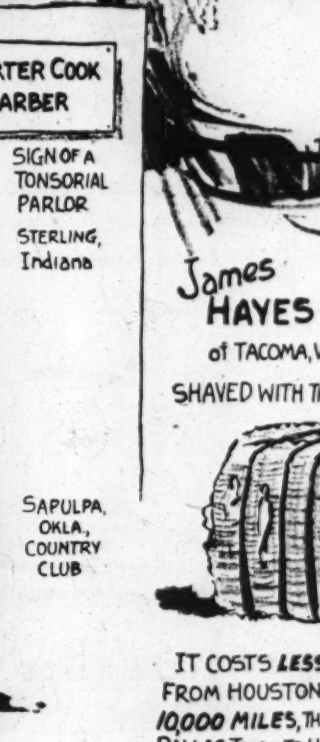

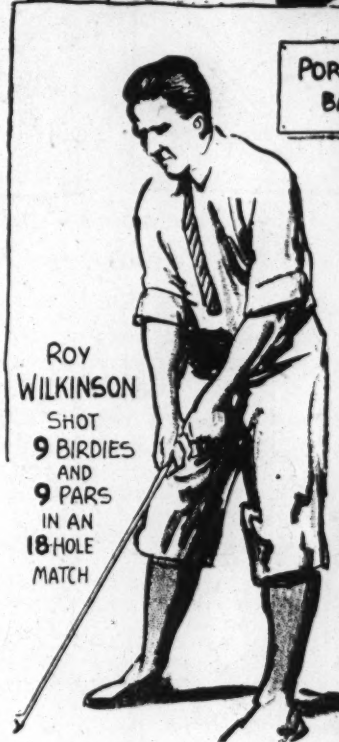

John Randall leaned forward. He placed a greenback beside the man's plate. "Here. For your trouble."

"No, thanks." The other looked up, his mouth full of food, and shook his head. "No, thanks, fella. I—Abruptly he stopped, then smiled. He picked up the bill, slipped it into his pocket. "Well, sure. Why not? Thanks." Again, rudely, he fixed his attention on the food.

John Randall turned and left. Yes. He had been a fool. Had missed the boat. But the resemblance—it had been impossible to overlook. And he could get another boat in a day or so. Of course. A taxi approached. John Davis Randall hailed it. . . . Sam McKean finished his meal, left the restaurant, and returned to the pawnshop on the corner. As he stepped inside he was reaching for

ST. LOUIS MEN
say: "This Apple Pie is Tops!"

—and its "Sprycrust" is as easy to digest as plain bread

EVERY man who tastes this pie says it's one in a million! Every woman begs for the recipe. Juicy amber apples with a marvelous spicy tang. And a golden brown crust that's sheer perfection, so tender and flaky, so light and delicate a breeze could blow it away!

Easy to make in a jiffy with Spry, the new, purer ALL-vegetable shortening.

Spry is smoother, whiter, creamier and so pure it stays fresh right on the pantry shelf.

No need to keep in the ice-box. Thus Spry is always soft and easy to cream. It cuts into the flour so easily when you're making pastry. No wonder your pie crust is so tender and flaky—your cakes and biscuits far lighter and more delicate.

Spry is a grand improvement for frying, too. No smoke or unpleasant odor. Foods fry deliciously crisp and brown and tasty. And they're as easy to digest as if baked or boiled. Try Spry today.

SPICY APPLE PIE

8 large tart apples, sliced thin
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1/4 teaspoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon butter
1 recipe Spry Pie Crust

Roll 1/4 of Spry dough 1/4-inch thick and line 9-inch pie plate. Fill with sliced apples. Mix sugar, spices, salt and lemon juice. Sprinkle over apples. Dot with butter. Moisten edge of pie crust with water. Roll top crust, cut a few slashes in center for steam to escape and fit over apples. Seal edge of pie. Bake in hot oven (425° F.) 30 to 40 minutes.

SPRY PIE CRUST

Flaky, tender, digestible

2 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup Spry (the digestible shortening)
6 tablespoons cold water (about)

Sift flour and salt together. Add 3/4 of Spry and cut in until mixture is as fine as corn meal (so much quicker and easier with ready-creamed Spry). Add remaining Spry and continue cutting until particles are size of a navy bean. Sprinkle water, 1 tablespoon at a time, over mixture. With a fork, work lightly together until a dough is formed.

NEW YORK CITY started something when it honored its taxi drivers this summer. Police Headquarters gave them medals and cash for meritorious conduct in preserving a neat blend of law and order.

When you come to think of it, 20,000 taxi jockeys ain't a bad army to have on your side. Like the three wise monkeys of Japan, they see all, hear all and tell the teacher.

We'll take the case of George Winnick who drove a covered wagon on the metropolitan rabbit runs. George left his taxi to help a blind man across the street. Coming back George was struck by another motor car and killed. You can't square things like that with money, but Police Headquarters wanted his family to have something more concrete than fine words. Headquarters gave $250 to George's sister, Martha.

Guess we know about every taxi driver in New York and there ain't one that isn't a good man. The same goes for the cops, even though they do give the boys the worst of it once in a while. But anybody is going to be short-tempered after eight hours on his feet.

Citations and cash ain't bringing anybody to life again. But it shows that the sacrifice has been appreciated and the cops realize that a taxi driver has to carry any passenger who has the price.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 24.—Paul D. Peacher, City Marshal of Little Rock, Ark., was indicted by a grand jury here yesterday for violating the anti-slavery law of 1866.

He is alleged to have forced labor for his cotton farm, the false arrest of eight Negroes, the cotton choppers' strike in Arkansas last May. The indictment charges he forcibly detained the Negroes before Mayor Mitchell at Earl May 19, and accused them of vagrancy, of the Negroes, the charges, "wrongfully and maliciously sentenced" for 30 days to Peacher's "complete control and custody."

Peacher was ordered arrested and was set at $5000. He would surrender on the cap refused to comment on the trial was tentatively November.

The law under which Peacher indicted, provides maximum fines of $5000 fine and five imprisonment.

Result of U. S. Investigation

United States District Attorney Fred Igrig said the indictment the result of investigation of ports of peonage in Eastern Arkansas. The Southern Tenant Farmers Union sponsored the charge and led in demanding an investigation.

Igrig joined with Gordon, special assistant to the U. S. Attorney-General, and P. Shanahan, attorney criminal division of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, who in charge of the inquiry, in announcing that steps had been taken to protect all witnesses from intimidation.

The investigation involved ports of 20 to 25 Negroes railroad trumped-up charges," said. He announced that he notified all witnesses appearing before the grand jury to report him any threat of intimidation and he also had discussed this case with Mayor T. S. Earl and A. B. Cartwright, Crittenden County Deputy Sheriff at Earl.

"I notified Mitchell and to go back home and tell the community they had better see these witnesses are protected," Igrig said.

Igrig said the grand jury found "no other violation any in Eastern Arkansas of the statutes on peonage."

"Thorough investigation of trained men has been in throughout Eastern Arkansas numerous occasions," he continued. "Every rumor, every witness, possible hint of peonage has run down and we cannot trace of a law violation."

"We have a statement signed H. L. Mitchell, secretary of Southern Tenant Farmers' Union, saying that he knows of no law violations."

"The Peacher case is the one we could find."

County Grand Jury's Denial

Only a few hours before the grand jury completed its term, the Crittenden County grand jury returned a report denying the peonage existed in its district. Miss Willie Sue Blagden, a worker of Memphis, who charged the Rev. Claude C. Williams had been invited to a dinner at Earl last June during cotton choppers' strike, did not appear before the Crittenden County Grand Jury.

E. J. White, grand jury foreman, said Miss Blagden and the Rev. Williams had been invited to a dinner but did not show up. Miss Blagden, at Memphis, said she was waiting for any such invitation.
